Strathalbyn feeling fair fever

By Sara Gilligan

Dressed in period clothing, Antique Bazaar's Henningsen brothers took to Strathalbyn's cobbled streets over the weekend to promote the town's treasured fair.

Looking the part, Charlie, 8, and Archie, 6, helped spread information and excitement for Strathalbyn's two-day Antiques and Collectables Fair coming up in August.

Hard-core antique collectors and upcyclers will enjoy rummaging for bargains and unique pieces on Saturday, August 19 and Sunday, August 20 when one of Strathalbyn's biggest annual events returns.

The fair was originally started more than 30 years ago as a replacement for the lost penny-farthing race and a remedy to slow trading and quiet times through winter.

"This year we have several new dealers coming in with different stock, and even though some of the dealers are regular exhibitors, they bring new and different stock each year," Strathalbyn Tourism Association's Linda McLoughlin told The Southern Argus.

"Apart from the fact that it is a great day out in beautiful Strathalbyn, all the businesses and shops are ready to welcome locals and visitors, as are all the dealers in the halls.

"It is a whole-town event and a great opportunity to have a look at and buy something different."

High Street's Town Hall and Coronation Road's Carruthers Hall will be packed to the brim with classic, rare, intricate, fragile, weird, and wonderful antiques, including jewellery, furniture, décor items and all manner of collectables.

A shuttle bus and entry into Gilbert's Motor Museum is included in the $10 per day event ticket price.

The fair will provide the perfect hunting ground for treasure hunters from 10am to 5pm Saturday, and 10am to 4pm Sunday.

On the Sunday, from 7.30am, the popular Treasure Market, run by the local Rotary Club, will also line Strathalbyn oval grounds.

"Come and find things for the home, office and garden and things not everyone is going to have. If you like a point of difference this is where to find it," Mrs McLoughlin encouraged.

"The fair also raises money for local tourism and some of our important community groups."

For more information on the Strathalbyn Antiques and Collectables Fair contact Linda McLoughlin on: 0427 674 620, or for Sunday's Treasure Market contact Craig Maidment on: 0438 166 528.

Historic SteamRanger Cockle Train derailed

A formal investigation is under way into the derailment of SteamRanger's historic Cockle Train between Victor Harbor and Port Elliot on Sunday.

At about 4pm, two of four railcars on SteamRanger Heritage Railway's regular Cockle Train service between Victor Harbor and Goolwa derailed between the seaside holiday towns.

Approximately 30 people on-board the 1950s 'Redhen' railcar at the time were uninjured.

Everyone was safely evacuated, and completed their journey to Port Elliot and Goolwa by road coach.

The cause of the derailment is being formally investigated.

"SteamRanger appreciates the concern from locals and tourists, however, asks interested parties to avoid accessing the derailment site while vehicle recovery and track repairs are undertaken," SteamRanger wrote in a Facebook statement.

"Updates regarding the operation of the historic Cockle Train while recovery is undertaken will be provided via the SteamRanger website or social media channels."

New CFS appliance firing on all cylinders

By Georgina McKay

A new truck has found its home at Ashbourne's Country Fire Service (CFS) station, and will better protect volunteers and equip the brigade with enough water storage for emergencies without needing immediate support.

The brigade received its new 14 appliance last Tuesday night, replacing the former 22-year-old Mitsubishi-based vehicle, which had reached the end of its lifespan, sending it to salvage.

Built by Moore Engineering, the new Ashbourne 14 is based on a 2021 Isuzu NPS 75-155 chassis, and comes fitted with an HM24 motor/Darley 1.5 AGE pump, driving lights, Engel fridge, Stihl chainsaw, in-cabin breathing, halo system, and the capability to carry 1550 litres of water compared to the previous truck's 750.

Ashbourne CFS Captain Rob Crase said the newest addition will better service and protect the town's growing community.

"It's just better fitted out and it gives us more water to be able to last," he said.

"(Previously) we had to wait 20 minutes before Strath trucks got out to us, (but) we've got two trucks with this capacity now, which will leave us in a situation where we can survive before a bigger truck arrives.

"It's just an evolution that's come along built around the safety of the guys that are in them."

The brigade is always looking for new members.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer may contact the station on 8536 6104 or attend a Tuesday night training sessions.

Works on the new OTR retail fuel outlet at Lot 508 Braemar Drive Strathalbyn are expected to commence late 2023/early 2024.

On The Run still on the way

By Sara Gilligan

Strathalbyn's 24/7 On the Run (OTR) service station is reportedly still going ahead despite the family-run chain's recent sale.

Australian service station giant Viva Energy – known for Coles Express, Shell, and Liberty fuel stations – purchased the OTR retail chain in a deal worth $1.15 billion in April.

However, the deal is still subject to the approval of the Foreign Investment Review Board and the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC).

Nevertheless, an OTR spokesperson told The Southern Argus Strathalbyn's OTR station development, situated at Lot 508 Braemar Drive, is moving forward.

"The development is still going ahead and is currently in detailed design," they said.

"Works are likely to commence on site late 2023 and early 2024."

Strathalbyn's OTR will include three fast-food outlets (including one with a drive-through), a six-bay car wash, eight fuel pumps, dog wash facilities and 44 car parks.

A mix of 25 to 35 full and part-time job positions are expected to be created upon completion, with an opening date yet to be announced.

The Southern Argus, March 23, 2023 edition.

Upcoming community health forum

Local residents are invited to an upcoming community forum on a proposed after-hours urgent care service trial in Strathalbyn.

The forum comes after more than 1000 people recently supported the reopening of the Strathalbyn Emergency Department in a petition launched by Member for Hammond, Adrian Pederick, after it was temporarily closed for three years in response to the COVID pandemic.

The community forum will allow residents to have their say on a proposed after-hours urgent care service trial for Strathalbyn and District Health Service, with the Strathalbyn working group proposing the trial to commence later this year.

Strathalbyn working group members will listen to feedback on this model at the upcoming free forum and understand whether it will meet community needs.

Residents are invited to the forum at Strathalbyn Football Club Rooms next Wednesday, May 31, from 5.30pm to 6.30pm.

Alexandrina Council delivers draft budget for consultation

By Giorgina McKay

Alexandrina councillors adopted the 2023-24 draft budget inclusive of a 7.2 per cent average rate rise on Monday night, but hope to scale it back to five per cent during public consultation.

As previously reported in The Southern Argus, a rate increase of CPI 7.9 per cent minus 0.7 per cent, plus 1.3 per cent from new developments and property was proposed by the Audit and Risk Committee last Friday for Alexandrina Council's draft 2023-24 Annual Business Plan and Budget.

Council is mindful it needs to operate in a sustainable manner, which is why a strong focus was placed on delivering a budget and Long Term Financial Plan (LTFP) that operates with a small surplus over the short and long-term.

To achieve financial sustainability and implement A2040 community strategic plan initiatives, the proposed average annual rate increase is 7.2 per cent plus 1.3 from new developments and property improvements – equivalent to approximately $154.

The CWMS service charge for the financial year will also increase to $690 for occupied and $495 for vacant properties.

At the time of the draft Annual Business Plan's preparation, the State Valuation Office was yet to finalise its overall assessment of regional property assets, however, recent advice from the Valuer General is property valuations across the council area have increased by 14.7 per cent – $10.1 to $11.6 billion – which council is attempting to cushion the impact of by continuing the application of rate capping.

Council believed this is a responsible draft budget that considers the current economic climate, provides for new infrastructure in a growing community, and maintains existing assets in good condition and continued provision of existing services.

“ This is an opportunity for our community to drill down on this budget and maybe look at cutting services, but if they're not inclined, then we go into a deficit, which we can catch up in the following year... ”

– Craig Maidment

“We have listened to the community, and this proposed Annual Business Plan and Budget is a ‘back-to-basics’ budget, with a rate increase less than inflation without reducing services to the community,” Alexandrina Mayor, Keith Parkes, wrote in his budget message.

“It is also a year to complete projects already commenced, and not start any new (ones).”

New operating initiatives totalling more than $2,051,000 have been included in the budget based on council resolutions, legislative requirements and identified risks, including:

- $113,000 for an additional safety officer.
- $25,000 for an Affordable Housing Plan.
- $150,000 for asset revaluations.
- $5000 for biodegradable dog waste bags.
- $10,000 for cat by-law implementation.
- $195,000 for a climate change officer and initiatives.
- $155,000 for community centre funding.
- $50,000 for a Recreation and Sport Strategy and Facilities Development Plan.

Public meeting dates:

- Middleton/Port Elliot: Monday, May 29 from 6.30pm at Middleton Pioneer Hall.
- Mount Compass: Tuesday, May 30 from 6.30pm at Mount Compass Memorial Hall.
- Clayton Bay/Milang: Monday, June 5 from 6pm at Clayton Bay Community Hall. A Dark Sky information session will follow at 7.15pm.
- Strathalbyn and surrounds: Tuesday, June 6 from 6.30pm at Strathalbyn Football Club.
- Goolwa and surrounds: Tuesday, June 20 from 6.30pm at Goolwa Oval Recreation Precinct.

- $91,000 for Signal Point Experience's operation.
- $142,000 for a planning development engineer.
- $75,000 for the Wooden Boat Festival's Goolwa Wharf opening celebration.

Major council projects funded over the next financial year include the Goolwa Wharf Revitalisation Precinct Project, Port Elliot's Freeman Lookout, sealing of unsealed roads, Strathalbyn's streetscape, and Sugars Beach Project.

The draft budget projects an operating surplus of $160,000 – a $905,000 turn-around from last year's $745,000 adopted deficit – and a peak of $48.3 million to council's borrowings in 2024-25, reducing to $9.6 million by the end of the plan.

However, the majority of elected members desired a rate reduction to five per cent and to go into a deficit budget instead to ease further cost-of-living pressures on the community.

“I fully concur on the last three speakers on the 7.2 per cent rate increases being a bit high,” North Ward councillor, Craig Maidment, said.

“Last year, you'll remember (we had) 6.2 (per cent) and there was a huge outcry over that, and people were hurting just as badly then as they are now.

“This is an opportunity for our community to drill down on this budget and maybe look at cutting services, but if they're not inclined, then we go into a deficit, which we can catch up in the following year.”

Mayor Parkes also acknowledged the community's hardship, and noted council would have to ‘pull in’ and deliver a budget with controlled expenses.

“I don't think we're going to find when we do the roadshow people wanting us to cut surplus’ and not do things because we're doing the basic things we're supposed to do and we'd be neglectful if we didn't do them,” he said.

“I think at five per cent we'd be having a negative result – we'd be running at a loss basically – but I don't think too many people in our community are running at a profit.

“Please, when we adopt the budget, don't sit here and say ‘I will not support a deficit budget’ then five minutes later come with a list of ridiculous projects you want done.

“Hopefully, this inflation rate will turn-around, CPI will come down, and we'll be right.”

Community members can have their say on the draft budget via email at (alex@alexandrina.sa.gov.au), mail and online methods from today until June 22, or at budget roadshow information sessions scheduled across the region.

To register attendance, visit (mysay.alexandrina.sa.gov.au/abp2023-24).

Feedback will be presented to councillors in July, with recommended adjustments given prior to the budget's adoption based on the community's wants and needs.

Strathalbyn Town Centre Revitalisation Stage 3, High Street works and Stage 5, Sunter and Swale Street works were recently completed. Major works will be commencing in June at the intersections of Dawson Street with Donald Street and South Terrace. Photo: Tara Nash

Strathalbyn Revitalisation Project progresses

Stages three and five of the Strathalbyn Town Centre Revitalisation Project, which includes streetscape upgrades along High Street and Swale Street, have been completed, creating a more vibrant, pedestrian-friendly environment for the community.

The newly paved intersections, additional pedestrian access points, and improved footpath paving will enhance connectivity, and make navigation easier and safer for residents and visitors.

Added lighting will increase visibility, ensuring a secure environment during evening hours, while the introduction of street trees and garden beds adds to the town's natural beauty, fostering community pride and environmental sustainability.

“The successful completion of stages three and five has paved the way for the ongoing progress of stage four, which aims to breathe new life into the heart of our town centre in Strathalbyn,” Alexandrina Council Chief Executive Officer, Nigel Morris, said.

“To date, we've laid 5300m2 of footpath pavers, and at completion, there will be 6845m2 laid – that's around 76,000 pavers!

“In addition to this, there will be 4200m2 of road pavers laid during the revitalisation project.

“As we continue this revitalisation journey, we are excited to create a vibrant gathering place at the intersection of Catherine Street and Donald Street, fostering community spirit and providing a welcoming space for residents and visitors alike.”

However, Strathalbyn residents have recently voiced safety concerns over raised and uneven pavers around the town, and other issues with the completed streetscape works.

Community members are asked to alert council of an issue or safety concern by downloading the SnapSendSolve app or emailing (alex@alexandrina.sa.gov.au) with images.

Commencing in June, the next stage of works will simultaneously encompass Dawson Street, with upgrades to the Donald Street and South Terrace intersections, including installation of a pedestrian refuge island.

The Strathalbyn Visitor Information Centre will also be upgraded to include new asphalt pavement, an improved stormwater management system, additional lighting, and garden beds to make it more welcoming and accessible.

“We remain fully committed to the ongoing development and improvement of our community, and would like to express our appreciation to the State Government for their support through the Local Government Infrastructure Partnership Program,” Mr Morris said.

“We also extend our sincere thanks to the residents, businesses, and visitors of Strathalbyn for their patience and co-operation during the construction period, as together, we shape a brighter future for our town.

Goolwa Primary School students are thrilled to have a colourful talking point which promotes a no-bullying stance. The mural was created by South Australian artist Gen – also known as Gen + Tonic.

