PIP, PIP, HOORAY!

Locals and visitors will soon fill the Goolwa Beach carpark to catch pipis as the recreational fishing season begins.

While many use the small shellfish as bait, the popularity around eating them has grown again in recent times after they have been iconic to local waters for 19,000 years and called 'kuti' by the Ngarrindjeri peoples.

Today, Ngarrindjeri-owned Goolwa PipiCo and Kuti Co help connect Indigenous peoples to these long-running traditions through commercial fishing.

Local students share their social media experiences in light of proposed new regulations...

STATUS UPDATE

By Tara Nash

Bullying, body image issues and leaked photos are some of the issues local teenagers reported with social media, amid a continuing national debate on regulations.

Leaders, experts, parents and teenagers met last week to discuss the topic and learn about online safety at a summit in Adelaide.

South Australian schools will now deliver an evidence-based program focused on preventing or mitigating issues associated with social media, as outlined by SA Premier Malinauskas during the summit.

The curriculum will have content on coercive control, strategies for detecting deepfakes, understanding artificial intelligence and the impact of negative online influencers.

Children up to 16-years-old could be banned from social media by the end of this year as the Federal Government considers legislation, while the State Government has proposed social media companies ban users under 14 or face fines.

Subsequently, Meta – which owns Facebook and Instagram – introduced 'teen accounts' for users under the age of 18 to allow regulated use, such as giving parents the ability to set daily time limits.

Mental health advocate Cliff Sweetman – who was a teacher and student counsellor, and volunteers with Strathalbyn & Communities Suicide Prevention Network – believes regulations are necessary as social media can have a negative impact on teenagers' mental health.

"I think kids in their own heart-of-hearts know it's dangerous if you let it run rife," he said.

"Mentally, kids haven't developed (sufficient) self defence mechanisms and they may not have the resilience to counteract some of the negativity they come into contact with through social media.

"We're a village helping to raise kids and we need to be very conscious of what we're putting in place for them.

"These social media platforms are all money-driven – they don't care about kids, and someone's got to care about kids."

As debate has sparked, The Southern Argus spoke to Goolwa Secondary College students on about the issue, who supported regulation.

Bullying, body image issues and leaked photos were some of the issues they had witnessed with peers.

Historic oven sparks community interest

Macclesfield Old Oven Museum – which features a 1930s scotch oven – was recently opened by Davin Kuchel. Photos: Tara Nash

By Tara Nash

Local history buffs now have the opportunity to view a historic 1930s scotch oven in Macclesfield that used to bake 400 loaves of bread a day for the Adelaide Hills area.

Built by the Carter family, the oven of the former bakery – now Macclesfield General Store – would take three to four days to heat up.

Dough was handmade and initially put in a proofing drawer.

The oven was originally wood-fired and later converted to oil-fired.

Located on the town's main strip Venables Street, the building was first established in the 1880s, and was a bakery from the 1930s to 1950s.

The bakery/oven was last operated by the Ingerson family and closed in the 1950s and has been sitting idle until recently.

Macclesfield General Store Owner Davin Kuchel offered the community an opportunity to re-ignite old memories and learn about old-fashioned processes by opening Macclesfield Old Oven Museum.

The move is a bit of a personal full-circle moment, as his grandfather used to deliver bread baked at the site.

As well as the oven, the space includes other historic artefacts from the Adelaide Hills – most of which are a century old – such as an old butter church, milk bottles, a clothes ringer, cart, and electrical items.

The oven of the former bakery would take three to four days to heat up.

Opened intermittently or by appointment, Mr Kuchel's wealth of research has allowed him to tell the backstories of each piece, which have sparked memories and nostalgia.

Mr Kuchel has become passionate about keeping history alive as "once it's gone, it's gone".

"(Without history) people won't know how it was done, how people used to do stuff the old-fashioned way – the hard way," he said.

"On old farms, they'd milk cows to get their milk, they made their own butter and cream – everything was done by hand, whereas some kids these days think milk comes from a bottle.

"Let people see old stuff because a lot of it gets thrown away."

The space at the back of Macclesfield General Store also has an old cellar that can be viewed from atop.

"When next door was a school house during the war, the air raid sirens would go off and the kids would dive out the backdoor of the RSL, in through the side door and down into the cellar, because it was an air raid shelter," he said.

"Up until the 1980s, there used to be gelignite in it – explosive dynamite."

Pothole-prone road to be inspected

By Giorgina McKay

A troublesome Willyaroo road will finally be inspected after four years, bringing some conciliation to its residents who have had to take their own action to resolve the recurring issue.

Over the years, Blacker Road has become increasingly susceptible to potholes, according to residents of the street, causing damage to cars and prohibiting children from riding their bikes along the road.

For Mandy Melville, who moved to the Willyaroo street in October 2008, the issue became “really bad” back in 2020, to the point where she claims she had to get Alexandrina Council involved.

After continuous calls, she claims three workers were sent down with shovels but nothing further has been done since.

Instead, the residents have taken it upon themselves to fill in the holes, causing some frustrations among the neighbours.

“It got really bad in 2020 – I don’t know why – so I rang the council and I literally rang them every day for a week or two, badgering them and saying you’ve got to do something,” she said.

“Ever since I haven’t bothered ringing the council, but when we got our last rates bill, it just made me really angry.”

Mrs Melville claims the holes pop up on average every six months, depending on the weather, with the most recent batch covered by one of the residents about a month ago.

She ideally would like the road to be bituminised, but at the very least, for it to be graded.

However, according to council, it has no record of formal complaints being made about the section of road in 2020.

Though now it is aware of the pothole complaints, Acting Chief Executive Officer Stacey Bateson said an asset inspector would be sent to visit the area.

Blacker Road is causing issues for its residents.

Community urged to support Bandana Day

By Giorgina McKay

A new range of funky bandanas will be available to purchase from local businesses and Canteen Australia in support of a national October fundraiser.

Held annually on the second last Thursday of October, National Bandana Day is the flagship fundraising and awareness campaign for Canteen Australia, which raises vital funds to support young people impacted by cancer.

Since Bandana Day began, it has raised more than $35 million, and in its 30th year, the organisation is hoping to continue its success by encouraging more people to either buy a colourful bandana, register for the cut, colour, cover challenge or take on the 10,000 steps a day challenge this month.

Businesses in particular are asked to help sell boxes of the bandanas in their stores.

Strathalbyn’s The Terminus Hotel has already jumped on board the cause.

Publican Stacey Phelan was “extremely happy” to participate.

“My family and our entire Terminus family has firsthand seen the impacts of cancer, and we’ve also personally watched a young family member fight through it,” she said.

“We knew our customers would be on board with helping raise funds for such a great cause.

“Canteen has done so much great work and continues to support those with cancer and also their families.

“You’ll see all our team sporting bandanas on National Bandana Day, and we will also be donating $5 from every main meal sold.”

All funds raised from Bandana Day will help young people impacted by cancer access Canteen programs, counselling and peer support.

To purchase a bandana, visit the Terminus Hotel or grab one online from (<https://shop.bandannaday.org.au>).

Walkathon raises thousands for local food relief

By Tara Nash

Country Life Compassion's walkathon around Strathalbyn's terraces raised about $3500 for emergency food relief.

The major fundraising event for the Pantry Club will support emergency food relief, operational costs and the upcoming Christmas hamper drive during an increased demand for services.

"It was a good day – we were pleased with it," Pantry Club Co-ordinator, Paquita Wise, said.

On Saturday, some walkers completed one 3.4km lap, while others finished three.

One participant raised almost half the total by themselves – $1300 – while another secured the generous sponsorship of $50 per lap.

Ms Wise thanked everyone for the generous sponsorship and support.

After recently relocating to Callington Road, the event moved to a new space at Thomas E Adams Park, near the train station.

"I like the position as it felt part of the community, so I was really pleased," she said.

Country Life Compassion plans to fundraise with a quiz night next year.

Bullying, body image issues and leaked photos are some of the issues local teenagers reported with social media, amid a continuing national debate on regulations.

Leaders, experts, parents and teenagers met last week to discuss the topic and learn about online safety at a summit in Adelaide.

South Australian schools will now deliver an evidence-based program focused on preventing or mitigating issues associated with social media, as outlined by SA Premier Malinauskas during the summit.

The curriculum will have content on coercive control, strategies for detecting deepfakes, understanding artificial intelligence and the impact of negative online influencers.

Children up to 16-years-old could be banned from social media by the end of this year as the Federal Government considers legislation, while the State Government has proposed social media companies ban users under 14 or face fines.

Subsequently, Meta – which owns Facebook and Instagram – introduced 'teen accounts' for users under the age of 18 to allow regulated use, such as giving parents the ability to set daily time limits.

Mental health advocate Cliff Sweetman – who was a teacher and student counsellor, and volunteers with Strathalbyn & Communities

Suicide Prevention Network – believes regulations are necessary as social media can have a negative impact on teenagers' mental health.

"I think kids in their own heart-of-hearts know it's dangerous if you let it run rife," he said.

"Mentally, kids haven't developed (sufficient) self defence mechanisms and they may not have the resilience to counteract some of the negativity they come into contact with through social media.

"We're a village helping to raise kids and we need to be very conscious of what we're putting in place for them.

"These social media platforms are all money-driven – they don't care about kids, and someone's got to care about kids."

As debate has sparked, The Southern Argus spoke to Goolwa Secondary College students on about the issue, who supported regulation.

Bullying, body image issues and leaked photos were some of the issues they had witnessed with peers.

When deciding which platform was better or worse, it can be a matter of "pick your poison", however, generally, they believed Snapchat and Messenger were the least harmful, with more control, whereas X – formerly known as Twitter – was considered one of the most harmful.

Education and connecting with friends were positives the students found in social media, and on the flipside, they believed they would feel disconnected or socially isolated without it.

Lilli Dorset, year 8

I think there should be a certain age for restrictions – maybe 14 and under. There are a lot of things on social media that even I have realised I should not be getting exposed to.

It's not that I'm against it, but I've seen so many things that have happened to people... like bullying and leaked photos and people talking to people who they don't actually know who they are.

I think parents should have more say... because I'm pretty sure parents wouldn't know half the things their kids are seeing on social media.

Brooke Gowland, year 9

I think (regulation) depends on what apps and if there's a way of blocking certain content.

I think anyone under the age 14 shouldn't require social media.

Beth Taylor-Ziersch, year 9

I think if you're under the age of 14 there's some (apps) you shouldn't be allowed on.

I don't think there should be any restrictions with Messenger.

Arnhen Jarrett, year 8

It'll be hard to enforce it because everyone will find a way around it. I think it's a good idea because social media can be badly impacting to (users') identity and what they stand for. You're comparing yourself in a bad way which is something your parents might not want.

The annual Highland Gathering returns to Glenbarr Homestead on Sunday.

A day of Scottish tradition returns

Get ready to step back in time and experience the enduring traditions that have shaped Scottish history at Glenbarr Homestead's annual Highland Gathering on Sunday.

Starting at 10am, this year's event promises to be a vibrant celebration of Scottish culture, drawing together the community for a day filled with tradition, entertainment, and camaraderie.

Set against the picturesque backdrop of Glenbarr Homestead, the event will feature the ever-popular Highland Games competitions such as the caber toss and stone put, live music and dance performances from the bagpipes and Highland dancers, clan representations in their tartans and banners, and artisan markets and food stalls from a diverse selection of handmade crafts, Scottish goods, and traditional foods that offer a true taste of Scotland.

The day will also be filled with opportunities to connect with fellow enthusiasts, learn about Scottish heritage, and create lasting memories.

"We are thrilled to host the Highland Gathering at Glenbarr Homestead once again," Glenbarr Homestead President, Bill Bullock, said.

"This event is a highlight of our calendar, bringing together people of all ages to celebrate the rich cultural heritage of Scotland and Glenbarr.

"We welcome everyone to join us for a day of fun, tradition, and community spirit."

Proceeds from the event will support ongoing preservation efforts and future community initiatives.

Tickets are now on sale and will be available on the day as well.

Adults cost $15, family $35, and juniors $5, while children under 10 get in for free.

For more information about the event, including sponsorship opportunities and how to contribute raffle prizes, visit (www.glenbarr.com.au) or (<https://www.trybooking.com/CVATL>), or contact Glenbarr on 0419 679 829.

Kuti chef Millie Martin and owner Vanessa Button encourage locals to enjoy iconic local shellfish pipis as recreational fishing season starts. Photo: Tara Nash

Pipi season almost here

By Tara Nash

Locals and visitors will soon fill the Goolwa Beach carpark to catch pipis as the recreational fishing season begins.

While many use the small shellfish as bait, the popularity around eating them has grown again in recent times after they have been iconic to local waters for 19,000 years and called 'kuti' by the Ngarrindjeri peoples.

Today, Ngarrindjeri-owned Goolwa PipiCo and Kuti Co helps connect Indigenous peoples to these long-running traditions through commercial fishing.

Recreational fishers and tourists enjoy filling their freezers with pipis during the season which kicks off in two weeks from November 1.

Following size and daily limit regulations, the process of catching them involves wriggling feet in the sand and collecting them with hands or nets.

Removing sand and grit from the shell requires preparation, with many soaking them in lightly salted cool water for several hours.

Vanessa Button – the owner of Kuti Shack, which partners with Goolwa PipiCo and Kuti Co – recommends home cooks hero pipis by preparing them into pasta vongole – which has spaghetti, white wine, butter, and fresh parsley.

"They're great to eat so it sort of feels like a waste to use it as bait," Ms Button said.

"(Perhaps they have grown in popularity) as Australians get more used to different cuisines, they're a little bit more open to eating things they didn't use to."

Ms Button will soon showcase local pipis at the Sea to Shore Glenelg Seafood Festival on October 26 and 27, which includes live cooking demonstrations and panels alongside some of the best seafood producers in the state.

Local swap meet raises thousands for Rotary projects

By Deirdre Graham

Lovers of a bargain and those wanting to sell them headed to Strathalbyn on Sunday for Rotary's annual Auto Swap Meet.

Rotary spokesperson Craig Maidment said the organisation was "very happy" with the way the event unfolded, with more than 200 buyers through the gates, and about 150 stallholders spread out around the town oval.

"The profit from the whole show would have been around about the $6500 mark," Mr Maidment said.

"We initially set this up for youth projects, which we have quite a number of, and we have a few scholarships that we will be handing out to students.

"One is an art scholarship and the other is an agricultural scholarship – both cash scholarships – which is good for them.

"We will also be supporting the Ian Johnston Oratory Award at EFS – that is in honour of a past member who set that up."

Stallholders asked Rotary if it would consider running the event twice a year.

"We will consider it," Mr Maidment said.

"I am not saying we are going to... you have to find a weekend that it fits, and that is problematic as the whole calendar might be full.

"We haven't investigated it yet, but if there is a weekend there with no swap meets on then we (might) have a crack at it."

Art Expo to showcase Strathalbyn

Strathalbyn's inaugural upcoming Art Expo is designed to showcase the diverse art on offer in the town.

The expo will take place on October 19 and 20, with 10 local galleries uniting to present a weekend of art appreciation, demonstrations, meet the artist events, and solo exhibitions.

Artists and artisans will offer their time and share skills to promote the love of art, with genres such as pottery, pastels, oils, acrylics, Hanji, mixed media, watercolour, weaving and textiles covered.

Tools, studios, techniques, experiences and tricks of each trade will be shared and questions answered.

"Certainly, it is a sharing of expertise and an opportunity not to be missed," Spokesperson, Val Redding, said.

"If you have ever pondered the notion or interest to dabble in art, or are an artist with the same interests, then this is the town and weekend for you."

A timetable of demonstrations and open hours is available on Facebook through various shared sites, at the StationMaster's Gallery, and the 10 individual galleries taking part.

Meanwhile, for those people keen to walk most of the trail around town, a Walking Trail flyer has also been designed which can also be picked up at StationMaster's Art Gallery or the individual galleries.

Shave raises almost $6000 to fight leukaemia

By Deirdre Graham

A local trio raised almost $6000 to fight leukaemia by cutting off their locks on Sunday.

Kate Whiting, her sister Ellen D'Arcy and sister-in-law Emma Smith were excited to raise "so much" money for the Leukaemia Foundation, particularly because they would have been more than happy with $3000.

About 50 people gathered to support them at the Milang Regatta Yacht Club for the cut, but also some extra fundraising such as raffles and a sausage sizzle.

"We ended up auctioning (my brother Angas') hair off too on the day, which was a last-minute inclusion," Mrs Whiting said. "I think he got $230."

The trio had grown their hair to at least 20 to 33cm, with Emma's the longest at 60 to 70cm.

Fire leaves a wreck at Wellington East

Police are investigating a house and car fire at Wellington East on Saturday.

Shortly before 5.30am, 20 Country Fire Service (CFS) firefighters on four trucks and one bulk-water carrier, supported by SA Police, were called to Riley Road, located south-east of Murray Bridge, following reports of a house and car fire.