Goolwa Primary students say ‘no’ to bullying

By Giorgina McKay

A splash of colour has made all the difference at Goolwa Primary School. Previous Wellbeing Leader Kieran Read secured a $5000 grant from the Department for Education (DFE) last year for the school’s anti-bullying project, which aims to implement initiatives to tackle the global issue through a series of lessons to support students’ wellbeing and promote positive friendships. Through the grant, the school was able to develop a mural for its gym wall to complement the work being done in the classroom, in addition to being an ‘uplifting, eye-catching piece’ for staff, students, families, and other visitors. Current Wellbeing Leader Toby Medlin, who has seen the project through to its completion, said the mural had already made an impact around the school. “Last year, the DFE put out expressions of interest for anti-bullying initiatives... and obviously, we put in an application around implementing anti-bullying initiatives here at school through the development of a series of lessons to support students and friendships,” he said. “Part of that application was also to have a centrepiece to refer to at the school in the form of our mural. “It’s already been highly utilised by our staff... for example, our classes have already used it when they’re teaching a lesson around

positive friendships and what that looks like, and come out to this space and used (the mural) as a prompting piece. “I know teachers have taken photos of classes to support the lessons they’ve been learning, and sending that home through our different communication channels.” South Australian artist Gen – also known as Gen + Tonic – was engaged to paint the mural in collaboration with students, who voiced input on its colour and design, particularly, the phrase ‘this place has no space for bullying’. In creating the mural – which took about a week-and-a-half to complete – Gen and the school wanted it to be bold, bright, fun and playful, while also delivering the hard-hitting anti-bullying message. “Working with students and getting that student voice, we felt, was very important,” Mr Medlin said. “We workshopped the design with our students, then together with our artist, we’ve come up with the finished piece. “Obviously, students had some very strong ideas and opinions, but we were guided by our very talented artist Gen, who does lots of murals for schools in South Australia and Northern Territory, and she’s come up with this brilliant, bright, happy colour palette for us. “We wanted it to be an eye-catching and uplifting piece, hence the bright colours; we didn’t want it to be something that had any negative connotations to it.” Mr Medlin hoped the mural contributed to the school’s safe and inclusive environment. “We’re wanting and committed to providing a safe, respectable and inclusive environment for every single one of our students,” he said. “Making sure students have strong friendships, and feel safe and connected to our school community is really important to us. “That’s why we put in for the project, and hopefully, (the mural) just further continues and makes our school community a stronger and safer one to be.”

Council funding to keep halls and ovals in tip-top shape

By Giorgina McKay

A coat of new paint, maintenance repairs, and a good scrub-down of the region’s community ovals and halls delivered through Alexandrina Council grant funding will enable committees and caretakers to continue their much-needed work. At council’s March meeting, elected members approved for $17,634 worth of funding in the 2022-23 combined grants budget to be distributed evenly to eligible community-owned and managed halls and/or ovals who submitted an application before the end of April for maintenance, improvement, renewal, or installation of new infrastructure. Funds were increased to $20,634 after Strath Neighbourhood Centre, who received a $3000 Community Wellbeing Grant in December 2022, withdrew their project application. The following successful applicants will each receive $1470 for essential projects: ● Langhorne Creek Historical School: development and production of information boards about the iconic red gums in and around the town in collaboration with students from Eastern Fleurieu School to promote sustainability. ● Mount Compass War Memorial Community Centre: repairs to hall’s back screen door, repainting of main hall kitchen, supper room, and store room and adjacent area, repairs to adjoining door between hall and side office area, and application of a non-slip surface on the front verandah wooden stairs and ramp. Asphalt surface and line-marking will also occur to the oval’s carpark adjacent to the netball courts to make it better, safe, and more organised for patrons. ● Ashbourne Cricket Club: replacement of storage sheds for turf roller and mowers. ● Tooperang War Memorial Hall: preparation, repair and coating of main hall floor. ● Ashbourne War Memorial Centre: remediation of gravel driveway, including pothole filling, building up of road level, and drainage upgrades to minimise flooding impacts. ● Finnis and District Hall Incorporated: kitchen repairs, including replacement of louver windows and underfloor venting, renewal of floor coverings, replacement of the kitchen sink, installation of hot water service and associated plumbing, and replacement of two doors, an entrance and exit. ● Richardson Hall Woodchester: replacement of all ballast-type fluoro lighting with LEDs. ● Langhorne Creek Memorial Park: high-pressure cleaning and general clean-up of outside toilets to make them more presentable, and removal of old, scraggly melaleuca trees at the southern end of the park to reduce insect breeding sites. ● Lake Plains Community Centre: gutter and roof repairs to stop leaking, vermin, and birds. ● Belvidere Soldiers Memorial Hall: replacement of sash windows. ● Strathalbyn Polo & Recreation Grounds: infrastructure improvements to stable block two, including replacement of timber railing. All recipients will be required to sign a grant funding agreement prior to payment, and submit an evaluation and acquittal report upon project completion. Disbursements are expected to be made no later than June 30.

Alexandrina coastal projects to thrive under new funding

Two coastal projects in Alexandrina have been boosted by a combined $80,000 in funding from the Coast Protection Board's annual grant program.

South Australian councils and community groups will share in almost $1.1 million to undertake coastal protection projects, such as beach replenishment, flood emergency planning, hazard assessment, and weed control and revegetation.

In the latest round of funding, Alexandrina Council received a $75,000 Coast Protection Grant for coastal flood emergency planning and community engagement for Murray estuary settlements, while Hindmarsh Island Landcare Group Inc received a $5000 Community Participation Grant to complete the Sugars Beach/Murray Mouth revegetation project.

"South Australians are lucky to live near such fabulous coastlines, and it's important we continue to manage and protect these for future generations," Minister for Environment and Water, Susan Close, said.

"This million-dollar-plus funding provided by the Coast Protection Board will help do exactly that by supporting the delivery of a range of projects across the state to help councils manage their coastal hazard risk.

"South Australia's coastline is the first defence against a changing climate, and the coast is often central to our regional economies."

Maccy arts festival to paint the town

By Tara Nash

A fun picture has been painted to describe Macclesfield's upcoming Creative Pursuits festival, with a full-day of artistic exhibitions, workshops and activities planned.

The family-friendly festival will offer something for all ages and interests, showcasing the creativity of at least 30 local artists next Saturday.

An exhibition will be held at Macclesfield Institute, while a variety of workshops on offer include stone sculpture, writing, garden design weaving, ceramics and photography.

Local singer-songwriters will entertain crowds with original music at Three Brothers Arms open mic.

The day will finish off with a 'meet the artists supper', at the Macclesfield Institute, where attendees and artists can mingle and discuss creative processes while enjoying nibbles, drinks and celloist music.

Co-ordinator Tess Minett is driven to "introduce people to the creative process" and has incorporated "as many creative activities as possible".

"You don't get perfection the first time... it's trying to encourage people to have a go and accept less than perfect," she explained.

"(The creative process) is in that striving and learning how things work, the material, and how it all functions – that's part of the process of creativity.

"A lot of people say, 'I can't sing', because they listen to someone who's a great singer... but what they're afraid of doing is being less than perfect.

"It's not about perfection, it's about the opportunity for everyone to express through a creative process and that's very fulfilling, and that's part of the activation of the human spirit.

"All of us are creative in some way."

Presented by Macclesfield Art Group, a sub-group of Macclesfield Community Association, the event is supported by $1342 of council funding and $9100 of in-kind support.

Macclesfield Art Group member Karin Scholz initiated the idea for the event after dreaming of organising an exhibition, and teamed up with Ms Minett, who has experience as a community artist and arts and cultural officer, and other group members in co-ordinating the jam-packed day.

Creative Pursuits is at Macclesfield Institute and a few other venues next Saturday, June 3, from 10am to 5pm, with an evening supper from 6pm to 9pm.

THE VOICE: Community to discuss upcoming referendum

By Tara Nash

A non-partisan presentation next week will educate local residents on the upcoming 'The Voice' referendum.

Later this year, Australians will have their say in a referendum about whether to change the Constitution to recognise the First Peoples of Australia by establishing an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Voice.

The Voice would be an independent and permanent advisory body, which would give advice to the Australian Parliament and Government on matters that affect the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

An upcoming presentation presented by Macclesfield History Group and supported by Mount Barker District Council aims to educate attendees on The Voice and referendums, from a non-partisan, informative perspective.

The session will be led by Peramangk and Ngarrindjeri woman Courtney Hunter-Hebberman who has a law background, and will include a Q & A panel to discuss attendees' questions.

While Ms Hunter-Hebberman is hosting the session as a concerned community member, rather than in connection to the government, she believed her background would offer an indigenous perspective.

Peramangk and Ngarrindjeri woman Courtney Hunter-Hebberman will lead an educational session on The Voice in Macclesfield next week.

She said the session will be uninfluential, as she wants residents to make their own decisions, and personally, she is "conflicted" and believes "a lot of Aboriginal people are".

"I think the transference of power to 24 individuals that represent all Aboriginal people – we actually have hundreds of different nations," she said.

"The transference of power from cultural authorities to a Western system of governance, personally to me, that is a form of assimilation."

On the other hand, Ms Hunter-Hebberman believes her ancestors fought for a voice.

"My great, great-grandfathers... they had protested to the King in the 1800s at the time, and it's come through the generations," she said.

"My ancestors in a way, they wanted a voice – they fought for this.

"The Peramangk consultations that were done on our country, they were really inclusive... I feel that was done really respectfully."

Ms Hunter-Hebberman also wonders what the election process could look like for Aboriginal people in the future.

"I also look at that us – one of the most incarcerated peoples in Australia – the elements that are required to be met to be elected to The Voice body, will exclude a lot of people," she said.

"We have complex trauma, and excluding people because of complex trauma isolates them even further and that entrenches division."

Ms Hunter-Hebberman encourages residents to be analytic about their vote, to listen to Elders and the community while looking past "marketing strategies".

"We're talking about a voice – Aboriginal people have had a voice for years, it just hasn't been listened to," she said.

"Everyone has a voice, everyone's been speaking up, you see them when they protest and march – there's thousands of them.

"We've been here for millions of years... versus the last two centuries, we've always had a voice but then it was silenced.

"My mother was silenced, my grandmother was silenced, my great-grandmother was silenced.

"In this life, it has been my goal to not be silent – I speak my voice.

"I am now welcomed in these spaces."

The presentation will be held at Macclesfield RSL Sub-Branch this Monday, May 29, from 7pm to 8.30pm.

Maccy morning tea raises thousands

By Tara Nash

A record crowd of more than 180 people attended Macclesfield's Biggest Morning Tea last week, which tipped organisers' Cancer Council fundraising total over a staggering $200,000.

The Young at Heart Club raised about $14,000 at the Macclesfield Institute event on May 17, and more than $25,000 over the year, and began fundraising in 2008.

"I'd like to thank the wonderful members of the Young at Heart Club, the community as a whole and the businesses from Macclesfield and surrounding districts who donated so generously," co-ordinator Cathy Megson-McAllister said.

"My dream is that my great-grandchildren... will grow up in a world where they (don't fear) a diagnosis of cancer... to help Cancer Council with their wonderful research."

Macclesfield Institute kitchen had a delicious morning tea spread donated by community members, along with auction items, and Young at Heart Club members entertained the crowd.

Southern Argus Editor Sara Gilligan was among the event's guest speakers and gave an honest talk on her own stage 3 bowel cancer diagnosis and journey into remission.

The Macclesfield resident's key takeaways included not taking health for granted, and "trusting your gut".

"Unfortunately, due to my age, I was misdiagnosed and had that doctor given me better preventative advice, I may never have suffered cancer," she revealed.

"Early detection really can make all the difference.

"Despite being told my symptoms were dietary related, I knew in my gut something wasn't right and got a second opinion.

"This second opinion saved my life."

Kim Crawford, Carol Prey and Jane Kuchel helping organise the Macclesfield's Biggest Morning Tea event. INSET: More than 180 people attended, pleasing organisers.

Ms Megson-McAllister found Ms Gilligan's honesty "incredible" and thanked The Argus for its in-kind support.

"I think everybody felt the impact from her, and her bringing awareness of what the Cancer Council can do, while also bringing awareness of knowing your own body and early detection," she said.

"Thanks to The Southern Argus, you've given us so much promotion and we had a lot of people come from Strath.

"The coverage that The Southern Argus has given us has been wonderful."

Member for Mayo Rebekah Sharkie finds the event "one of the best days of the year".

"There's nothing that personifies the love and community support that Mayo has for each other than the Macclesfield's Young at Heart Biggest Morning Tea," she said during her speech.

"Congratulations to you and all the volunteers – this would not happen if there wasn't an army of volunteers making it happen.

"I don't think there's a person in this room, including myself, who hasn't been touched by cancer, either someone you love, your neighbour, someone you know or maybe even yourself.

"What we need is to get to a point with technology and with research where the fear is gone."

Young at Heart Club members have made national headlines recently, appearing on Sunrise and The Project for their remarkable fundraising efforts and promoting their upcoming "nudie" fundraiser calendar, as previously reported in The Argus.

A huge spread of morning tea was donated.

Clayton Bay community says 'let there be light'

Clayton Bay's dark skies ambitions are another step closer to reality following the replacement of 58 warm-white LED lights around the town.

The new lights recently installed by SA Power Networks provide a suitable solution to preserving the low-light ambitions of the Clayton Bay community and protecting the area's natural dark skies, while also meeting Standards Australia requirements for road and public space lighting for new developments.

The replacement LED lights emit less blue and shorter wavelength light pollution, ensuring the environment remains unique and natural, and keeps the streets safe and convenient for residents to navigate at night.

To further enhance, protect, and celebrate Clayton Bay's natural skies, Alexandrina Council is working with the Clayton Bay Community Association to present an information session on Monday, June 5, around the process involved in obtaining Dark Skies accreditation.

Residents may register their attendance by visiting (<https://bit.ly/3pvDxQF>).

Strathalbyn teenager arrested

A Strathalbyn teenager was arrested on Friday after cannabis was found at his residence. At about 9am on May 19, police searched a Strathalbyn home and located cannabis, drug paraphernalia, and a firearm. The occupant, a 17-year-old boy, was arrested and charged with possessing a firearm without a licence, and possessing cannabis and equipment. He was bailed to appear in Mount Barker Youth Court on June 1. Police urged anyone with information on the sale, supply, manufacture or distribution of illicit drugs to contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at (crimestopperssa.com.au).