Fire crews were quickly on scene, but the house and car parked nearby were fully engulfed with flames.

The blaze caused an estimated $150,000 in damages and spread to a vehicle, but due to firefighters' prompt response, the flames were contained to the transportable, saving a caravan and shed on the property.

Crews remained on scene extinguishing any smouldering areas for some time.

Fire cause investigators attended the scene to try to determine the cause.

Anyone with information that may assist the investigation can contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at (www.crimestopperssa.com.au).

Electric bike stolen from Murray Bridge

Police are investigating the theft of an electric bike from Murray Bridge earlier this month.

At 4.30pm on Thursday, October 3, the owner of a black electric bike attached it to a park bench on Adelaide Road near Lincoln Road.

The owner returned later at approximately 9pm to find the bike had been stolen.

Police are anyone with information that may assist the investigation to contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at (www.crimestopperssa.com.au).

NSW man fronts court over Port Elliot collision

A New South Wales man alleged to have ploughed into a group of people with his car at Port Elliot on the October long weekend will spend four months behind bars on remand.

As previously reported in The Southern Argus, just after 1.30am on Saturday, October 12, police and emergency services were called to North Terrace after a blue Ford sedan collided with a group of people out the front of licensed premises before leaving the area.

The impact left a 22-year-old Hindmarsh Island man with serious life-threatening injuries, including to his legs, while four others – a 21-year-old Goolwa Beach man, 37-year-old Elliott woman, a 20-year-old Inman Valley woman and 30-year-old Blackwood man – were taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

A short time later, the driver of the suspect vehicle, a 37-year-old New South Wales man, returned to the scene and was promptly arrested by local patrols.

The driver, Eric Cooper, appeared in Christies Beach Magistrates via video link last Tuesday charged with five counts of aggravated causing harm by dangerous driving, one count of aggravated causing serious harm by dangerous driving, one count of aggravated due care, and one count of leaving the scene of the accident.

He made no application for bail and is yet to enter any pleas to any of the counts.

Mr Cooper will face Adelaide Magistrates Court in February.

An elderly woman was taken to hospital after her vehicle rolled at Goolwa last Wednesday.

Just after 3pm on October 9, police and paramedics were called to Golfview Road following reports a red Suzuki had rolled.

The driver and sole occupant, an 85-year-old woman, was taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Safety reminder amid school return

RAA is reminding drivers to look out around school zones and prepare for slightly longer commute times as thousands of South Australian school students return to class for term four this week.

Drivers should be aware that school zones in SA have a speed limit of 25km/h whenever children are present, and school pedestrian crossings are set to be in more frequent use.

Motorists can also expect travel times to increase during the morning peak period – which is usually worst between 8-9am – as well as the afternoon rush.

RAA Senior Manager Road Safety Charles Mountain urged drivers to be extra careful around school zones.

"School is back for the final term of the year, so traffic will be heavy and thousands of students will be riding or walking near schools as they head to class," he said.

"If you want to beat the morning rush, leaving by around 7.30am will usually mean you should miss the worst of it, otherwise, it's a good idea to leave a few extra minutes for your journey during the morning and afternoon peak periods.

"It's important to remember the lower speed limits apply at school zones whenever children are present, including outside of school hours.

"School pedestrian crossings will also be in use at drop-off and pick-up times, so slow down and be prepared to stop if the amber lights are flashing or the orange flags are out."

Oil leak at Strathalbyn

An industrial rubbish truck left a minor mess in its wake after it leaked oil along a Strathalbyn road last Wednesday.

Just before 10am on October 9, Strathalbyn Country Fire Service crews were called to the intersection of Alfred Place and Russell Street when an industrial rubbish truck developed a leak in an oil line while collecting bins, resulting in a trail of oil on the road.

Thankfully, the driver noticed and was able to park the truck out of the way, and put down a couple of absorbent sausages to contain the spill.

Crews spread 'kitty litter' over the oil trail and worked it in with brooms.

Car rolls at Finnis

By Giorgina McKay

A young driver was taken to hospital after rolling her car at Finnis on Saturday.

Just after 11.10pm, police and paramedics were called to Dry Plains Road following reports of a single vehicle crash.

The driver, a 19-year-old woman, was taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Investigations are continuing.

Bond cars stolen from Murray Bridge

Police are investigating the break-in of a Murray Bridge property within the last month.

Sometime between Wednesday, September 30 and Sunday, October 6, a Hirt Avenue shed was broken into and approximately 130 James Bond collectable die-cast cars in their original packaging were stolen from inside.

Police ask anyone with information on the whereabouts of the collectables or the break-in to please contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at (www.sa.crimestopperssa.com.au).

The Critic

RATING

Before there was social media to tear down performances of actors in plays and on screen, there were newspaper critics who wielded praise, but also vitriol, to make and shape the careers of many.

The Critic is billed as a thriller, based on the 2015 novel Curtain Call by Anthony Quinn.

It stars international treasure Sir Ian McKellen, as sharp as ever as Jimmy Erskine – a film critic at The Daily Chronicle in London in 1934.

Erskine prides himself on his savagery of words for plays and actors he feels don't cut it, but he has a new boss in Viscount David Brooke, played by Mark Strong, who wants the nastiness toned down.

Things take its first turn for the sinister when Brooke dismisses Erskine after he and his lover Tom Turner, played by Alfred Enoch, are arrested for homosexuality.

The film soon brings to life its message of how ambition can seduce and how power can corrupt.

The pace of the film ebbs and flows enough to be annoying at points, but nails it at the big moments, particularly in the closing 20 minutes.

These days when there is a film or television series made every minute that purports to be a thriller, the competition is certainly tough to make it to the top of the list.

While enjoyable, intense in parts, and buoyed by being able to see Ian McKellen – whose career now spans more than 60 years – in a leading role again, The Critic would probably have drawn a few harsh words from Jimmy Erskine, which may or may not have been agreed on by all who watch it.

David Higgs' impressive cinematography was marred by countless shots of lamps, while Craig Armstrong's original music matched the era well.

All in all, The Critic is a worthy three-and-a-half stars.

Best-ever accolade for Port Elliot Show

By Deirdre Graham

Organisers of the 144th Port Elliot Show have announced it the “best-ever”, with record crowd numbers and entries in its competitions.

Publicity and Promotions Officer June Taylor said the show excelled all expectations across the weekend.

“This show broke so many records,” she said. “We had record gate attendances – I know we had 7000 on the Saturday.

“We (also) had record entries for all the categories, from woodworking to cooking to lego to scarecrows.

“I was talking to the art convenor Wendy Jennings and she said last year there were just over 200 entries, and this year we were up to 400.

“The trade stalls all said they had record sales, the food and drink stalls and sideshows were jam-packed with people, and the exhibits were of an extremely high standard.”

Equestrian events drew large crowds last Sunday at the Port Elliot Show.

Show-goers were blessed with “absolutely perfect” weather across both Saturday and Sunday, with media personality Peter Goers on hand to “woo” the audience with his comedy act when opening the event.

Port Elliot Show Society President Stephen Rogers thanked volunteers, sponsors, and the community for embracing the show as an important event on the annual calendar.

Schools in Brief

Eastern Fleurieu R-12 School

Eastern Fleurieu's Milang campus recently enjoyed a wonderful night of drama, dance, music and art at the annual Spring Concert and Art Exhibition.

Held in the Milang Institute, students performed Snow White and Her Fabulous Friends and The Real Story of the Big Bad Wolf, having learned all their lines throughout the term, and made their own props and costumes.

This was followed by the choir and a variety of dances students had choreographed themselves.

Families were then invited to view the range of artworks produced by the students throughout the year.

Goolwa Primary School

Goolwa Primary School students recently competed in the State Country SAPSASA Soccer Championship held in Adelaide.

Girls came from seven different schools across the zone, with Goolwa Primary's Alice and Maci being selected in the Southern Fleurieu Team.

The team performed well and came a narrow second to the Hills, winning eight out of nine matches.

Tyndale Christian School

In week 10 of term three, Tyndale Christian School's year 9 students embraced 'The Abyss' challenge as part of the Rite Journey program.

The 24-hour solo camping experience encouraged them to connect with nature and themselves, with no technology allowed.

Afterwards, they completed a 10km walk around Happy Valley Reservoir, returning home with a strong sense of achievement.

Historic Aboriginal leader immortalised with award

A former Strathalbyn resident will be immortalised in a brand-new SA Health Award that will be delivered to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander South Australians delivering exceptional care to advance health outcomes across the state.

The creation of the Dr Lowitja O'Donoghue Award for Excellence in Aboriginal Health was announced at the recent SA Health Aboriginal Workforce Network (SHAWN) Forum, honouring the late Dr Lowitja O'Donoghue – a revered pioneer and an extraordinary advocate for Aboriginal health and wellbeing.

Dr O'Donoghue, who briefly lived in Strathalbyn, arriving in town in 1983 and staying for four years - according to information from the 2017 booklet Down by the Riverside - died on Kaurra Land, aged 91, on February 4 this year.

The new award honours Dr O'Donoghue's legacy by recognising individuals and initiatives across SA Health that reflect her commitment to improving Aboriginal health and supporting Aboriginal workforce development.

"It is with great pride that the O'Donoghue family supports the announcement of the Dr Lowitja O'Donoghue Award for Excellence in Aboriginal Health, and to see our Aunty and Nana honoured through such an important award," Lowitja O'Donoghue Foundation Senior Project Officer, Deb Edwards, said.

"She opened doors and held them open for others.

"She would be so happy to know that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander led health excellence will be recognised and rightly acknowledged through the memory of her trailblazing leadership and work."

On behalf of Dr O'Donoghue's family, proud niece Deb Edwards of the Lowitja O'Donoghue Foundation and Lowitja Institute attended the SHAWN Forum to share her Aunt's remarkable legacy and to officially launch the award.

Letters to the Editor

Insinuations

As someone who has from time to time brought to public attention the voting performance of Alexandrina's councillors, including that of councillor Sue Miller, I must respond to her insinuations in recent letters to the local press.

She claims the high moral ground against critics of council, accusing them of creating "fear of verbal and social media attacks from those who think only their views or ways matter".

But in my direct experience, it has been the abusive public invective that has come from elected members themselves, including the Mayor, that has been most disturbing.

Trevor Harden, Milang

Drought response needed now

In the face of hardships across the entire South Australia agriculture sector at present, the farmers are inviting the Premier to a 'barbie'.

That is a reflection of the positive, resilient and friendly nature of our farmers, but it also reveals that feel they are not being taken seriously.

The perception that 'South Australia finishes at the toll gate' shows the frustration at the State Government's lack of focus on our regions.

It is rare to have so many parts of our $1.8 billion farming sector all facing such huge challenges at one time.

The comparisons with previous droughts, frost events and adverse market conditions is stunning.

Rainfall this year in some districts is even less than the terrible 1967 drought, with recent frosts being worse than any in living memory, and the value of some wine grapes less than paid in the 1980s.

Corbin Schuster made a good point about how sophisticated the leading modern farms are.

The current dry period and the frosts have been so serious that even the most efficient, well-prepared farmers are being impacted.

People would be stunned at the level of sophistication and professionalism in the propagation and year-round production of the tomato businesses north of Adelaide.

This needs a huge investment in equipment and people.

This type of expertise is now common in leading farming businesses across the state.

The growing level of frustration in our regions is palpable.

I have previously made the comparison at how readily a previous Labor Government dedicated $50 million towards Holden in response to market setback, yet it is ponderous in its action to look after those hard-working people in regional South Australia who grow our food.

This is not a call for a hand-out.

It is a justifiable request for the South Australian Government to help our besieged farming sector through one of the toughest times in memory to underpin future sustainability.

I call on the Premier and the Minister for Primary Industries and Regions Clare Scriven to accept the generous offer to join these farmers for a barbie and, while there, to listen.

More importantly, commit to real action.

Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Council

Our View

Thursday, October 17, 2024

Turning off the phone

The dangers of social media for all of us are well-known now.

Who hasn't experienced seeing a post on a platform that paints yourself in a negative light?

Throw in deep fakes and artificial intelligence, and how can most of us keep track of developments in the social media world, especially those of us who have previously spent most of our lives without it, and find themselves feeling forced to keep up with every change?

It is difficult to deal with people who place comments on social media which they would never say to your face, protected by anonymity.

It is hard for most of us to deal with our personal concerns about social media, and how we or loved ones are depicted, let alone protect them.

It was therefore unsurprising that when The Southern Argus journalist Tara Nash spoke to Goolwa Secondary College students about the SA Government's plans to tackle the dark side of social media, they recorded their own concerns about bullying, body image issues and leaked photos.

South Australian schools will now deliver evidence-based programs focused on preventing or mitigating issues it.

The curriculum will have content on coercive control, strategies for detecting deep fakes, understanding artificial intelligence and the impact of negative online influencers.

Meanwhile, children up to 16-years-old could be banned from social media by the end of this year as the Federal Government considers legislation, while the State Government has proposed social media companies ban users under 14 or face fines.

All these measures may sound a little extreme, but such is the reality of the damage of social media, they are one step forward in helping our young people to live in a safe environment.

While plus sides include being able to keep up with friends and family, and having information at your fingertips, it's more than time to tackle the damage being done.

Going pink at Strathalbyn Tyre Service

By Deirdre Graham

Strathalbyn Tyre Service staff donned pink clothing last Friday to help spread the message about breast cancer and raise much-needed funds to tackle the disease.

The decision by the Harrip family followed Dunlop's announcement that it would donate $50 for every pitstop made at the Bathurst 1000 on Sunday.

"We wanted to coincide with Dunlop donating the $50 per pit stop, and also cancer is close to our hearts," Katherine Harrip said.

"We have both lost family members to cancer, so we wanted to give back and coincide with Dunlop."

On Monday, the Harrips happily reported they had raised more than $1300 to donate to the National Breast Cancer Foundation – $524 from online donations, and another $700-or-so through the collection jar at the office, which will now be deposited in the bank.

Over the past four years Dunlop Tyres has donated more than $40,000 to the National Breast Cancer Foundation.

According to the NBCF, breast cancer is the second most commonly diagnosed cancer in Australia and the most common in women.

Every day 58 people in Australia will be diagnosed with breast cancer, equating to more than 21,000 people being diagnosed each year in the country.

Around 1000 women aged under 40 are diagnosed with breast cancer each year.

Meanwhile, every year 3300 Australians will die from the disease.

Since the NBCF started funding in 1994, the death rate in Australia has reduced by more than 40 per cent, thanks in part to research in prevention, early detection and new and improved treatments.

Strathalbyn Tyre Service marked the day with a sausage sizzle, tea and coffee, and baked goods such as brownies, cookies, rocky road, jelly slice, jelly cakes and cupcakes.

Strath Players members Callie Wilsona, Veronica Plane, Wade Shiell, Mandy Quinn, and Grace Colliver star in Waiting for Gateaux.

Gym or Gateaux? That is the question

Strath Players upcoming play is the smash New Zealand comedy Waiting for Gateaux.

At the Motivators Health Club, cake and chips always take priority over weights and exercise for its dwindling members.

They really do want to get fit and are absolutely committed to the major food groups – chocolate, wine and chips – but all that changes when a developer moves in and threatens to take it all away.

Maureen, played by Mandy Quinn, has created a safe space for locals to socialise and she is joined by a motley group – Jackie (Veronica Plane) escaping a lousy husband, her goth-obsessed sister Whitney (Grace Colliver), perennial bachelor Donald (Wade Shiell in his first role with the Strath Players) and – shock horror – a real life new member Sophie (Callie Wilson).

Sophie is dangling something juicier than fried chicken – an opportunity for the Motivators to star in their own reality TV show.

Of course, any icing on the cake quickly melts when circumstances trap them in the club overnight.

Waiting for Gateaux is a feel-good comedy, full of physical antics and belly laughs.

It opens on November 15 and runs for three weeks.

Art celebrating 'family and connectedness' launched at Goolwa Wharf

With a submission that connects the past to the present, emerging artists Amber Cronin and Anika Gardner, alongside contemporary Ngarrindjeri and Narangga artist Cedric Varcoe, celebrated the installation and launch of their public artwork Hearthstone at the newly redeveloped Goolwa Wharf Precinct.

Looking to deepen their connection with the Helpmann Academy and emerging visual artists, the K&S Langley Family had a bold, ambitious idea in 2020 to commission a large-scale public artwork in the heart of the Goolwa Wharf Precinct.

The K&S Langley Family had many fond memories of holidaying in Goolwa over the years and wanted artwork that is reflective of the quality family time they and many others had experienced in the township.

Together, the Helpmann Academy and K&S Langley Family brought the project to Alexandrina Council.

From June to December 2021, a select group of artists were required to develop and present to a judging panel concepts that responded to the themes of 'family and connectedness'.

With a submission that thoughtfully connects the past to the present, in early 2022, emerging artists Amber Cronin and Anika Gardner were declared the recipients of the Helpmann Academy Major Public Art Commission for the Goolwa Wharf Precinct, with their artwork Hearthstone.