Application requirements eased for regional victims

New application rules will make it easier for victims of crime living in regional South Australia to seek much-needed compensation. Previously when victims applied for compensation, they needed to provide copies of two forms of photo identification that have been certified by a legal practitioner of Justice of the Peace (JP). In response to feedback from Commissioner for Victims' Rights Bronwyn Killmier and the Crown Solicitor's Office, the State Government has now updated the rules to allow police officers to certify documents, and require only one of the ID forms to be photographic. "For those of us living in a metropolitan area, it's often easier to find a JP or a legal practitioner," Attorney-General, Kyam Maher, said. "However, for people in regional and remote South Australia, it can be quite a challenging task. "We firmly believe the process for applying for compensation should be as simple as possible, sparing victims any further or unnecessary stress or trauma. "These changes will make it far easier for people in regional areas to carry out this task."

Alarming jump in red light offences

New data has revealed the number of South Australian drivers caught running red lights at pedestrian crossings has risen by almost 25 per cent in the past four years. According to SA Police data, 4636 offences were recorded for disobeying red-light signals at pedestrian crossings last year – up an alarming 24.3 per cent from 3729 in 2019. RAA Senior Manager Safety and Infrastructure Charles Mountain said the data showed many drivers failed to show due care around the state's most vulnerable road users. "Pedestrian crossings are designed to provide a safe location for crossing the road, and it's alarming to see the number of drivers disobeying the signals is increasing," he said. "These mid-block crossings are put near schools for a good reason, and it is essential drivers obey the red-light signals to avoid potentially catastrophic consequences." It was also revealed fixed camera fines cost South Australian motorists a total $2,795,978 last year. To promote national road safety, RAA placed five-metre-tall, colourful, inflatable elephants around metropolitan and regional SA last week to represent the 'Fatal Five' – distraction, speed, dangerous road users, failing to wear a seatbelt or child restraint, and driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol. "Many of these red-light offences may be due to inattention or distraction, which is one of the 'Fatal Five' causes of road trauma in South Australia," Mr Mountain said. "(During) National Road Safety Week, RAA raised awareness of the 'Fatal Five', and asked all road users to consider their behaviour on the road amid our alarming fatality and serious injury numbers this year."

Murray Bridge man caught driving while disqualified

A Murray Bridge man will front court for driving while disqualified earlier this month. On Saturday, May 13, Murray Mallee police stopped a vehicle on Long Island Road to conduct a random breath test. Checks revealed the driver, a 45-year-old Murray Bridge man, was disqualified from driving. He will be summonsed to attend Murray Bridge Magistrates Court at a later date.

A blaze started next to a water heater at a Strathalbyn residence last Friday before spreading to a ceiling and verandah.

Water heater catches fire at Strathalbyn home

A smoke detector has saved a Strathalbyn family's life after a fire spread through their home in the early hours of last Friday morning. Just after 3.30am, Strathalbyn Country Fire Service (CFS) crews were called to Albion Drive after a fire started alongside a water heater, then spread to the building's ceiling and verandah. A working smoke alarm from inside the house woke the family, who quickly evacuated the building and extinguished the blaze with a garden hose. CFS crews used a thermal imaging camera to look for concealed hot spots, and a Multi-RAE to ensure the smoke had cleared enough for the family to collect their belongings.

Mount Barker man jailed

A Mount Barker man who allegedly abused two children while working as a Christian youth group leader in the early 1990s has been jailed three decades later. Andrew Buitenhuis, aged 59, allegedly sexually assaulted two nine-year-old children while playing games like 'sardines' and 'capture the flag' at night during the time he volunteered at a youth group attached to a Fullarton-based Christian church in the early 1990s. However, Buitenhuis wasn't arrested until decades later and charged with two counts of maintaining an unlawful sexual relationship with a child. He fronted District Court on Monday for sentencing, receiving a 10-year imprisonment sentence, with a mandatory non-parole period of eight years due to his stature as a serious repeat offender. With time already served, Buitenhuis – who maintains his innocence – will be eligible for parole in March 2031.

Local towns tarnished by graffiti

An increase in graffiti incidents across the region has Hills Fleurieu Police on high alert. The latest incident, which occurred on Monday, May 15, saw the Glendale Grove skate park marked with graffiti tags. Previous damage was also reported in April at a Goolwa toilet block, and at a Gardiner Street school in February. It follows a similar incident at Strathalbyn, where a local cafe's bathroom was targeted. Photographs of the markings and video footage have been delivered to police. Officer in Charge of Hills Fleurieu Police Inspector Michael Sampson asked residents to contact police about any suspicious activity on 131 444. "Vandalism sends the message our community is uncared for and unsafe, which couldn't be further from the truth," he said. Anyone who may know the person/s responsible for the recent graffiti incidents is urged to contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at (www.crimestopperssa.com.au).

Two men arrested at Mt Barker

Two men were arrested at Mount Barker on Friday after being caught stealing copper piping. Just after 10.30pm on May 19, police were called to Skipper Street following reports a man was acting suspiciously around a house. When police arrived and searched the area, they found two men in the rear yard of a property who were in the process of stealing copper piping. A 46-year-old Mount Barker man and 49-year-old Murray Bridge man were arrested and charged with being unlawfully on premises, theft, and going equipped to commit an offence. They were bailed to appear in Mount Barker Magistrates Court on June 28.

Schools in Brief

Eastern Fleurieu R-12 School

Two Eastern Fleurieu boys and one girls team recently participated in the Zone Basketball Carnival at Morphett Vale stadium.

The girls dominated the day, winning their games against Reynella, Willunga, Waldorf, Investigator, and Encounter to convincingly be overall winners.

The boys division 1 team lost only one game to come second in their pool and third overall, while division 2 had a draw, win, and two defeats to end up third in their pool and fifth overall.

Goolwa Secondary College

Goolwa Secondary College thanked students for their participation and generous gold coin donations at ‘Do It For Dolly’ Day 2023.

Students put on their best blue outfits and hair ribbons in support of Dolly’s Dream Foundation earlier this month, and left blue hearts adorned with kind messages around the school.

Tyndale Christian School

Tyndale Christian School was privileged to have Mount Barker Specsavers optometrists recently visit and conduct a vision screening for junior students.

Vision issues can impact learning potential and long-term vision, so screening at a young age is critical for early detection to implement appropriate strategies.

Macclesfield Primary School

Macclesfield Primary School enjoyed a visit from the local Country Fire Service at the end of last term.

Volunteers talked about the ways they support the community, what they do to keep safe in a fire, and what students can do at home and school to help if there’s a bushfire.

Students also had the opportunity to sit in the truck and use the fire hose.

Goolwa North housing questions

I read with interest the front-page story in The Southern Argus May 11, 2023 which refers to a development of 2500 homes at Goolwa.

Of particular interest was the State Minister for Housing and Urban Development saying that “they” are fast tracking this.

I assumed from this statement that a plan was in place to show how this development would work so I visited Alexandrina Council in Goolwa to view the plan, or to at least get an overview.

There is no plan that council could show me. It does not exist. It has not yet been drawn up... and I find this disturbing given that The Southern Argus article states that building could commence as early as 2025.

Goolwa’s current population is some 7617. An additional 2500 HOUSES with an average occupancy of 3 (and I think that is a fair estimate) means an additional 7500 people moving into Goolwa, effectively doubling its population in a very short period of time, and whilst I do not necessarily oppose development, I believe it should be sustainable and planned in a holistic sense, and I do not mean architects drawings of narrow streets and very small parks, but a societal plan of where these incoming 7500 people are going to find work and where the services they will need are going to come from and be located.

This societal, holistic planning is needed because current services struggle now to provide for the existing population, so it is the very clear responsibility of our elected leaders from all levels of government to be upfront and honest with us about this “fast-tracked” development and how it will impact on Goolwa residents.

So, I have a few questions for our elected leaders:

Where are the 7500 people coming from and is this part of the “Big Australia” immigration policy championed by the current Federal and State ALP Govts?

What additional services are going to be fully funded and provided by each level of govt to cater for these people and when will construction of these services start?

Where will the staff for these services come from?

What is the plan for a total upgrade of roads in the region because 7500 additional people will mean some extra 5000 cars a day on our roads, which are now hopelessly degraded and in need of major works.

Where is the extra parking going to be provided in our towns? Heavy transport will also increase as this region is solely supplied by road transport... what provision is being made for this increase?

Where is the plan to upgrade our health services and when will the construction of the new Goolwa Hospital start?

This will be needed to cater for a town of 15,000 people. South Coast Hospital can’t cope now, so no point in looking at that.

When will construction of new schools start and where will these be located?

What shopping centre complexes are planned and where will they be built?

Please provide details (including funding if Govt jobs) of where these new 7500 people are going to find work?

If this increase in population is going to commute to Adelaide for work then please provide costed details of Goolwa > Mt Compass Road upgrade to dual lanes, including how many magnificent, century old, gum trees will have to be cut down, and when does this work start?

Please provide costed details of the expanded police service that will be required.

Is an airport upgrade to allow for commercial flights planned and can we see that funded plan please, size of aircraft allowed eg: jets etc.

Federal, State and Local Governments are elected by their constituents to serve, and in case they have forgotten, allow me to remind them that we do this by a democratic process called an election.

Once elected we expect our elected representatives to serve our best interests and to be upfront and honest with us, not dictatorial and secretive.

Ladies and gentlemen, you have a short time before your next election... get busy.

Grant Petras, Hindmarsh Island

Unwanted behaviour

There is a song line that says “Teach your children well” – the song from which it belongs to is not relevant to the actual subject that concerns me, but the phrase is an apt one.

For our children to learn respect for one another, their surroundings and the property of others can be seen to be lacking more and more in Strathalbyn.

Reports of people lurking around people’s homes late at night, taking/stealing and then dumping items that don’t belong to them seems to be on the rise.

I have seen shopping trolleys abandoned all over town and even one hoisted up into a tree! There are instances where the toilets at the railway station have had toilet rolls set alight, the doors defaced with graffiti, and the platform strewn with rubbish and food.

The mentality of those who think it’s okay to do these things is questionable.

If the shoe were on the other foot and it was their property being stolen and damaged, I wonder how they would feel about it?

This is a great town with a wonderful sense of community and pride (for the most part) and I am sure many feel this way.

The behaviour is not acceptable – grow up whoever you are, look up the meaning of respect and try to act like decent human beings.

Balancing act

Hills/Fleurieu residents are being encouraged to have a say on how their rates are spent by giving feedback on local councils’ proposed annual budget and business plans.

Alexandrina councillors opened the 2023-24 draft budget – inclusive of a 7.2 per cent average rate rise – on Monday night to public consultation.

Mount Barker District Council last week released its draft business plan and budget, proposing a 5.6 per cent rate increase.

As discussed in the Alexandrina council chamber, there’s no argument the community continues to face hardship as interest rates continue to rise and cost of living soars.

Each year, budget time presents a balancing act as community needs are weighed up against council’s available income.

Alexandrina CEO Nigel Morris was tasked with the job to turnaround a deficit budget to the first surplus in years – but at what cost?

As many elected members consider the repercussions a 7.2 per cent average rate increase may have on those already doing it tough, the reality is services must be cut to lower the projected figure, or to move into a deficit.

According to the Local Government Association, SA councils receive the lowest level of grants and subsidies per head in the country and have for the past 10 years consistently operated with the lowest total revenue per head of any Australian state.

High inflation also continues to put pressure on the cost of goods and services, including road and construction materials.

Sacrifices in both local council budgets will be unavoidable this time around.

It is up to local communities to determine what makes the cut and what is shelved, while councils are still expected to keep streets clean, maintain parks and playgrounds, provide library services and sporting facilities, run community centres and collect rubbish – just to name a few.

Don’t miss the opportunity to help shape the town you live in.

No contribution, no complaints.

Tell me a Story

The electorate of Finnis in South Australia has a rich and exciting history, filled with notable events and influential figures. Each member of this community has a story to tell, and with "wonder" May has been the month to experience the History Festival 2023.

The festival included a variety of events, ranging from cultural exhibitions, historical tours, lectures, and workshops, among others. These events were organized by historical associations, museums, and volunteers, with the goal of promoting awareness and knowledge about the region's history and cultural heritage.

You may not think history is for you, but when I looked over the program, I was captured by the range of events on offer.

There were 522 events and exhibitions on the program, many just a bus/train ride away.

As a fifth-generation dairy farmer in this local community, the stories of life and place ground me, provide context for my family and fuel the passion I have for helping people.

I acknowledge First Nations People in the history of this place and building a shared understanding is critical for our future.

As part of History Month, it was great to be in Milang for the mural unveiling at the Museum. It was a pleasure to catch up with mural artist Chad Spencer, who, some years ago, painted a mural on our farm shed. Chad did a superb job painting the inside of a shearing shed, and it will be the highlight when you visit the Milang Museum.

Works tee-d up for Murray Bridge golf course expansion

Works on Murray Bridge Golf Club's $2 million upgrade are well under way to transforming the facility into a par 71 championship course.

The current 18-hole golf course is set to expand into the neighbouring residential development at the old Murray Bridge Racing Club, with two new fairways being prepared as part of the Newbridge housing development next to the existing course.

The $50 million Newbridge development by Burke Urban will feature fairway-lined housing, and up to 350 new residential allotments.

The recent River Murray floods delayed works on the two new holes – which were set to be ready for action in winter – but the project is now back on track and estimated to be completed by the end of June.

Rural City of Murray Bridge is preparing a short-term lease with Murray Bridge Golf Club to allow the current course to continue operating, as well as the expansion once completed.

True authority

By Andrew Klynsmith

At the beginning of the recent coronation of King Charles, a young boy said to the king, "Your Majesty, as children of the kingdom of God we welcome you in the name of the King of kings."

He replied, "In his name and after his example I come not to be served but to serve."

This set the theme for the whole service – the Christian understanding of power and authority as being not for gain but for service. I guess we wait to see how Charles will do!

This Christian understanding of authority comes from the life of Jesus Christ.

Jesus said, 'My kingdom is not of this world.' Hardly ever have truer words been spoken!

The world we live in is dominated by all kinds of people seeking privileges and benefits for themselves. I recently heard a remark that our world structures leadership such that it both attracts and rewards narcissists. The way that Jesus is king does not fit that model!

When Jesus said he came not to be served, but to serve, he added an explanatory note: '...and to give my life as ransom for all.'

Jesus recognised that the love of power and control is in each of us, in greater or lesser ways. But Jesus did not come to condemn, but rather to rescue us out of this power-love that has us in its power. When selfish power had done its worst to him, he did not stop his serving.

He rose again and offers forgiveness to any who will turn to him, seeking release from the love of power which rules over them.

And forgiving, he also gives the gift of a new way of life, one of unself-interested love and service.

The Clayton jetty built through funding from the State government's Boating Facilities Advisory Committee on a one for one basis with the Alexandrina Council has cost some $46,000. It was designed by well known architect and wooden boat builder, Chris Crabtree and built by Chips Barclay and Allen Edwards of the Goolwa Slipway, it will serve for many years.

The committee of the Strathalbyn Football Club with the view of enabling their supporters to see as many matches as possible have shown considerable enterprise in chartering a special train to Woodside on Saturday next. This action is to be commended as a guarantee of 18 pounds and 18 shillings has to be paid. The train will leave Strathalbyn about 1.15 p.m. and leave Woodside at 5.55 p.m. Fares 17/11 first and 5/3 second class.

Albury's Peter Charlesworth is attempting the Guinness world record for the longest journey by stand-up paddle board, which will finish in Goolwa. INSET: Mr Charlesworth is proudly fundraising for The Heart Foundation; dedicated to fighting the single biggest killer of Australians – heart disease – after having emergency triple bypass surgery at 47 years old.

FOLLOW YOUR HEART: standing up for a cause

By Sara Gilligan

An Albury man attempting a Guinness world record on a stand-up paddle board will end an incredible awareness-raising 2800km journey at Goolwa next weekend. Weather permitting, professional photographer and author Peter Charlesworth is expected to arrive at Goolwa beach next Sunday, June 4, following a three-month expedition. Beginning on March 4, the father of two has paddled the length of the Murray River as well as lakes Hume, Mulwala and (currently) Alexandrina.

Mr Charlesworth named his paddleboard "Karina" after the paramedic who kept him alive during an ambulance transfer from Albury to Melbourne in June 2020. He is proudly fundraising for The Heart Foundation; dedicated to fighting the single biggest killer of Australians – heart disease – after having emergency triple bypass surgery at 47 years old. "My personal experience has shown that we all need to be aware of our state of cardiac health in advance of having a significant or catastrophic cardiac event such as a heart attack or stroke," he said. "Many of us live for decades as these conditions progress with us unaware, or unprepared to face facts and take sound corrective action. "There are a number of things we can all do to prevent, avoid or treat many of these issues before they progress to become life threatening. "The four foundational areas of rest, low stress, nutrition and exercise are vital in tuning our bodies to function better." Mr Charlesworth will hopefully accumulate enough distance to break the existing 2643.3km ultradistance world record. At time of print, Mr Charlesworth had already raised almost $6000 and countless awareness of the disease across regional communities. Averaging 42 kilometres a day solo, with no support crew, he hoped to show that "life can still be incredible" after a significant cardiac event. "If you have a history of heart disease in your family, you MUST be tested regularly," Mr Charlesworth added. "If you do not get enough support from a healthcare professional, seek alternate opinions and advocate for yourself." To find out more, track Mr Charlesworth's progress or to donate to the Heart Foundation, head to (www.sup4health2023.org) or find him on Facebook.

Langhorne Creek church to close doors

By Tara Nash

St. John's Anglican Church's almost 100-year history in the Langhorne Creek community will be reflected upon during its final service on Saturday.

The historic church was recently sold after ceasing services almost 18 months ago due to low-attendance.

Strathalbyn Parish Minister, Andrew Klynsmith, said proceeds from the sale will help church members "continue to serve the community with the love of God".

The church is enriched with community history, after a committee in 1913 decided to search for a suitable site to build a local Anglican Church.

A great effort was undertaken by local parishioners not only to raise funds for the purchase of land, but also to construct the church.

After securing the land in 1914, more funds were raised from fairs and dances along with generous donations from local families, enabling the construction of the church, which was opened in 1929.

The last member of the church, Marlene Potts, will speak about her connection to the church on Saturday, with her family involved since its beginning.

Other residents are welcome to share further information and memories at the service.

"This service will be a time to give thanks for the good things God has done through the church and its people in Langhorne Creek in the past nearly 100 years," Rev'd Klynsmith said.

"In a little town – there's lots of connections (to the church).

"Many have been married at that church, or had their kids baptised there – there would have been people from the town buried at the church there – a whole lot of connections and family life, community life."

All are welcome to the open-service led by Bishop Keith Dalby for a chance to reflect on the church's significance, this Saturday, May 27, at 3pm, followed by an afternoon tea at a nearby old school house.

Local Anglican services continue in the region, including at Strathalbyn, Milang and Meadows.

The ins and outs of conveyancing

Buying or selling property is exciting! You've spent hours looking at open houses and finally found your dream home.

Now it's time for the contract – and then the keys!

But before you can move into your new home – you need to make sure that all the paperwork is done correctly!

Transferring property from one person to another is quite complex and involves a lot of financial and legal paperwork. That's why you need a conveyancer.

What is a conveyancer?

Conveyancers are licensed professionals who specialise in the area of property law that governs the process of transferring ownership of property from one person to another.

These professionals will guide you through the process of buying or selling property and provide you with unbiased advice, prepare all the documents and do everything else required to ensure that your purchase (or sale) of property goes smoothly.

What is a Certified Practising Conveyancer?

Some, but not all, Conveyancers are Certified Practising Conveyancers. These conveyancers have met the strict criteria set by the Australian Institute of Conveyancers SA Division. This title is recognition of excellence and professionalism within the industry.

Certified Practising Conveyancers keep up to date with the ever-changing legal requirements of the industry and continually improve their skills with professional development.

The Strathalbyn Conveyancing Team are Certified Practising Conveyancers.

What does a conveyancer do.

A conveyancer performs conveyancing activities which are the tasks that need to be done when you purchase or sell a home. The paperwork involved can be cumbersome, complicated and critical.

Using the services of a conveyancer helps to minimise the stress of the whole process and importantly makes sure that the process is completed correctly – which will save you time, money and effort.

They can help minimise any concerns you may have and provide information and advice about the sale or purchase of property, they also undertake all the searches required, and liaise with banks and mortgage brokers to ensure the whole process runs as smoothly as possible. And that settlement – a complex undertaking – happens on time.

Conveyancers

- prepare legal documents,
 - conduct research about a property,
 - provide advice on the effect of a contract of sale,
 - complete the verification of identity process,
 - undertake the verification of authority of each client,
 - prepare settlement statements,
 - represent you during settlement,
 - calculate the adjustment of rates and taxes,
 - liaise with the other party's representatives and financial institutions.
- Importantly, your Conveyancer will stay in contact with you and guide you through the whole property transfer process.

When is the best time to start talking to a Conveyancer?

Because the transfer of property is a complex process with lots of areas of concern for those who are completing the process, using a trustworthy and qualified professional is an excellent investment.

You should meet with your Conveyancer before you sign any contract so they can make sure your legal obligations are met AND protect your rights and interests.

Connecting with an experienced and reliable conveyancer earlier in the process will make it easier and more likely that you will have a successful settlement.

Do I need to use the Conveyancer a Real Estate Agent suggests?

No. Some Real Estate Agents suggest Conveyancers that you can contact. But the choice is totally up to you.

If you have any queries, please give us a call at Strathalbyn Conveyancing.

Strathalbyn private dams pose flood risk

An official review has revealed more than 10 Strathalbyn and three Paris Creek private dams pose a potential flood risk to nearby residents.

Following a partial levee collapse that threatened Echunga households in September last year, the Department for Environment and Water inspected almost 6300 dams or watering holes, finding if 460 of them failed – including 31 in the Angas River catchment zone – they posed a potential flood risk to local communities due to their location.

In the Angas catchment zone, 11 at-risk private dams were from Strathalbyn, 11 from Green Hills Range, three from Paris Creek, and six from Flaxley.

The findings have caused concern for community leaders about the potential costs for farmers and property owners for improving dams that were filled during last winter's extensive rains.

Member for Kavel Dan Cregan is among those now calling on the State Government to work with the community to safeguard local dams by providing funding and support.

"Private dams offer vital stock and fire water during summer," he said.

"My strong message to government agencies is they should not take a punitive approach.

"Agencies need to work with land owners who may not have the resources for expensive engineering assessments

"This is an issue we have raised with the Deputy Premier, and I am hopeful additional funds will hit the ground."

Impacted land owners can contact the Hills and Fleurieu Landscape Board on 8391 7500 or the State Emergency Service on 132 500 in the event of an emergency.

2023-24 FEDERAL BUDGET WRAP UP

In a challenging economic climate Australian Treasurer Jim Chalmers handed down the 2023-24 Federal Budget.

A number of proposals aimed at helping with the cost of living, including energy bill rebates, out-of-pocket health costs and more money for jobseekers and renters were announced.

Read on for a round-up on how some of these proposals might affect your financial future.

Increasing income support payments

Proposed effective date (PED): 20/9/2023

The Government will increase working age and student payments by $40 per fortnight. This includes:

A single person (<60) receiving a typical total rate of JSP of $701.90 per fortnight will start to receive approximately $733.10.

Also, JSP recipients aged 55 and over (currently 60 years) who have been on payment for 9 continuous months will receive the higher maximum rate of approximately $785.20. This reflects increased difficulties people in this age range have in securing re-employment.

Increasing help for renters

PED: 20/9/2023

The maximum Rent Assistance (RA) rate will increase by 15%. This means a single person with no dependent children currently receiving the maximum RA payment of $157.20 per fortnight will start to receive $180.80, as well as their income support payment.

Expanding Parenting Payment (single) access

PED: 20/9/2023

Eligible single parents will receive the Parenting Payment (single) until their youngest child turns 14, up from 8 years old.

It will make these single parents $176.90 per fortnight better off rather than transferring to the JobSeeker Payment.

Reducing energy bills

Starting 2023-24 for two years

Eligible households will receive a rebate of $500 per year, eligible small businesses $650 per year on their power bills.

Reducing health costs

Provided over 5 years from 2022-23

The Government will invest $3.5 billion over five years to triple the bulk billing incentive for GP consultations for children under 16 and Commonwealth concession card holders; supporting 11.6 million eligible Australians to access a doctor with no out-of-pocket costs.

Introducing payday super

PED: 1/7/2026

Employers will need to make super contributions on the same day they pay their employees' salary and wages. Currently contributions are made to super once a quarter.

The Government estimates this would increase the retirement savings of a 25-year-old median wage earner by $6000; particularly benefitting lower paid workers or casual/insecure workers.

Reforming aged care

2022-23 and over the next 5 years

The Government is providing extra funding to:

- Increase the pay of many aged care workers by 15%.
- Provide an extra 9500 Home Care packages.
- Continue COVID-19 measures.
- Strengthen regulation.
- Postpone the new 'Support at home Program' and extend grant arrangements for the 'Commonwealth Home support Programme' for a further 12 months.

Expanding the Home Guarantee Scheme

PED: 1/7/2023

Siblings, friends and other family members will be able to use the Government's first home buyer programs together to boost participation. The expanded eligibility will allow any 2 eligible people to be joint applicants for a guarantee.

This includes the First Home Guarantee, the Regional First Home Guarantee and the Family Home Guarantee.

The Home Guarantee Scheme will also be extended to people who have not owned a house in the past 10 years.

Small Business - $20,000 instant asset write-off

PED: 1/7/2023

Tax breaks for small business to write-off assets on multiple assets.

The Government will improve cash flow for small businesses by temporarily increasing the instant asset write-off threshold to $20,000 for businesses with an aggregated annual turnover of less than $10 million.

Remember, these could change as legislation passes through parliament. Legislation passed by the Australian Parliament does not become law until it is formally accepted by the Governor-General. A process referred to as Royal Assent.

Goal made during recent food drive

By Tara Nash

Despite cost-of-living pressures, the local community "didn't even think twice" about donating to the recent drive 'Food Goals', with organisers thanking those involved for their generosity.

The inaugural drive encouraged residents to bring a non-perishable food item when heading to training or a game at Strathalbyn's football and netball clubs, while money was donated by local businesses.

Donated items will now be split between Milang Old School Community House (MOSHCC), Strath Neighbourhood Centre, The Pantry Club and Vinnies.

"A big 'thank you' to everybody who donated, the (Strathalbyn) footy club support, and the netball club... we're grateful for what we received," Raine & Horne's Sally Ness said.

"It all goes a long way; it raises awareness that people in our community are stretching on a budget and do need help.

"It got people thinking about what they can cook on a budget."

The Pantry Club co-ordinator Paquita Wise found the response to the new annual drive "fantastic".

"We have a great community in supporting and helping others – it helps us agencies to give out because there is that need," she said.

"Everything's gone up... the increase in rent, you've got petrol, food costs (and) prescriptions have gone up.

"With medical, people now have to pay a gap now who previously didn't have to pay a gap for medical appointments.

"Every bit helps and everybody is noticing the pinch."

Donations may still be made throughout the year by contacting the individual agencies, or to Strathalbyn Churches Bookshop or Strathalbyn Woolworths.

Local MP calls for Gather Round closer to home

A local MP has thrown his support behind a bid for Strathalbyn or Murray Bridge to be considered for future Australian Football League (AFL) Gather Round matches.

Member for Hammond Adrian Pederick has asked the State Government and AFL to put the electorate on their list of potential locations for the next Gather Rounds, following the success of the inaugural event earlier this year.