"I've cherished Goolwa for years, making countless memories with my family here, so seeing this public art project come to life fills me with immense joy," Sarah Langley said.

"Supporting artists like Amber Cronin, Anika Gardner, and Cedric Varcoe in bringing their vision to the Goolwa Wharf Precinct has been a truly rewarding experience.

"I believe art has the power to transform spaces and evoke powerful emotional responses, and this project beautifully connects the area's rich history with a hopeful future.

"I couldn't be prouder to help create something that reflects the love and warmth of Goolwa."

The significant commission, valued at $150,000, came at a time when Australia's arts and cultural sector has been devastated due to the ongoing impact of the pandemic and the economically precarious position many artists, especially emerging, found themselves in.

Helpmann Academy CEO Jane MacFarlane was instrumental in facilitating this major commission.

"I am so proud of the work we do at the Artists Amber Cronin, Cedric Varcoe and Anika Gardner launch their piece. INSET: Alexandrina Mayor Keith Parkes speaking at the opening on October 6.

Helpmann Academy to provide career-defining opportunities for emerging artists," she said.

"Large-scale, public artwork commissions like this do not come around often.

"To partner with one of our long-term donors as well to celebrate their connection Goolwa was a pleasure and privilege."

The judging panel was impressed by the way Amber Cronin and Anika Gardner spent extensive time connecting with a wide cross-section of the Goolwa community.

Hearthstone is a sculptural work imbued with a sense of discovery and curiosity, featuring designs by Mr Varcoe.

The three main elements to Hearthstone are family gatherings nodes (etched granite stones), reed like forms (steel and bronze) and alluvial stones (granite boulders).

These sculptural motifs are a nod to the natural lightness and buoyancy of the place, a sense of water flow and with an appreciation of the effects of changing seasons that are present on the Goolwa waterfront (sun, cloud cover, wind, and wet weather).

The node stones are engraved with drawings and stories of place from the first people of Goolwa, collected and presented through working collaboratively with Ngarrindjeri, including Jekeyere, Kuti the cockles, Nori the pelican and The Seven Sisters.

For Anika Gardner, the experience has had a positive impact on her career and overall skills development.

"This commission has been a huge learning opportunity," she said.

"It has been really great to see how people from Goolwa have started to engage with the work even through install, and I am super excited to see how it helps to facilitate Cedric Varcoe's drawings, sharing the indigenous histories and stories of the place."

For Amber Cronin, the level of trust given to her as an emerging artist and the collaboration she experienced are some of the big take outs she will remember.

"It is rare to be trusted to work on such a large-scale project at this early point in a career, so it was an honour that the curatorial team and stakeholders from Goolwa, who know Goolwa so well, saw the value in this public work of becoming part of their place," she said.

"It was a pleasure to have the opportunity to conceptualise something for this special and unique place, and see that all the way through from idea to realisation.

"I learnt so much over the course of this project, and had the opportunity to work with such a broad spectrum of professionals and stakeholders that it feels like a massively collaborative project.

"It was amazing having an opportunity that we could work so closely with the site and stories of Goolwa and the surrounding Alexandrina area, as well as having the privilege to work so closely with Cedric Varcoe on integrating these stories he holds back into the landscape."

Hearthstone is positioned near Signal Point within the Goolwa Wharf Precinct.

It links place throughout the precinct area, creating a sense of story with repeated sculptural and landscape motifs.

Cittaslow Goolwa launches At the Wharf season

By Deirdre Graham

Cittaslow Goolwa launched the first of its 2024/25 'At the Wharf' community concerts at the Signal Point Deck and Lawns on Sunday, October 6.

The concerts are normally run from 5pm to 8pm on the last Friday of each month between October and March, but also on Sundays of the two long weekends throughout Daylight Saving period.

Live music from bands such as Slipway – which performed on the Sunday event – kept people entertained, with Cittaslow Goolwa supplying beer, local wines, and a Paella, while food vans such as that from Clark Street Catering were also in attendance.

Cittaslow Goolwa Secretary Christine

Putland said about 300 people enjoyed the event, helping consume 78 bottles of wine and 80 bottles of beer.

Cittaslow Goolwa is a volunteer and community organisation that delivers a whole-of-community approach to promoting quality of life and sustainability in towns and cities based on a partnership between local government and communities.

Money raised by the organisation is funnelled into projects such as the Goolwa Friendship Seat – a mosaic seat near the Cittaslow building in the town.

Members pay a small fee to join and are treated to a yearly program that includes regular food and wine gatherings, and sessions that teach them to make different types of art.

Alexandrina's gardens delight judges

The best of the blooms were crowned at the Strathalbyn Show last Monday, October 7. This year's garden competition saw five new and five returning entrants, along with seven who have missed a year, participate in the garden competition.

Entries were inspected before the show, with the judging panel travelling to Strathalbyn and surrounds through to Clayton Bay and Belvidere to visit gardens.

The weather on judging day was cool with light showers, making it an ideal day for photographs, but not an ideal experience for the judges.

Awards and commendations in the various categories of the competition were then presented at the Show on Monday.

Judged by Garden competition convenor and retired TAFE horticulture lecturer Christine Elliott, past Strathalbyn Show Grand Champion Garden winner Maria Maxwell, and Alexandrina councillor Craig Maidment, Grand Champion Garden was awarded to Strathalbyn's Noel and Ronda Elliott, with Jenny and David Thomas coming runner-up.

Meanwhile, Most Improved Garden since 2023 went to Tony Amigo.

Results / judges comments

Front and Back Garden First prize and Champion Front and Back Garden – Noel and Ronda Elliott, Strathalbyn

This garden is picture-perfect and worthy of a postcard.

The lawn is manicured and the garden is immaculate.

The Yew topiary adds interest, and the plants look lush and healthy, especially the veggie patch.

The front garden is very colourful and the back garden has an enchanted feel with the choice of garden ornaments.

There is also an array of espaliered fruit trees and gigantic veg.

The lilac was in flower and gave our noses a treat.

Large or Rural Living Garden First prize and Champion Large or Rural Living Garden – Sandy Mulcahy, Clayton Bay

This garden is a new entry to the competition and is full of interesting features.

There is an outdoor shower and a bathtub, and many water features of varying sizes to suit frogs, lizards and snakes.

Much of the material used has been from recycled items such as the decorative path made from bits of concrete and broken pavers.

One of the plants in the garden smells like 'roast meat' when in flower and there is a sneaky fox that insists on eating the apricots.

Mass planting of indigenous species have been used to create a windbreak.

Low Maintenance or Waterwise Garden

First prize and Champion Low Maintenance or Waterwise Garden – Tony Amigo, Strathalbyn

Many South African plants adorn this garden.

There are Leucodendron, Leucospermum and Protea, all growing with zero irrigation, making an attractive feature of the front garden.

Tony also has a variety of fruit trees like olive, apple and plum growing along the side fence.

New garden beds have been established in the backyard and Tony informed us that the secret to a no water use garden is deep mulch.

The Thelma Pfeiffer Perpetual Memorial Trophy was presented to Catherine Hopkin who won Grand Champion with her rose by Thelma's son, Rex Liebelt.

Most Colourful or Cottage Garden

First prize and Champion Most Colourful or Cottage Garden – Erica Morgan, Strathalbyn

A large Echim in flower draws the observer into the small front garden also containing roses and a variety of geraniums.

The back garden has many 'rooms' of interest to explore, each having a distinctly different feel.

Many of the plants were heavily pruned over winter to encourage lots of new bushy growth.

With several of the plants being pruned to a standard, of interest was the 'cloud daisy' – a group of Euryops daisy plants – allowed to grow tall, but the lower foliage had been removed to create a pleached effect.

There are a variety of plants in the garden, especially salvia, which were in flower on the day of judging.

The Wisteria – a single and double form – also in flower put on a beautiful display.

First prize and Champion Most Colourful Garden – Helen Stacey, Strathalbyn

A new entry to this year's garden competition, Helen has many artifacts and garden art from the farm.

The bluebells also came from Grandma's garden.

The Dutch iris put on a great display and the Astroemerias were adding a lot of colour.

Even the natives were adding colour to the garden.

A real palette of interest and colour.

New Garden, first time entered

First prize and Champion New Garden, first time entered – Ruth Anderson, Strathalbyn

The small front garden has a very 'cottage' feel about it, with raised garden beds full of flowering plants and vegetables.

The beds are arranged in a geometric pattern and a stunning garden feature ornament in the centre is the show piece.