"I have written to the Premier and Gillon McLachlan at the AFL, and asked them to consider Murray Bridge and Strathalbyn as potential venues for Gather Round over the next three years," he said.

"Both locations are convenient, as they are only an hour's drive from the city.

"They are also close to some of the state's most iconic tourist attractions such as Monarto Safari Park, The Bend Motorsport Park, and Langhorne Creek wine region."

As part of the 2018 JLT Community pre-season competition, Strathalbyn Oval played host to a trial match between Adelaide Crows and Fremantle, which attracted a crowd of more than 6000 keen spectators.

Member for Hammond Adrian Pederick has called for the State Government and AFL to throw Strathalbyn and Murray Bridge into the ring when selecting Gather Round venues over the next three years.

Mr Pederick acknowledged a lot of work and collaboration was needed to bring either Strathalbyn or Murray Bridge to AFL standard, but believed it would be a fantastic opportunity to show off the region if successful.

"Strathalbyn is proof that fans will travel to the regions to support their teams," he said.

"I really hope the government and AFL can see the value in holding another game there or in Murray Bridge."

Season change sparks warnings

By Tara Nash

Overloaded power boards are one of the most common fire safety issues in the local region over winter, with many local residents plugging in heaters and electric blankets to warm up their homes.

"Before they know it, they've overloaded the power board," Strathalbyn Country Fire Service (CFS) Lieutenant Andrew Wardle said.

"The electricity going through the cable becomes quite hot to touch and eventually the plastic melts and catches on fire... (or) whatever is sitting on the cable can catch on fire – you can build up quite a lot of heat there."

Mr Wardle also recommends residents clean out electrical filters, such as in tumble driers.

Another major issue during colder months is blocked or partially-blocked chimneys.

"Chimneys are one of the biggest ones because going from summer into winter – they don't check their chimneys," Strathalbyn CFS Captain Brenton Scott said.

"It only takes a partial block to restrict the flow of the smoke and you've got an issue," Mr Wardle added.

Residents are recommended to clean out their fireplaces and chimneys, including soot which can catch alight and often builds up in the chimney flue or damper plate.

The CFS members saw the result of a blocked chimney when called to a local house about a month ago.

"We had a house full of smoke," Mr Wardle said.

Strathalbyn CFS Lieutenant Andrew Wardle and Captain Brenton Scott warned local residents to take fire safety precautions while heating their homes this winter. Photo: Tara Nash

"We had to ventilate it and the interior was at a toxic level – our air quality tester showed that it was not fit for breathing.

"We had to send in crews with breathing apparatus to open every single window, every single door."

Hydraulic ventilation was undertaken, where water was squirted from inside to out, which draws inside air and pushes it out, while ventilation fans were also sourced from Mount Barker to assist.

While regular rain can deter residents

Residents are being reminded the risks of overloading powerboards while warming their homes.

from hanging out their washing or cooking outside, Mr Wardle recommends taking caution when moving inside, such as drying out clothes in front of a fire.

"Whilst it seems like a good idea when the clothes are damp when you first put them there, after a while they dry out and they've lost their moisture, so that makes them more combustible," he said.

"Don't use any gas appliances inside – people have been tempted to use a Webber barbecue or an external patio heater inside the house, but what that does is use up all the available oxygen and before they know it, people suffocate."

"I (also) encourage people to use dry wood – not wood with any significant moisture content."

Mr Wardle added before and after winter is a good time to clear-out leaves and gutters before summer.

Meet Peter: The gym regular who never gives up on his fitness goals

Peter is a devoted regular at Southern Cross Care's Oakfield Rise Health & Wellness Centre.

You can find him pumping iron, running on the treadmill, and pushing his limits to achieve his fitness goals.

And boy, does he have some ambitious goals to conquer!

Recently, Peter set his sights on the 75cm Box Jump – a feat of athleticism that would make even the most seasoned gym-goer quiver in their sneakers.

He approached Health & Wellness Promoter, the ever-supportive Megan Vickery, and asked for permission to attempt the towering jump.

Megan tried to talk him out of it, citing the potential risks, but Peter was on a mission.

With unwavering determination and nerves of steel, Peter took a leap of faith and launched himself towards the 75cm hurdle.

Unfortunately, the first attempt didn't go as planned, and he found himself on the wrong side of gravity. But did that deter Peter? Not a chance!

He hit the gym with renewed vigour, dedicating himself to a rigorous training regimen that focused on building strength, agility, and explosive power.

Three months of sweat, tears, and relentless effort later, Peter was ready to take on the challenge once again.

On the day of reckoning, the tension was palpable as Peter sized up the imposing obstacle before him.

With a deep breath and a fierce determination, he launched himself towards the box, propelling his body upwards with incredible force.

And just like that, Peter had conquered the 75cm Box Jump, leaving onlookers in awe and himself feeling proud as punch.

Peter continues to smash fitness goals at Southern Cross Care's Oakfield Rise Health & Wellness Centre.

Congratulations, Peter! Your perseverance, discipline, and unwavering spirit are an inspiration to us all.

Eastern Fleurieu calls for host families

By Giorgina McKay

Local families are being asked to open their homes and hearts to international students.

Eastern Fleurieu will soon say Bonjour, Kon'nichiwa, and Hallo to students from France, Japan, and Germany who will be hopping on board the long flight to South Australia as part of the school's International Education Program, which has been running for more than a decade.

About 19 students will be flying in from Japan in August for a 12-day study tour, with another two coming from Germany and one from France for longer stays.

To accommodate the new arrivals, the school is seeking host families, who in return, will have the opportunity to learn about other cultures, customs and traditions, and make long-lasting friendships.

"(The program) stopped for three years due to COVID, so now our borders are all open, we're trying to source families to come on board to host our students," International Education Leader, Jennifer Turpin, said.

"When you welcome international students into your family home, you will have the chance to learn more about people whose first language is not English, and are accustomed to different cultural etiquettes.

"Family BBQs and conversations can become opportunities to explore new perspectives and glimpses into foreign cultures far-removed from the laid-back Adelaide lifestyle."

French student Ombeline Moreau has already been part of the program for almost two terms.

She has enjoyed going horse riding, shopping and visiting many other places with her host family.

Eastern Fleurieu students Jorja Fox and Bridget Eyers hope to see more international students like Ombeline Moreau (centre) welcomed by host families throughout the year. Photo: Giorgina McKay

"It's cool," Ombeline said. "It's very different, but I think Australia is better."

"When we compare with France, the (school) days are very short and teachers are nice."

Host families will be required to provide students with a safe, supportive and welcoming home environment, a clean and appropriately furnished bedroom, food, access to study, kitchen, bathroom and laundry facilities, and will be responsible for their care.

Families will be reimbursed for their participation, and given ongoing support throughout the experience.

To register interest, contact either Jennifer Turpin or Amanda Vivian on 8536 2455.

Local member for Mayo visits Goolwa Museum

Member for Mayo Rebekha Sharkie recently toured the Goolwa Branch of National Trust, built in 1872.

The Goolwa Museum tells stories of Goolwa, Hindmarsh Island and Currency Creek from pre-European settlement to the present day.

Ms Sharkie visited on May 4 after being forwarded a copy of The Goolwa Ambler.

After meeting some of the branch members, Anthony Presgrave led Ms Sharkie and her assistant Rose Beltchev on a tour pointing out some highlights.

These included WWI and WWII photographs of Goolwa's enlisted men and women, ship-building artefacts and relics from the vessel Water Witch, as well as a demonstration of an Edison drum record player, and explanation of the museum's extensive archival material.

Ms Sharkie heard about the Inland Rivers National Marathon Register by Chairperson Frank Tuckwell, and viewed an original piece of paper he exchanged with canoeist Bill Confoy, which started the register in 1954.

Ms Sharkie showed keen support of museums and volunteers who preserve history.

The Goolwa Branch of National Trust is working on two parallel tasks in preserving its history and, through current projects, making future history.

One suicide is too many for Langhorne Creek Football Club (LCFC), seeing a collaboration with The Shaka Project ahead of the Cooney Cup and Great Southern Football League's Breakthrough Community Round.

Alarming research from Australian Bureau of Statistics' 2021-22 national study of mental health and wellbeing revealed about 8.6 million Australians have experienced a mental disorder some time in their life, with Lifeline reporting more than eight Australians die every day by suicide – 75 per cent of those are male.

Rooster blitz hits Magpies

By Perry Jones

In a game at Strathalbyn that saw a bit of an early struggle between both sides, it was the Roosters getting on top in the third term leading to a 10-goal blitz in the final term, that clipped the Magpies' wings by 99 points.

With a couple of brief showers early, conditions were a bit slippery as the two sides tried to prove who was best.

The Roosters, without Pegler, O'Grady and Godfrey, having good replacements in Clamp, Cooper Machin and Butler back into their line-up, got the first goal on the board through Simounds when set up by Clamp.

The Magpies were finding it tough early to have any say, with Wilton and Turner trying to keep the Roosters out, as Welk shaded Bottruff in ruck.

The Roosters went forward through Wright and Marc Elliott, celebrating his 250th game alongside Aaron Noske.

With the Magpies pinged for holding the ball, Fox used the free to get the next goal on the board for the Roosters, and then thanks to Gilbert hooking the ball to Clamp in the goal square, the Roosters had their third for the term.

The Magpies then started to generate some positive drive from Barry and Jacob Hughes as Heintze was off target with a behind, then given the opportunity to make amends with a Bottruff pass, missed the lot.

While Keding was leading the Rooster rebound, the Magpies with a miss by Watson, then picked up their first goal through Hayden, thanks to a downfield free, followed up by a behind to Bottruff.

The Roosters' delivery forward was not that clever, in looking for the marking ability of Clamp and Simounds, but Fox was mopping up well to gather in a loose ball to make no mistake.

A Butler delivery found Simounds, who also added another notch to his goal-kicking belt, to give the Roosters a quarter time lead of 23 points.

The second term turned into a bit of a scramble with the Magpies playing better than the Roosters, and were able to move the ball to a man on the run with input from Barry, Watson, Josh Slape and Carnelly.

However, it was behinds early for both sides, Lucas Hughes hitting the post for the Magpies and Stanton missing a snap shot, before Heintze, lifting in ruck for the Magpies particularly when pitted against Mason, converted a Jacob Hughes pass.

The Roosters with Cooper Machin, Keding and Edwards made it hard for the Magpies to get past the Rooster defence, and saw them have misses from Fox with his snap hitting the bottom of the goal post, before Clamp showed his accuracy by also hitting the post.

Despite not connecting that well with their forward movements, the Roosters got through some handy defence work from the Magpies Nissen and Reece Slape, who kept a lid on Clamp's talent, but was not able to stop the latter getting a pass to Simounds for the Roosters' only goal of the term.

While a snap from Magpie Watson was a miss, his side were let in for another goal for the term when the Roosters were caught dropping the ball, for Fry to bring up the two white flags and still well into the game, just three goals down.

The Magpies closed the gap early when Bates, in trouble, got the handball to Payne for the first major in the third term, but then, despite Heintze and Bottruff having a bit of say in ruck and around the ground backed up by Bates, Stanton and a run from Josh Slape and Carnelly, found goals hard to get as the Roosters were starting to get to the ball first through Stafford, Edwards, Tucker, McFarlane and Elliott.

Turner tried his best to repel the Roosters who had the quick reply to the Magpies opening goal, when a Stafford handball found Fox able to side step his opponent for the full pointer.

Up forward, the Roosters were starting to see Clamp and Simounds get on top with their marking ability, Simounds converting a Duffield pass which was followed by Clamp swooping on a loose ball for another goal.

The Roosters' accuracy still left a bit to be desired as Tucker, despite having dropped the ball, gathered it in again for a shot at goal, with Simounds able to shepherd the ball through.

The Magpies were still having a dip, missing a golden opportunity to goal when two Roosters collided allowing Hayden to run into an open goal for a behind, before Lucas Hughes, picking up touches, was able to gain possession and squeeze his kick in to get the ball through the big sticks.

The Roosters were in business again when Simounds was just able to trap the ball and get a kick in before he went over the line, for a goal, followed by Clamp having a bit of bad luck when effecting a spoil and getting the spillage, seeing his snap hit the bottom of the goal post.

He then followed it up by taking a pass from Noske to hit the goal post from a set shot, as the Roosters finished the third term, 38 points clear.

Rooster coach, Simon Munn, asked his players if they wanted to continue with their stop start efforts so far produced or get some consistent play with team work in the final term.

The question was answered in the final term as the Roosters did click into gear, with Welk leading the way in ruck, as players worked out where his taps were going, and with system and run coming back into their game, players like Stafford, Wright and Elliott turned the game into a training drill, as the Magpies ran out of puff.

Despite effort from the Magpies'

Heintze, Lucas Hughes, Josh Slape and Watson, it was left to Turner and Nissen to try and hold back what was about to hit them.

As the Roosters turned defence into attack through Cooper Machin, Edwards, Nisbett and Butler, the Roosters attacked for all of the term, spoiling their efforts early with five behinds in a row before Elliott brought up the two white flags.

Then the rush was on Simounds, converting a Fox pass, following this up with another major from a free and adding another before Stafford was able to side step his opponent for the desired result.

Not done with yet, the Roosters then saw Cooper Machin run out of defence and using work from Tucker and Clark was able to regain the ball and have a successful shot at goal.

This was followed by Simounds, able to shepherd a kick from Butler through the big sticks, while Clamp, after a juggling act, marked a Simounds pass to boot another full pointer.

It was ten goals for the term when Simounds kicked his tenth for the day before, in the last minute of play, the Magpies' Heintze was able to take a strong pack mark to convert.

The siren ended their pain for the day, leaving the Roosters well clear and hopefully back to playing their best football from now on in their quest to play finals football.

Creek back on winner's board

Although the day was dampish when Compass hosted Creek, the turf held up well making the scene for an exciting game for two teams very hopeful of a finals berth.

Creek kicked up hill with a slight breeze, but it was Compass that goaled first off Pinyon's boot, having been fouled in a marking contest 15 metres from goal.

The game proceeded fast, with hard tackling by both sides, not letting the other get away to clear and get a free run on.

The ball lingered mainly in the Compass forward zone, but they were unable to make much of their efforts as Creek's rear guard, with the likes of Reichelt and Dawson, tightly held on.

It was with sheer determination that Creek onballers were able to clear through the down side wing to find Cleggett and give their backlines the reward they very much deserved.

Cleggett was again the target in Creek's forward line, marking decisively and kicking a much-needed goal late in the quarter.

Hunter and Heatley were key players for Compass, while Dominish and Rothe did a lot to ensure Creek were in the lead at the break.

The score told the story in what had been a very tight battle throughout the quarter, with Creek on 2-1 to Compass 1-3.

Simons, with strength and speed, bullocked the ball forward to Hooper out wide and kicked a running goal for Compass within the first minute of the quarter.

Then, as if Compass forwards were coming alive, Pinyon took a screamer 25 metres from goal to bring up successive goals.

However, Creek were up to the challenge and came back with strength by way of Follett running through centre to get the ball Keynes way.

He was the benefactor of a marking infringement and brought up the much-needed reply.

Cleggett, ever dangerous and presenting well up forward, put Creek in front again as well as encouraging his decisive hard-working mid field.

Alas, as the quarter came to a close, Pinyon and Z Vitkunas combined to put the ball in the hands of the fast-moving Nash, who snapped a goal to put Compass back in front just before the siren.

Half time scores were Creek 4-2 to Compass 4-7.

Creek were hot out of the blocks, moving the ball forward very quickly.

In the process, Kartinyeri combined with Keynes for a goal that put Creek back in front once again.

Creek were fired up and, thus, the ball was held predominantly in their forward line.

No matter what, Compass defenders battled to get the ball back past centre.

The pressure was too great for Compass, most evident when under pressure a foul behind play and a free 20 metres out from goal, saw Reichelt drifting forward and in possession of the ball to goal.

Not wanting to let the game get away, Compass came back through Hooper to goal and stay in touch.

Pinyon, always a danger up forward, helped himself to a goal soon after on the back of a lovely pass from Z Vitkunas.

Compass were now back in front at the end of the third term.

Simons, Hooper and T Vitkunas for Compass, and Kellock and Follett for Creek, had done their teams proud.

Third quarter scores were Creek 6-7 to Compass, with the slenderest of leads, 6-9.

If anyone were to be considering leaving the ground, now was not the time.

Both teams were a possibility to win, and great credit goes to the players of both teams!

The last quarter started tightly, as the game had already been played.

This was great country footy!

The outset of the last quarter saw the ball seesaw as each team sought ascendancy.

Out of the battle, Jones, a Mt Compass lad now playing for Creek, rubbed salt into the wounds of his old club, scoring the first goal of the quarter and putting his team in the lead.

Kellock, capitalising on a mishandled ball by his Compass counter-part, goaled soon after to see Creek on top of the game again.

The more experienced Creek midfield were now exerting their authority on the game.

Although not likely to win, Compass still showed their true commitment.

Z Vitkunas, always on the move, got hold of the ball and put into the hands of Connor who finished his good work off with a much-needed goal.

As Compass surged ahead once more, it was all too late.

The siren sounded as Creek with 9-8 on the board to Compass 7-12 ran out winners.

Stingrays fight to defeat Magpies

A nail-biter match saw Goolwa/Port Elliot, A Grade Women, go down by just one point to Yankalilla/Encounter Bay at Myponga on Sunday.

The U14s started the day off against the Stingrays in foggy and wet conditions, while the U17s had a bye.

The A Grade Women had a slow start and were on the back foot for most of the game, with a final surge in the last quarter failing to close the gap.

Both teams were uncertain about the final result, with the scores having to be discussed by the umpires.

In the end, Yankalilla/Encounter Bay came out winners 20 points to 19.

Best on Ground included Renee Moon, Tessa Grant, Megan Hoad, Amber McKinlay, Indi Miller and Kerri-Ann Moon.

Strathalbyn stung again by Stingrays

Strathalbyn's U17s put in a solid effort against Yankalilla/Encounter Bay on Sunday, but were unable to clinch the win.

The U14s started the day, playing against a much bigger Willunga side at Myponga.

The girls battled with incredible courage and intent making Willunga work for every possession, but unfortunately, came up a little short.

Next up was the U17s, who were short a couple of players against the Stingrays.

The girls brought their usual high-pressure game, kicking a goal each quarter.

At the end, the score was a lot closer than the last time Strathalbyn versed Yankalilla/Encounter Bay, going down by two goals.

Goal scorers included Marley Tape, Charlotte Collins, Zoe Panrok and Isabella Herbut.

Best on Ground included Charlotte Collins, Marley Tape, Brooke Goslett, Zoe Panrok, Michaela Reed and Ava Laan.

Eagles' winning streak continues

After two weeks on the road, Victor Harbor were back home to host ladder leaders and defending premiers, McLaren Districts, on Saturday.

The persistent rain finally stopped but its effect on the ground remained, with the new turf cricket pitches and goal squares muddy, and the rest of the ground soft and slippery.

Everything would need to go right for the home side if they were to inflict McLaren's first loss since 2021, and the early signs were positive.

Dowling continued his good form around the stoppages when he found Elmes with a good pass who duly converted, and when Stock snapped truly off his left 10 minutes later, the Roos had a two-goal lead.

McLaren soon settled and replied with two of their own, as veteran campaigners Vandeleur, Ellison, Fenoughty and Ellis combined with Smith, Redigolo and Green with a combination of dour defence and clean ball movement, to find teammates in space.

McKay snapped the first and was soon followed in kind by Camm, who marked uncontested in the square.

With Victor still missing, the ruck and rover pair of Treloar and Borrillo, Brook and Vincent assumed their roles well, but the last thing they needed was to lose key defender, Weise, to a calf strain just before quarter time, with the scores now locked at 2-4 apiece.

The low scoring, intense pressure continued after the first break, with ball carriers from both sides having a tough time grabbing the greasy ball, resulting in precious little time to lift the eyes before being gang tackled.

The Roos were matching the Eagles with effort and chase at every contest, but the slightest inaccuracy by hand or foot was eventually punished with two early goals.

Victor responded through Overall's strong tackle at the top of the arc, with the added reward of a 50 to make his shot a certainty, and get his side within four points at the long break.

The ball remained camped in Victor's forward half for the majority of the third term, but they had to wait 15 minutes before Basham took a, now familiar, strong mark and effortless straight shot from 50 out to even the scores up again.

With a run of narrow misses and hit-the-posts, the home side enjoyed a four-point lead heading into time on, before the visitors went 'bang-bang' to restore a two-goal lead in no time.

The first goal was from a 50/50 free kick with both players seemingly simply competing at the fall of the ball 20 metres out, and then another from Groves seconds before the three-quarter time siren. Equal credit must go to their defenders who withstood everything Victor could throw at them.

With it all to do in the final quarter, Ross led by example with a mark and a goal 10 minutes in, to give his side a sniff.

Another costly free against the Roos backline resulted in a pass and goal to McKay, before Ellison marked and kicked truly from close range five minutes later, to make it a very hard task for the hosts.

Basham marked and goaled again to inspire an all-out attack in the dying minutes of the game, but every kick forward was under pressure and inevitably resulted in a turnover the majority of the time.

McLaren did not score again as the backline led by Mutch, Kleinig, Bartram and Miller continued their awesome work, but Victor didn't add to their score either and the final margin remained at 13 points.

The final siren gave some respite to the exhausted players from both teams in a hard-fought, but spite-free contest which saw Victor threaten a top side yet again and remain in the middle of the table log jam.

McLaren again did enough to continue their incredible winning streak and consolidate their back-to-back premiership favouritism.

League

Strathalbyn 60 defeated Goolwa 32
The Strath goalies dominated the ring in attack and converted high percentage of opportunities.
The rain didn't dampen their endeavour and they came out strong winners by 28 goals.

Senior 3

Strathalbyn 44 defeated Goolwa 33
A somewhat lethargic start from Strath, not attacking the ball offset by accurate shooting to see Strath still take the lead by two at the first break.
The heavens suddenly opened in the second quarter, and it was Strath that adjusted quicker to the slow and steady game to enable them to take an extra 10 goal lead for their troubles.
Goolwa showed their strength, pulling out a handful of unanswered goals to start the third quarter, pegging back the lead slightly to only 10 goals deficit going into the final quarter.
Strath applied consistent centre passes and full court pressure, but were threatened by a run of Goolwa goals late in the game.
However, Strath still took the quarter by one goal.
Overall, a sound win to Strath.

Senior 4

Strathalbyn 36 defeated by Goolwa 46

Senior 6

Strathalbyn 37 defeated Goolwa 34
A tight contest between Strath and Goolwa with great movement by both teams.

In the second half Strath worked hard and surged ahead to get their first win in over two years.
Well done, girls.

Inter 2

Strathalbyn 69 defeated Goolwa 14
Strath welcomed Goolwa with a slow start in the first quarter.

Before long, Strath found their feet and didn't take their feet off the accelerator for the rest of the game.
A great team effort with plenty of defensive pressure, rewarded with plenty of goals.
Thank you, Goolwa, for a challenging game.

Inter 3

Strathalbyn 49 defeated Goolwa 17
In their first wet game for the season, the girls started strong with plenty of intercepts and turnovers, but with the wet court not all of them converted on the scorecard.
There was a bit of messy footwork throughout, but some fantastic passages of play and feeding into the circle, along with defensive pressure on Goolwa, helped them come out with a comfortable win.

Inter 4

Strathalbyn (Red) 58 defeated Mount Compass 15
Both teams played tight defence, resulting in a close first quarter.
Strath defence then worked hard and got many intercepts, giving them a strong lead at half time.

It was a good win.

13 & Under (D1)

Strathalbyn 43 defeated Goolwa 34

It was a cold and wet Tuesday night in Myponga for a catch-up game.

Goolwa ended up winning by three goals, but you still couldn't wipe the smiles off our faces.

Well done everyone.

11 & Under (D1)

Strathalbyn 23 defeated Goolwa 9

Strathalbyn's pressure resulted in them scoring freely towards the end of the game.
It was a solid win to Strathalbyn.

11 & Under (D3)

Strathalbyn 18 defeated Goolwa 4
It was a cautious start for both sides after an early shower made the courts wet and slippery, however Strath settled first to get some early goals and take the lead.
Goolwa's GK was tight in defence all day, and created lots of turnovers.
Strath were too solid in all positions as they kept building on their early lead.
Coach Courtney tried the girls in lots of new positions for the game, and all the girls stepped up and made the most of their opportunities.
It was a great friendly game by both sides.

9 & Under

Strathalbyn (Red) Goolwa
It was a hard-fought game with Strath getting some great intercepts early on.

League

Senior 2

Myponga 67 defeated Encounter Bay 41

Both teams came out fighting hard for the ball, keeping the first quarter quiet even.

An early injury caused Myponga to make a few defensive changes, however, that didn't disrupt the flow of their game. Myponga's shooters worked well together, and rewarded their defenders by scoring on turnovers.

Encounter Bay kept the pressure on for all four quarters, but Myponga came out with a 26-goal win.

Senior 3

Myponga 63 defeated Encounter Bay 13

Missing two goalies, Myponga took to the courts with Lucy Roper and Lauren Pratt, who did an amazing job for the game.

Up against a mix-and-match Encounter Bay side, Myponga worked well all over the court to take a strong 12-3 lead at the first break.

Standing strong, again Myponga worked hard all over the court, with Encounter Bay making changes.

Ella Huxtable did all she could in goals for the game, up against our height and jumping ability in Myponga's defenders, Amy Mathewson and Macky Farrant.

Stepping out to a 30-7 lead, Myponga made the most of a great lead.

Changes in their mid-court saw fresh legs and a renewed passion.

Unfortunately, this waned slightly when Myponga slowed down.

The defensive work rate was high for the game seeing Myponga gain interceptions and picking up any rebounds.

With a fantastic game played, each player deserved a huge pat on the back. Minor tweaks will be worked on over the next few weeks, before a few hard games.

It was a great percentage game today with everyone putting in a huge effort.

It was an amazing 48-game shooting haul from Lucy, Lauren feeding some spot on passes also.

Senior 4

Myponga 57 defeated Encounter Bay 34

With typical Myponga unpredictable weather, the two teams were keen for a good battle for a win.

Myponga were determined to put on early pressure, and strong defence saw them to a 22-goal lead at half time.

Encounter Bay made some smart changes at half time, with their attack becoming stronger and keeping Myponga to a one-goal lead in the final half of the game.

Well done by all; was a good game.

Senior 5

Myponga 41 defeated Encounter Bay 20

Showers, before we took the court, made it slippery, but we were lucky to have a sunny game again on Saturday.

Myponga came out strong with Julie McLaren's accurate shooting resulting in a 11-goal lead at the end of the first quarter.

Bay improved, but Myponga's turnovers resulted in a 10-goal lead at halftime.

Bay's midcourt players tried to put pressure on down the court in the third quarter, but Myponga's rebounds meant they struggled to score.

Myponga finished as comfortable winners.

Senior 6

Myponga 70 defeated Encounter

Bay 12

A convincing win by Myponga with strong performances by every team member.

Consistently close defending by each Myponga player made it hard for Encounter Bay to score.

Much of the play saw Myponga attacking and presenting their goalies with plenty of opportunities, and both managed to score a very high percentage.

To their credit, Encounter Bays' young team tried hard for the entire game and kept encouraging each other in a positive way.

Moving Stephanie Hayes to GS in the last quarter gave the Bays more scoring ability, as she was able to position herself for shots close to the post.

Inter 1

Bye

Inter 2

Myponga 44 defeated Encounter Bay 33

The girls were hungry for their next win, and went into the game with fire in their bellies.

They put on all court pressure building their teamwork settling their game to come out leaders at halftime by 26/17.