The side garden has a newly established garden bed with box hedges, bordered by lawn.

The entertaining area at the rear has a hedge of Manchurian pears for screening and privacy.

Encouragement Award –

Christopher Wright, Strathalbyn

Christopher is a new entrant to the garden competition and to Strathalbyn.

He decided to clear the kerbside of years of soil accumulation and ended up with enough soil to create a small garden bed on the verge.

He then planted many Californian poppies and other flowering plants to brighten the area.

Christopher also has a myriad of plants in pots waiting to be rehoused on the verge.

Keep up the good work.

Business Presentation

First Prize and Champion Business Presentation – Oasis Gardens Restaurant & Function Centre, Michael and Christine Steinert

It is always a pleasure to visit this garden, which has the feel of a subtropical holiday destination.

Many of the palms are now mature and provide a canopy for many more plants to be grown at lower levels.

More garden beds and structures have been added to the front of the restaurant and are waiting to be planted out.

Of interest was the new shade house area which was built around, and incorporated, mature palm trees.

Inside is a beautiful water feature surrounded by ferns, bromeliads and fuchsia.

Future development of this area includes seating for visitors.

First Prize and Champion Spick and Span Garden – Jacqueline and Kay Dobrilla, Strathalbyn

A very neat and tidy garden with not a weed in sight.

The front garden contains tightly clipped hedges and standard roses surrounding a lawn and garden ornamentation.

A side gate leads to a newly paved area surrounded by a high hedge and a lemon tree which, in turn, leads to a shady area containing ferns, camelia, hydrangea and lots of baby tears.

The back garden to the left contains a large paved area flanked by a succulent garden, and to the right is a lawn area bordered by colourful annuals and perennials.

Very pretty.

First Prize and Champion Diverse Garden – Jenny and David Thomas, Strathalbyn

The variety of plants in this garden is incredible.

A smorgasbord of plants creating much interest and conversation; a veritable mini botanic garden.

There are many manicured trees and a clipped hedge, as well as espaliered fruit trees.

Australian natives are interplanted with exotics creating a harmonious look and feel.

Garden ornamentation and art is extensive as are the many potted plants around the verandah.

The lilac was starting to flower and was a delight to the senses.

A definite pot-pourri of plants.

Seeking donations for Christmas hamper drive

By Deirdre Graham

Planning is in full swing for one of Strathalbyn's biggest social welfare projects – the Strathalbyn Inter Church Council's Christmas Hampers initiative.

Last year the campaign delivered 221 hampers to support 600 people, covering an area from Strathalbyn to Langhorne Creek, to Ashbourne and Callington.

This year organisers are expecting an even greater demand as locals grapple with the ever-increasing cost of living.

"The idea is that the community provides for the community, so the help groups that exist in the district such as Pantry Club, Strath Neighbourhood Centre, Milang Old School House Community Centre (MOSHCC), and St Vinnies work together as a unit throughout the year, connecting with each other when needed, along with some community 'ring-ins' to help make it all work," Spokesperson, Sue Eckert, said.

"The need is a reality, so we need to see what we can do to help people's journeys.

"It is not what anybody would want – to be in that position – but sometimes the needs are not necessarily because people are poor, sometimes it might be because there has been sickness in the family and they just need a help up, not a hand out."

Names of those needing help are sent in via referral from help groups, schools, churches or individuals as long as you can deliver the hamper in person.

The Christmas Hamper Committee has begun buying items now and is calling for help – either via monetary donations or non-perishable items – to take advantage of discounts.

"We have discovered, particularly last year, that once the Christmas Pageant goes on in Adelaide the specials are all Christmas food, whereas now the specials are half-price," Mrs Eckert said.

"We endeavour to buy ordinary food, not Christmas food, so that families can then choose what they like for Christmas.

"Money is the bottom line in the sense that it gives us a buying power that we don't have otherwise."

Hampers are packed on December 6 for families, couples and single people.

People can leave donations at the Churches

Book Shop in Strathalbyn, and are asked to check the use by date and refrain from Christmas food, pet food or perishables.

"If people have the basics then they can go and buy the specialty items they like, so if they want a special Christmas cake, they can go and buy that for their Christmas," Fellow committee member, Paquita Wise, said.

"If people just donate one item that certainly helps us."

A small army of people come together for the transfer and packing process, but it is kept small to prevent "chaos".

"It is just an incredible thing to be involved with as a community," Mrs Eckert said.

"It is community helping community, and that is really the essence to the story."

Donations can be made until December 4. To donate straight into the hamper fund, use the following details for transfer:

- Account name: Country Life Compassion
- BSB: 035-094
- Account number: 300441

If a receipt is required for the donation, email (ckerber@ecochurch.org.au) with a name, amount and contact number.

Hotel opening pushed back to November

By Deirdre Graham

The Callington Hotel's re-opening has been pushed back to November, as its new owners finish ticking off heritage listing compliances.

The hotel has been closed for about eight years, with more than $3 million worth of upgrades spent by owners across the time.

Operations Manager Sarah Manhire said its new owners want everything in place before opening the doors.

"We don't have a date locked in yet," she said.

"As you can imagine we are trying to tick everything off in compliance with the heritage listing, and Planning SA is taking a little longer than expected.

"We are aiming for November.

"We are updating the website and we are, every couple of weeks, posting on socials just to tide it over, but we will let everyone know, and send a bulk email out when we do have the actual date."

Ms Manhire said positions at the hotel were yet to be announced.

"We have contacted people and just let them know there has been a delay, but that everyone is still in the running," she said.

"I don't want people to leave jobs and then be static if we have another delay.

"Especially with the employment market and the cost of living at the moment, I don't want anyone to go a week without wages."

Ms Manhire said works were "getting there".

"Every time I go down and have a look, I am getting very excited," she said.

"I think people are used to the delays... but because we made ourselves known, had a presence and made a bit of noise it is a little bit more believable than what it has been over the past seven years or so.

"We are just trying to make sure we have everything running to start with.

"We don't want to start with no kitchen, no pokies or anything, so we are just trying to get everything right."

It is expected a minimum of 20 to 25 staff will be employed at the venture once it is opened.

SA Wooden Boat Festival Committee members Cr Peter Oliver, Dave Lloyd, Greg Button, Chairman Mark Harvey, Nigel Robinson, Cr Milli Livingston, Stephen Doxey, Vice Chair Ruth Jurevicus, Tony Ziemek aboard the PS Oscar W.

Registrations now open for 2025 Wooden Boat Festival

The countdown is on for the 2025 South Australian Wooden Boat Festival (SAWBF), which is returning to the historic Goolwa Wharf on the weekend of April 26 and 27.

This biennial event celebrates South Australia's rich maritime heritage, with boat enthusiasts, locals, and visitors enjoying a spectacular display of wooden boats, live music, local food and wine, family entertainment, and cultural experiences.

At the helm, 2025 Festival Chairman Mark Harvey is steering the new SA Wooden Boat Festival Committee.

A major partner of the SAWBF is the South Australian Tourism Commission (SATC), which has awarded funding through its Regional Event Fund, ensuring the success of both the 2025 and 2027 festivals.

This funding for two festivals will allow the event to continue showcasing wooden boat traditions and South Australia's river heritage, while highlighting council's $18 million investment in the Goolwa Wharf Precinct.

"The SATC funding helps us celebrate not only our maritime history, but also the transformation of Goolwa's Wharf Precinct, which has undergone significant restoration to the heritage-listed Goolwa Wharf and Wharf Shed, and upgrades to the Signal Point Experience Centre and surrounding area," Alexandrina Mayor, Keith Parkes, said.

"It ensures the sustainability of an event that has become a cornerstone of our community and draws attention to Goolwa's unique maritime heritage."

The 2023 festival drew 12,000 visitors and generated an estimated $2.8 million in economic benefits for the region, earning the event a finalist position in the 2023 National Economic Development Awards.

The festival is expected to feature more than 100 wooden boats, new and old, and under sail, steam, motor or paddle, providing visitors with the rare opportunity to explore these beautiful vessels and engage with their owners.

A festival highlight will be the heritage paddlesteamers, including the PS Oscar W and PS Marion, which will be moored at the wharf, offering scheduled cruises throughout the festival weekend.

Boat enthusiasts are encouraged to register early, with boat registrations now open.

For more information on the event, including boat registrations, programs, merchandise, and more, visit (www.sawoodenboatfestival.com.au).

Raine & Horne Strathalbyn | Rural SA

What initially drew you to the Real Estate or Property Management industry?

My family has always bought and sold property, so I guess initially this sparked my interest. But it just fits my personality. I honestly feel I found exactly what I'm meant to be doing, and I love it.

How would you describe the current state of the real estate market?

We are still currently in a seller's market. It's more price sensitive than it was 12 months ago. This just means the right agent, price and presentation are all very important decisions again. Time on the market has slightly shifted out but Strathalbyn has still seen more than 10 per cent growth so far this year with our median price now at $635,000. Although we have seen a few more properties hit the market recently, supply and demand are still driving our property market.

What valuable lessons have you learnt throughout your career in real estate?

How important my time is, backing myself and being confident and sure with my decisions. This comes with knowledge and experience. Focus on your clients and not the next sale. The best business is repeat business.

In your opinion, what qualities help to make a successful Real Estate or Property Management Agent?

Confidence and a proactive attitude. Be genuine, be sincere and always keep moving.

What steps do you take to stay updated on market trends and real estate regulations?

Consistent training and regular emails and updates from our governing body with information on legislative changes.

What do you enjoy doing in your leisure time to unwind and maintain balance?

Spending time with my wife and three children, London, Parker and Bowie. They'll love getting a mention. As a family, we are very social and have a close network of friends so an opportunity to catch up with them is always great.

Harris Real Estate

What initially drew you to the Real Estate or Property Management industry?

Real Estate is an industry that centres around people – I am very much a people person. Interacting with people of all ages, hearing their stories while working alongside of them and assisting on their real estate journey is a fabulous experience.

How would you describe the current state of the real estate market?

The Strathalbyn market remains strong and tightly held. Once simply a stop on the way to the South Coast, Strathalbyn has now become a sought-after lifestyle destination. There is still a limited supply of properties hitting the market, and when they do, competition is strong. This has led to a holding pattern, with many hesitant to sell due to concerns about finding their next home.

However, we are seeing a return of subject-to-sale and finance clauses as cash offers slow slightly, resulting in more movement than this time last year.

What valuable lessons have you learnt throughout your career in real estate?

At Harris Real Estate, our core values are:

- Think like a customer
- Grow as a leader
- Work as a team

These principles offer valuable lessons, not only for real estate but for life as well!

What do you enjoy doing in your leisure time to unwind and maintain balance?

Even during my leisure time, I stay engaged with real estate—whether it's a quick scan of the property section in the newspaper, a look at listings in a real estate window, or visiting an open home while on holidays. That said, nothing beats spending quality time with my family at home or while on holiday!

Leah Chandler

Harris Real Estate

What initially drew you to the Real Estate or Property Management industry?

As a young child, I loved reading the real estate section of the newspaper, especially studying the floor plans. I later developed relationships and friendships in the industry that drew me in even more.

How would you describe the current state of the real estate market?

Strathalbyn is experiencing impressive results. It's clear that when presentation and marketing are done well, buyers will come and offer good prices. In the hills, we're seeing a slower trend, with properties still selling, but the competitive atmosphere has diminished.

What valuable lessons have you learnt throughout your career in real estate?

I've learnt that building genuine relationships and providing exceptional service are crucial to long-term success.

In your opinion, what qualities help to make a successful Real Estate or Property Management Agent?

During my time in real estate, I've discovered that helping clients sell their most significant asset involves more than merely listing and selling properties; it's about crafting a memorable experience. Key qualities that contribute to this include strong negotiation skills and the ability to have open, honest discussions with clients about pricing and marketing.

What advice would you give to first-time home buyers or property investors?

I would encourage first-time homebuyers not to lose hope despite current market conditions. Connect with a finance broker to assess your borrowing capacity, begin visiting open homes to familiarise yourself with pricing, and register with all local agencies' databases.

What do you enjoy doing in your leisure time to unwind and maintain balance?

In my free time, I love participating in parkrun, taking holidays with family and friends, and enjoying time in nature.

Ray White Strathalbyn Selling Principal

What is the state of the current market?

In 2024, Strathalbyn and its surrounding markets display remarkable resilience in the face of evolving economic conditions and market dynamics.

The ongoing growth trend signifies the enduring appeal of this region for property investors and homeowners alike.

While the growth rate has tempered somewhat compared to the rapid expansion in early 2022, the market remains a robust and stable environment for real estate transactions.

This consistent growth indicates that Strathalbyn and its neighbouring areas continue to be sought after destinations, providing a secure and prosperous real estate landscape for those involved.

What is the best way for a vendor to market their property?

To successfully market a property, vendors should partner with an experienced real estate agent, produce captivating visual content for online listings and social media, set a competitive asking price, and explore additional strategies such as home staging and hosting open houses to draw in and engage potential buyers.

What do you believe makes a great real estate agent?

An exceptional real estate agent is distinguished by their top tier communication, adaptability in the face of changing circumstances, and expert negotiation skills and qualities that have been thoroughly tested over the past four years.

At Ray White Strathalbyn we focus on these core attributes to guarantee a seamless and successful sales experience.

What do you do in your leisure time to relax?

On my days away from the office, I also serve as an auctioneer for other offices in the city.

I find this experience valuable as it allows me to refine my skills as a sales agent and auctioneer, gain insights into how different agencies operate on a regular basis and leverage these learnings to enhance our own business, ultimately providing the best possible results for clients.

Ray White Strathalbyn is proud to present this meticulously maintained 2002-built Tim Phillips home situated on a spacious 735sqm allotment, nestled in the highly sought-after River Banks Estate.

The home features a spacious Master bedroom, complete with a walk-in robe and a generously sized ensuite.

Each of the additional bedrooms is fitted with built-in robes, ensuring ample storage space throughout.

The open-plan living area seamlessly integrates the kitchen, dining, and living spaces, creating a bright and inviting hub for family life.

With impressive 9ft ceilings and new ducted reverse cycle air conditioning (Toshiba), the home is as comfortable as it is stylish, ensuring year-round climate control.

The kitchen offers plenty of storage and is equipped with electric cooking and a dishwasher to cater to your culinary needs.

French doors lead from the living area into a charming sunroom, providing the perfect spot to relax and enjoy the natural light.

The laundry has been thoughtfully designed, featuring modern built-in cupboards for extra functionality.

Ceiling fans are also installed throughout the home for added comfort.

Outside, the home continues to impress.

A 1kW solar system and solar hot water contribute to energy efficiency, while the single garage with automatic door provides secure parking.

An additional carport (3.9 x 6.4m) with a 2.5m clearance and a pitched roof offers extra vehicle storage or room for a boat or caravan.

The outdoor space is ideal for entertaining, featuring a covered area with a pitched roof that offers a great view of the beautifully landscaped garden.

The garden is a highlight, filled with native trees, shrubs, and grasses that are both low-maintenance and water-efficient, helping to keep water bills down.

Additionally, there's a garden shed with wooden shingles and a concrete floor, providing ample storage for tools and equipment.

A rainwater tank connected to the home further enhances sustainability and reduces water costs.

Offering peaceful living in a family-friendly environment, the home is ideally located with easy access to Strathalbyn's local amenities, including shops, medical facilities, schools, and sporting hubs, making it the perfect choice for those seeking both comfort and convenience.

Expand or establish your best 'Ag' ambitions on 242 high-performing acres. This property on Dry Plains Road spans 242 acres of first-class cropping country and offers a rare opportunity to make your rural ambitions a reality in a highly respected farming region.

Striking the idyllic balance of country calm and small-town convenience, the property sits just moments from Strath's heart, ensuring it's shouldered by every vital family essential.

Continuously cropped using best-practice agronomic and farming methods, the land has consistently produced solid yields and healthy returns, rewarded by a decent annual soaking courtesy of its reliable 475mm (19-inch) rainfall belt.

Overall, the well-balanced, light loamy soil provides an excellent and versatile foundation for almost any agricultural pursuit.

With three road frontages - including sealed access via Dry Plains Road and unsealed Koennecke and Bremer Station Roads - and SA mains water and power connections, the scope for both a residential showpiece and substantial infrastructure is virtually infinite.

As peaceful as it is practical, this country life is a short car ride to schools, medical services, retail, entertainment, food, and fitness; discover a rich and rain-blessed acreage to aspire to, entry level or otherwise.

It's first-class cropping country that is a true-blue silo filler.

A Mount Compass dairy farmer and industry leader is concerned about a price reduction in milk announced by Coles and Woolworths last week during a season that is “drastically” impacting farmers.

The two supermarket giants announced a reduction of its generic branded milk by 5 cents a litre last week, marking the first reduction since 2011.

This comes as Coles and Woolworths face legal action from the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission over pricing practices.