Myponga continued to settle and keep their composure to fight out the game Kiara Combes and Alana McGrath fought hard for their team and kept their lead for overall winners

Inter 3

Myponga 30 defeated Encounter Bay 19

It was evident that Encounter Bay was searching for their first win against Myponga on Saturday, as they came out strong and started to score quickly in the first quarter.

Myponga eventually was able to even it up by the end of the first quarter though.

Myponga played some of their best netball yet in the second quarter, scoring efficiently off of turnovers from Alicia Galbraith in defence.

The rain started to pour down between the second and third quarter, but that didn't stop Myponga from continuing to apply pressure and move the ball well through the midcourt and goals.

Myponga outscored Encounter Bay in the last quarter, therefore, sealing the win.

Inter 4

Myponga 14 defeated by Encounter Bay 27

Myponga girls started strong, with a very even first quarter.

Encounter Bay came out fighting in the second quarter with some great shooting, providing few opportunities for Myponga.

The rain hit in the third quarter and the Myponga girls took some time to adjust.

Encounter Bay pressure over the ball and great shooting proved too strong for the Myponga girls.

13 Div3

Myponga 20 defeated Encounter Bay 9

What a great morning; that was until it rained, and all got wet!

It was a good game to watch.

Myponga are certainly learning, taking on board what they had learnt at their Tuesday night game.

There was some good shooting and tight defence with some brilliant intercepting down the court which made Myponga come out as eventual winners.

Thank you, Encounter Bay, for making it a good game to watch, and sorry for the Myponga weather!

We certainly, can't take away some good shooting from your girls.

See you all next round.

11 Div1

Myponga defeated by Encounter

Bay

Praying to the weather gods paid off for our time slot, as it was near perfect playing conditions. Encounter Bay started out strong with one goal to four in the first quarter.

Myponga came back strong, holding Encounter Bay to one goal in the second.

Defensively, Myponga was strong throughout the game, but silly mistakes resulting in turnovers saw Encounter Bay through Indigo Gracke, Ruby Priest and Stella Carmichael capitalise, and take the win.

Myponga are showing improvements every week.

Overall, it was a great game.

11 Div2

Myponga 0 defeated by Encounter Bay 19

The girls were happy to hit the court in dry conditions after a big down poor minutes before they were due to start.

The first quarter was goalless with great strength from both teams.

Caitlin Wallace for Myponga defended strongly, and Imogen Carmichael for Bays constantly drove the ball forward.

Encounter Bay took the lead in the last half with very accurate shooting from Faith Glazbrook.

Myponga kept the pressure on, but Bays were too strong all over the court.

The final score was Myponga 0 to Encounter Bay 19

9 & Under

Draw

The Myponga verse Encounter Bay 9s netball match was evenly contested for the first half.

There was good strong passing by Bonnie Hancock and Taylor Veron.

Encounter Bay had a strong defence and accurate shooting.

It was a well-played game by both teams.

Bowling into a new century

By Tara Nash

Goolwa Bowling Club members have been bowling down memory lane this week as the club marked its milestone 100-year history.

Celebrations began with an afternoon tea and historical display on Sunday, before a two-day tournament where 38 teams competed for a total of $10,000 prize money.

"It's been excellent – the weather has been great," Director of Bowls John Doyle said.

"It's been a successful event in terms of organisation and the quality of the bowlers.

"Everybody's having a great time."

With bowlers travelling from Adelaide through to Kangaroo Island, the competition was "very strong", with a winner crowned for each day and overall.

Goolwa Lions Club and Royal Flying Doctor's Service provided catering across the two days.

With about 170 members, Doyle believes the club is one of the biggest in the southern region.

The Goolwa Bowling Club was formed at a meeting held in the local council chambers on May 25, 1923.

It started with one green (couch grass) of 5 rinks and was extended at a later stage by using a portion of the women's croquet court.

The club moved to its present site in 1958 after considerable voluntary work, fundraising and grants from the then Recreation Ground Committee.

"For any sporting club to last 100 years is an achievement in itself," Doyle said.

"Not a lot of bowling clubs (reach 100 years).

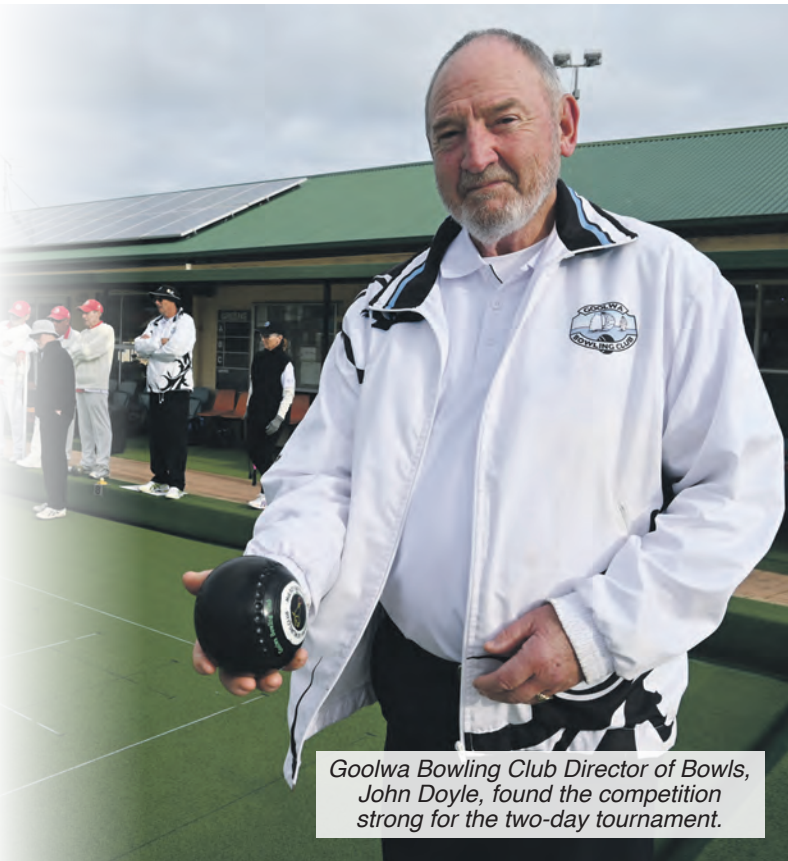

"We provide excellent greens which attract people to play on."

Goolwa Bowling Club may still have a long future to come, as Doyle promotes the game with the next generation, by developing a junior program with Goolwa Secondary College, supported by Bowls SA.

"What we're emphasising to kids at high school is, there is a lot of opportunity for young people to play bowls at a very high level – state, national or even international," Doyle said.

"We've been a successful club over the years, over the past few years we've been in the finals in pennants.

"Aside from that, we're trying to provide an environment for people to foster the game of lawn bowls."

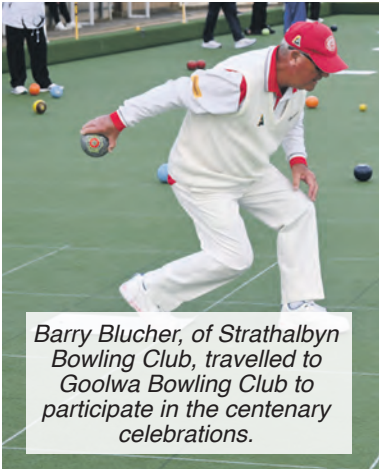

Goolwa Bowling Club Director of Bowls, John Doyle, found the competition strong for the two-day tournament.

Goolwa Bowling Club President Margaret Borlase was pleased to invite past and present members to the club on Sunday to celebrate 100 years.

Creek ‘shaka up’ for mental health

It's a pandemic that's prevalent in communities now more than ever, and one the Langhorne Creek Football Club spreads awareness for each year through community education to coincide with the league's Mental Health Breakthrough Community Round and its own Cooney Cup, which the Senior Colts play for against Strathalbyn, in honour of and with support of Jarrad Cooney's family.

Previously, the club held an 'Are you Boggled Mate?' presentation with Mary O'Brien, targeted at helping country men start discussions around mental health and suicide, while also giving them the tools to support each other through feelings of depression and embarrassment.

This year, with the help of a $2000 Alexandrina Council grant, the club has partnered with The Shaka Project to deliver an hour-long workshop designed to ignite conversations around mental health, and encourage connection, mateship and brotherhood through the 'shaka'.

"It's easy just to do the round and that be it, but rather than just putting on the armband and saying 'this is for mental health', we wanted to dig deeper than that," LCFC Co-President, Jessica Chandler, said.

"(The Shaka Project) was always in the back of my mind, but then I connected the two and I was like 'these guys are a big thing and I think it could be amazing'.

"I know it's going to be tricky for boys to get interactive when you're talking about feelings, but I've seen some stuff (Sean Weir) has done and he's amazing, so I think it's going to be a relatable way to talk about it.

"We've seen the impact lately of some events both in Strath and Creek, so I think it's very significant and something that needs to be addressed more frequently."

The event will particularly hit close to home for Strathalbyn and Langhorne Creek communities, which have been impacted 'far too many times' by suicide.

As a club that prides itself on being a place where friends call each other family, Chandler said it's important members stick together both physically and mentally moving forward.

"As the Executive and President, you feel a sense of protection and care for everyone involved in the club," she said.

"When you come here, it's like your second home – it's just a big family club – so when you hear news something has happened, your heart breaks, and you can't help but think of the worst and it's one of your players or someone you know.

"I think we're in a powerful position as a club, with the platform we have, that we can do more, and if there is an opportunity, we're going to do that.

"It's like a game of footy – you're going to be there if (your teammates) get knocked down, if there's a bump, you're going to pick them up, and if they get tackled, you're the first one to grab their hand, so why should mental health be any different?"

Everyone is welcome to attend the workshop at the club from 6pm on Wednesday, June 28.

Even if people aren't struggling themselves, Chandler said it's a good opportunity to learn how to support others.

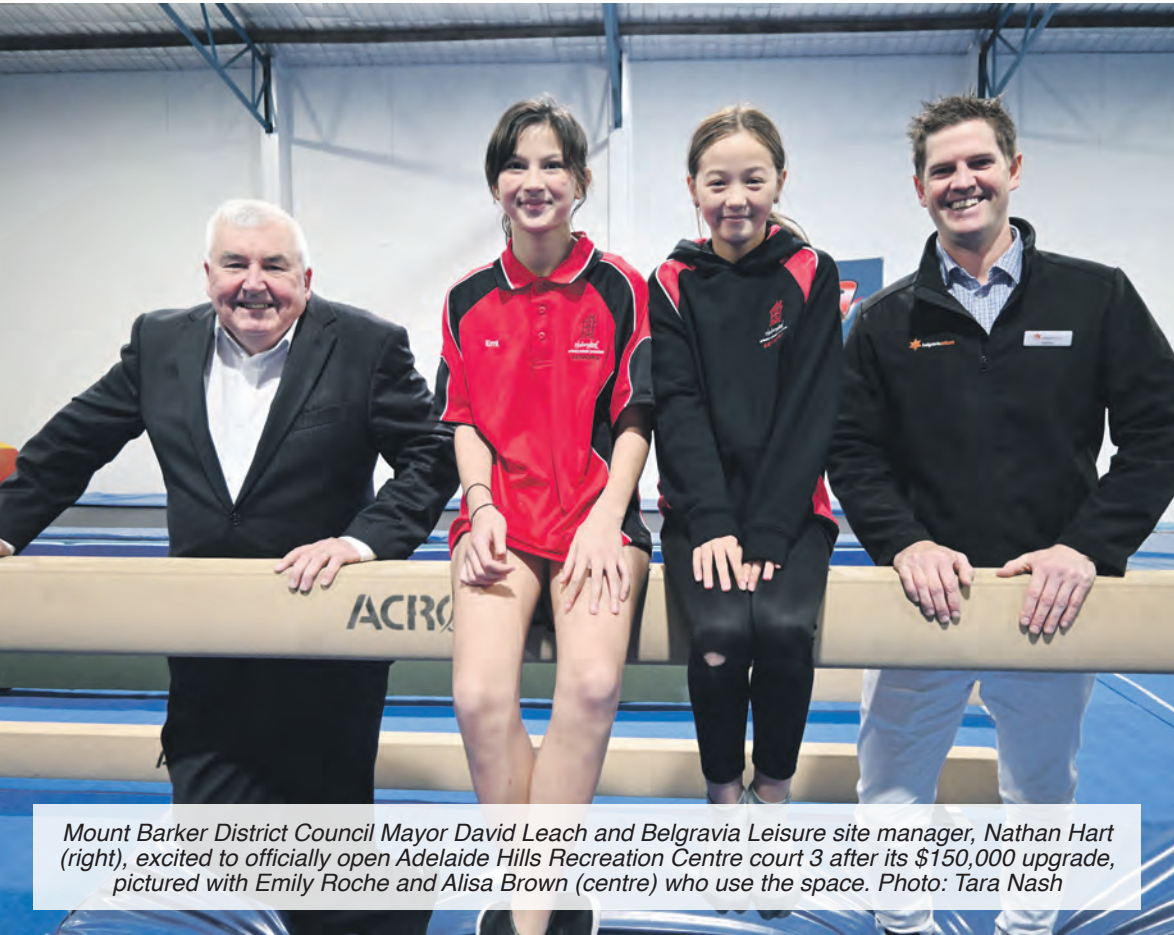

"If we're not struggling personally, it's about identifying those signs we can see in someone else, and at least know the steps how to support them moving forward," she said.

"I personally don't know what to do if someone came up to me saying they were struggling, so I think it would be just very informative for us to help others.

"We'll definitely keep supporting this kind of event moving forward because I think it has no discrimination and obviously, we can tell it's not slowing down.

"It's a pandemic that's going to keep going unfortunately, so the more times we can have that conversation, the better."

Gymnasts jump for joy over court upgrade

A $150,000 upgrade to Mount Barker's Adelaide Hills Recreation Centre court, used by the Hills Gymnastics Academy, was recently completed.

The Mount Barker District Council project was supported by a $31,000 grant from the Office for Recreation, Sport and Racing.

The upgrade included installation of evaporative air conditioning, wall insulation and new carpet squares, to address the inadequate heating and cooling of the court which previously led to frequent cancellation of training sessions.

Mayor David Leach officially opened the court last Thursday, and said the improvements will ensure the comfort of gymnasts all year round.

The Adelaide Hills Recreation Centre, owned by council and operated in partnership with Belgravia Leisure, has more than 65,000 annual users, partaking in activities including basketball, gym, gymnastics, squash, badminton, kindergym and roller skating.

Daish Irrigation and Fodder Family Race Day

The annual Daish Irrigation and Fodder Family Race Day was celebrated by 150 invited guests, clients and sponsors travelling from interstate on Sunday, seeing an opportunity for the team to interact with and thank their valued clients.

Daish Irrigation and Fodder is the fabric of many industries around the region, be it viticulture, turf, farming of all descriptions, homeowner, the horse industry, and also plays a major part in the track maintenance at Strathalbyn.

Proud partners on the day included Philmac, AAP Industries, Norma Group, Davey, Vinidex, Team Poly, Grundfos, Adelaide Belt and Hose and Orange Pumps.

Brendan O'Neil and his team were congratulated on the "efficient business" and years of service to the district, which is highly respected in the local community, partnering with community bodies across Strathalbyn, Langhorne Creek and Murray Bridge.

"We value their relationship and support of our race club," Strathalbyn Racing Club CEO Kristy Martin said.

Despite experiencing a cool day and mild showers, a terrific crowd of approximately 800 enjoyed the 8 races, with children kept entertained in the kids' area and by Farmer Darcy's Travelling farm.

Local trainer Grant Kluske's Cartier Tiara, ridden by Sophie Logan, and fellow local trainer David Jolly's, Valaroc, ridden by Kayla Crowther, had success on the day.

Locally, David Jolly Racing, with The Grey King ridden by Kayla Crowther and Peter Moody's Medal Quest ridden by Jessica Eaton enjoyed success.

The track held well and will now be rested for the club's final meet, this coming Wednesday.

Strathalbyn Racing Club continues to provide a relaxed, family friendly environment for all to enjoy.

Clean sweep for Cranwell

Rain caused two delays on Saturday at the Deed Range in Monarto, as Murray Bridge Rifle Club members competed in the 30th stage of the club championship from 1000 yards.

The winds were from the right and, at times, caused some consternation at certain points in the afternoon, particularly just before the second front came through.

Making the most of the situation on the day was John Cranwell who, following a less than convincing start, was still able to lead the small but competitive F-Class field.

John won the F-Open 'snipers' award for best sighters with a score of 15.00, the F-Open top off-rifle award with a total of 115.08, including a possible in the second round, the F-Class handicap award with a nine-point gap to second place and, somewhat unusually, he also won the F-Class magpie award, shooting a single three in his two rounds.

Gordon Harrison topped the table in F-Standard from Ian Taylor, but the pair had to be split by a count out, having finished on exactly the same score and centres with 105.02 each.

In the end it was 'Harro' who finished stronger, scoring a super centre on his final shot.

There were five TR shooters on the day, with the early lead going to Andrew Heard with a 49.01 in the first round, narrowly ahead of Greg Traeger on 48.04, and Robert Paech and Daniel Irvine each on 47.

The second round saw Robert Paech excel, shooting a 49.02 of his own to give him a narrow victory ahead of Greg Traeger 96.05 to 95.05.

Greg, however, did enough to claim the handicap award for TR, by the narrow margin of 0.6 from daughter Jasamine, who also claimed the TR magpie award with four birds.

Next week the club hosts shooters from Mount Barker in the third round of the DRA Championship from 700 and 800 metres.

Full Scores:

F-Class: J Cranwell (FO) 55.02, 60.06, 115.08 (125.5), I Taylor (FS) 55.02, 50.00, 105.02 (116.6), D McDonald (FO) 54.03, 53.01, 107.04 (113.6), G Harrison (FS) 54.01, 51.01, 105.02 (111.9).

TR: G Traeger 48.04, 47.01, 95.05 (104.9), J Irvine 44.01, 44.04, 88.05 (104.3), D Irvine 47.01, 41.01, 88.02 (103.4), R Paech 47.03, 49.02, 96.05 (102.7), A Heard 49.01, 44.02, 93.03 (100.2).

Strathalbyn Golf

Robson has a day out with +5

By Perry Jones

It was a par round at the Strathalbyn golf course on Saturday, and Gordon Robson had one of those days when everything went right for a change, to win the day with +5.

Yes, it was an early 60th birthday present for Gordon as there were no shanks, getting everything off the tees, good chipping and putting for the B grader, being +2 after nine holes, going even better after a shower of rain on the back nine to get his score to +5.

He had 42 off the stick on the front nine and 43 on the back to win the day, with him saying it was too long to remember when he was winner off the day.

In a field of 40 players, Gordon won from Michael Clarke and Mark Condon also in B grade, and an A grade winner, Stewart Glatz, all on +1, while the C grade winner was Kim Wittwer being square for the day.

While Gordon was playing with Kym Nelson, who had a horror day with his chipping for a -4, there was a carry on between the other pair with them, Andrew Smith and Trevor Calaby, when it started to rain for a short period.

Andrew, being -3 at the time, was quick to pull up stumps.

With Cal not that keen to do the same, going okay to be square after 12 holes, reluctantly agreed to retire as well, for a discussion with Andrew over a few refreshments in the clubhouse.

It appears that Trev is walking three kilometres a day, in warming up for his walk to support MS, so to help him out, Nelson, at the end of play was fining anyone who walked into the clubhouse door for trivial golfing mistakes on the day, and donating the proceeds to Trev's adventure.

With their mates pulling the pin, Gordon and Kym had Derek Keane and Randal Pitt join them to finish the round as Des Kelly from that group also disappeared when it rained, with Randall picking up a birdie on the fifteenth, but was back to earth again next hole picking up his ball after seven hits as he finished with -3 for the round, with one better than Derek.

Jo Pickhaver got caught on the fifth when she was decorating the toilet shed at the end of that hole, with the ladies open day coming up on Friday, and should have gone inside the toilet for shelter.

Another to quit when the rain came was Dennis Gatehouse, and his partners Andrew Pavy, Geoff Hall and Kim Wittwer were glad to see him go in early.

Andrew, who had chipped in on the seventeenth, a bit annoyed with Dennis that he forgot to look where his tees were going, lost two on his way to being square for the day.

The other two had also said it was good for Dennis to depart, Kim saying his game improved out of sight, as he went on to win the C grade being square at the end of the day, and Geoff not being able to recover with -8.

Dennis had, however, left his mark when his drive off the third tee, travelling about a metre off the ground, went straight into a tree on the right-hand side and stayed there.

Early starters had a bit of a problem with the course.

A grader Phil Perrin, having been up the top for a fair few weeks, crashed and didn't wish to comment on his -10, while Erik Heyns somehow missed the Naga award on a count back from Brenton Welk, both on -11.

Dave Bell had a great round when he used new clubs to improve his golf, and started at a later time than usual.

He still had trouble with trees all over the course, his driver not working too well at times, especially on the eleventh when his tee shot landed in the last pine tree on the left, and having looked for it, thought it was still up in the tree.

Dave wasn't going to climb the tree to see if it was there, and then his driver let him down again on the fourteenth when his tee shot went right, never to be found again.

Dave did show a bit more accuracy with his new clubs on the fourth, however, with his tee shot not too bad but behind the big tree on the right, he thought he could comfortably navigate the tree to get the ball back on the fairway and close to the hole.

He certainly did get past the tree and even got the ball in the hole (that was the drainpipe hole, which was just past the tree), and not going to try and get it out, finished with -8.

He will probably go back to his normal early starting time next hit, or even get his old clubs out again.

Lord Alan Haberfield struggled on the front nine with everything, blaming Damon Mayes who was giving him a ride around in a cart.

It wasn't until the ninth hole when he was on the edge of the green for three, then sinking a long putt to get his first plus for the day, which saw him then concentrate a bit more and block out the normal colourful advice coming from Damon, that he finished the day square.

Damon started his first round like he meant business, but his game started to unwind when on the seventh another of his long tee shots landed as normal on the right-hand side of the fairway, while his second shot flew over to the other side of the fairway into the bushes.

He then blamed his shonky knee for not being able crouch down to get at the ball properly, as his hit then went into the next lot of bushes.

After giving a graphic description of the shots played so far, his next shot to still get out of the bushes worked a treat, with the ball going out of bounds and on to the road.

This was Alan's chance to get in a bit of ribbing as Damon chucked his club back in the bag, and hopped in the cart to go up and watch his partners putt out.

Michael Young, being a big hitter of the ball, left his partners Kirk Richardson, Graeme Bertholini and Stewart Glatz in stitches with his tee shot on the fifteenth, when he was able to bend the ball at right angles to turn it back into the dam, a feat that didn't help his cause on the day in finishing with -9.

Frank Clennett likes to have an audience around when he is playing his shots, and he had one last Saturday when on the fourteenth.

A mob of kangaroos turned up to watch him play, and then they ventured over to the sixteenth fairway to see Frank play his second shot from the left-hand side of that fairway, their encouragement seeing Frank finish fifth in A grade with -3.

Stewart Glatz also likes a few animals around when he plays, but his audience became a bit of a problem when he was about to chip onto the seventeenth green, as it was four ducks that had wandered on to it.

Stewart, in a gentle manner, walked towards them to tell them to move on, which they did.

Brian Simpson apparently needs up bit of a pump up now and again, last Saturday being one of those occasions as he went around the course with his golf gear and flat tyres on his buggy, probably the reason he finished well down in B grade with -5.

While Kirk Richardson was again the winner of the meat tray, he also had a chance to pick up the $40 jackpot putting prize at the end of the day, but missed out as did Geoff Hall and Kim Wittwer.

This Saturday is a Stableford competition, and there's a reminder that if you want to put in a team for the Teynon golf day on Sunday, June 4, nominations are closing fast.

Not everything is crystal clear in bidding, and this hand highlights the need to read between the lines to decipher what the bidders are really saying.

This comes about because of the limited choice of legal bids, there are only 35 permissible bids plus Pass, Double and Re-double.

To all of that players will add their own vision to overcome the foggy haze of other people's bidding.

In the hand above, North opens 2 Hearts, which most players will recognise as a Weak Two, 6-card suit, less than normal opening points.

Instead of Doubling, a faint-hearted East timidly passed after confirming with South that the bid was in fact a Weak Two.

South, not one to be faint hearted, realised that E/W had the balance of the points, so bid 4 Hearts pre-emptively, and East/West had no opportunity to win the fair maiden, a Game in Clubs.

What East should have done, especially after the inquiry, is Double.

It is the ideal time, having opening points and a shortage in the suit opened with a Weak Two.

After South's pre-emptive jump to 4H, it would have been West's turn to be brave.

A Weak Two followed by partner's Double, and an obvious obstruction from South, reading between the lines leads to the conclusion that 5 Clubs should be a safe contract.

Perhaps that does take a bit of courage, but the information is all there for the reading.

These days we hear about FOMO, fear of missing out, and on the night this was played, that is what 5 out of 7 E/W pairs did, allowing N/S to play in Hearts, mostly making 8 tricks.

Only one E/W found a Club Contract, settling in 4, but why not go for the Game? Faint heart never won fair maiden!

Strathalbyn Ladies Golf

Chilly start to Winter golf

Another cold morning greeted our ladies for Wednesday golf.

Winter golf is here now, and the scores returned by the girls were reflected on their cards after completion of the game.

There were only nine girls out on Wednesday, as lots of our players were away on holidays or had other commitments, so not much to report.

However, it was heard that Sue Sutton spent a lot of time, in the trees, behind the trees, alongside the trees, thus making her game a challenging one; the fairway is the place to be, Sue.

After a couple of scruffy holes, Carol Pelle lined up her tee shot on the fifteenth tee block and delivered a massive drive, landing only a couple of metres from the pin.

Great effort, Carol, as this hole is hard to land a drive on in wintry conditions.

It was very pleasing to see some of our newer golfers having good shots.

There were no gobblers or birdies to report this week, but lots of stories about putts that just slipped past the cup; if only they had gone in, what would have their score been?

The girls played a stableford competition, and Charmaine Aplin was the winner of the day with 33 points, and Mel Johnson was not far behind with 32 points; Kerry Edwards won the NTP.

Jo Pickhaver was back at the club, having returned from her overseas travels.

It was a real welcome back to the club, as her first official duty was to give the on-course dunny a good scrub up ready for our upcoming gala day; good on you, Jo.

ABOUT US

Established in 1866, The Southern Argus has been an important advocate for our local community. The stories and photos that are published in the printed edition and online help to connect, inspire and inform a huge audience each week. This reach provides a valuable platform for local businesses to advertise in.

In the last two years, your local newspaper, The Southern Argus, was sold to another South Australian family business. Our team has since delivered a new website, doubled the newspaper's readership and increased the number of pages and stories we cover.

We're looking for the next superstars to join our growing team. You will enjoy working with a highly-talented team who are passionate and committed to providing our community with quality journalism and delivering outstanding customer service.

THE POSITION

Due to continued expansion, The Southern Argus currently has a position vacant within our Advertising Sales department.

This is an exciting role where you will work with the Sales Manager to sell and allocate advertising space in print and online by sourcing new business and developing existing client opportunities.

We are seeking an exceptional communicator with a proven ability to deliver outstanding customer service.

The successful candidate must:

- Possess a demonstrated ability to build strong relationships and positive client experiences.
- Be focused, organised and able to manage multiple priorities while working to a deadline.
- Be computer literate and have excellent written skills.
- Have a genuine desire to succeed in a positive team environment.
- Hold a current driver's licence.

Previous media sales experience is not essential however, would be considered a strong advantage.

Set hours can be negotiated. Prior industry experience will be highly rewarded.