South Australian Dairyfarmers' Association President Robert Brokenshire believes the move could be a short-term gain for consumers, but a long-term strategy by the retailers to push out other brands and dominate the market share, and then hike up their price.

A Woolworths spokesperson claimed the supermarket has no control of the farmgate price paid to farmers, but rather, it is up to processors who supply the product.

They claimed the price reduction was struck between milk processors and supplying dairy farmers.

“Changes in the milk price flow directly into the price we pay our milk processors for our Woolworths brand milk - if the milk price goes up, we pay more, and when it goes down, we pay less,” a spokesperson said.

“We've reduced the price of Woolworths branded milk to pass on the savings we're receiving from our milk processors.”

A Coles spokesperson claimed the price reduction was “an investment made by the business” and farmers will be unaffected as they follow guaranteed farm gate prices.

“Through longer-term one, two or three-year contracts, farmers are offered greater security of income so that they can invest back into their farms and make them more sustainable,” they said.

Direct sourcing farmers were reportedly offered contracts at the beginning of the 2024 financial year up to 2026.

However, Mr Brokenshire is doubtful of this reasoning after hearing from many processors that costs are high, like many businesses in the current climate.

“I don't trust what Coles and Woolworths have done here,” he said.

“They already damaged the dairy industry when they had their $1 litre milk war.

“Milk is still the cheapest protein of the lot and in order to keep South Australian jobs and competition long term with many processors, I'd appeal for people to still buy the branded milk, not the Coles and Woolworths label.”

This comes as the dry weather conditions are “drastically” impacting farmers, with Mr Brokenshire believing rain now is too late to salvage the season.

Farmers needed good rain a few weeks ago to potentially have an average result.

With the flow on impact to other businesses, he believes hundreds of millions of dollars could be lost across the state.

“It's become one of the toughest seasons that I've known in all my years of farming,” Mr Brokenshire said.

“It's going to hurt our region because dairy and other farmers input costs have increased with the dry (conditions) and the returns are down because production... has dropped as a result of the lack of rain.”

Around the Strathalbyn and Finniss region, farmers were also impacted by frost recently which resulted in much grain being cut short into hay.

He believes the main Fleureu region is in OK conditions, however, further east including Murray Bridge and past Langhorne Creek are badly impacted.

Mr Brokenshire - who is a former member of the South Australian Parliament - is expecting the State Government to offer support such as subsidies to reduce the impact on the economy.

The State Government failed to respond by deadline.

Alpacas make 'great friends' for local farmer

By Deirdre Graham

Ambersun Alpacas at Mount Compass is home to more than 1000 of the fluffy animals, where they are farmed for wool, meat and tourism.

The 240-acre farm was started in 1992 by second generation alpaca farmer Mitchell Williams' parents – Chris Williams and Adrienne Clark – and has grown from there.

They have about 1000 alpacas at the Mount Compass property and a few hundred others at farms across Europe, dotted from Denmark, to Norway, Finland and Sweden.

"My mother saw them at the Adelaide Show in the early 1990s, if not the 1980s, and fell in love with them," Mr Williams said.

"My father was a stock agent, and she begged and pleaded for some alpacas until basically my father said 'if they were going to do it, they were going to do it right', and what you see around you is the product of that idea.

"They made some good investments in the early days, bringing some elite genetics out from South America and North America to Australia and revolutionising the alpaca industry here."

Alpacas are known for their beautiful nature, but not as common is their emotional intelligence.

"They are very attractive animals," Mr Williams said.

"They have a lovely look about them, but they are also very emotionally intelligent.

"When you get to know them they have great memory, they make friends, have favourite places, and mourn their dead.

"An alpaca can live for about 20 to 25 years, so you can develop quite long relationships with them.

"They are just a remarkable animal, and I guess that was the reason for us – we just gelled with them enough that we decided we wanted to go into them full-time."

At Ambersun Alpacas the animals are grown mostly for wool.

"It is mostly wool, but to sustain any industry you need to make money where you can to support the business," Mr Williams said.

"There is a small percentage of animals that don't really fit any criteria for the wool business – maybe they have some sort of defect or may be overly aggressive – so the meat side of the business is necessary.

"The meat of the animal is very lean, high in iron and high in protein, and I think in terms of cholesterol, it is one of the lowest cholesterol meat that you can eat, so very healthy, but also very palatable and mild in flavour."

Alpacas are shorn once a year in November at Mount Compass, with alpaca shearers in high demand and almost able to name their price.

Shearing is just one of a few care items the animal needs.

"Depending on the area in which they live, they may need their nails trimmed once or twice a year," Mr Williams said.

"Alpacas, where they came from originally, were used to climbing on rocks and over harsh terrain, which would wear their nails down enough that they didn't have to be trimmed.

"Because it is very sandy in Mount Compass, their nails tend to grow quite long, so part of their care regime is to trim their nails.

"Sometimes they might require some dental work if they have a tooth issue, but apart from those things, that is all the care they require."

Alpacas are known for being able to defend sheep flocks from predators – a trait born in the Andes Mountains where they are preyed on by cougars.

"If they see a dog or a cat they don't know, or a fox... they are very good at warding those predators off because they will tend to treat their sheep as their babies," Mr Williams said.

An alpaca enjoying the cool weather.

"Alpacas do tend to take the role of guardian of the herd, and when it is a group of mixed alpacas, it is generally the biggest toughest female that takes on the role.

"They do actually elect a sort of matriarch to protect the herd, and if they perceive a threat, they make a warning noise that alerts everyone."

Ambersun Alpacas also export to South East Asia where the industry is growing, including in China, as the economic opportunities in Europe decrease.

They are known as "induced ovulators".

"If an alpaca wants to mate, a male will sing a female a song, and if she hears the song and decides it is good, she will sit down and let him mate, and that process starts ovulation," Mr Williams said.

"If she decides he is not a good singer then she will spit on him.

"They are most likely to mate in spring, particularly after they have had their coat shorn off – that is when they feel most inclined." They also have a sweet tooth.

"If they do escape they will run to the garden and will eat every rose they can find," Mr Williams said.

"They love fruit and vegetables, but generally, all we will feed them is grass, and then if the season is late, in autumn we might start to feed them hay just to substitute until the rain starts."

Mr Williams is hoping the alpacas will help draw tourists to the farm, where the family has installed three cabins on the edge of wetlands that are teeming with wildlife, and are in the midst of building a café and kitchen overlooking the water.

It is hoped the development will be completed by Christmas.

Eastern Fleurieu students continue to thrive

In 2024, Eastern Fleurieu R-12 School continues to thrive as a vibrant multi-campus community.

Throughout the year, students have embraced a variety of developmental opportunities.

The school's unique multi-campus structure with five campuses – Ashbourne R-6, Langhorne Creek R-6, Milang R-6, Strathalbyn R-6, and Strathalbyn 7-12 – builds a strong community, fostering collaboration and growth for students at every stage of their education.

Principal Ian Kent highlighted the school's dynamic spirit.

"From the youngest in reception to the experienced year 12s, our students have embarked on a remarkable journey of exploration, discovery, and achievement," he said.

"At EFS, we prepare students not just for academic success, but for the world beyond the school gates.

"Our approach extends far beyond traditional learning, encompassing activities in agriculture, the arts, sports, music, outdoor education, science, mathematics and future pathway programs."

Students regularly come together for spirited sports competitions, musical performances, and productions.

They also challenge themselves physically through outdoor activities, and engage with the wonders of science and mathematical challenges.

The school takes a holistic approach to education, employing deep learning and multidisciplinary strategies.

A Show of surprises: Callington prepares for 'fresh' line-up of acts

By Giorgina McKay

Ironclad medieval fighters, strong-armed men, and the best of the region's genoa and fruit cake recipes are among the many new additions to this year's "fresh" Callington Show.

Held on Sunday, October 27, the state's youngest country show will return for its 21st year, bringing with it a range of entertainment and attractions, both new and old.

Among the new additions to the list are the tartan muscle strongman and highland games, ironclad medieval fighting and living display, Ukrainian dance group, and performances by the SA Police Band and Scoot the Stunt Juggler.

Callington Show President Clive Wundersitz said there's always so much to see and do, and this year's Show will be no different.

"We've got quite a lot of new young people on our committee this year, so we've got a different line-up of events," he said.

"We have the police band and it's not just a few, it's the whole group - about 32 - so that's going to be quite something.

"We've got a celebrity bake-off of the chocolate cake, then we've got a composting and preserving demonstration by Kate from Recipe, Roots and Reasons, which is going to be in the community centre, which should be quite interesting.

"We've got Scoot the Stunt Juggler demonstration workshop - he is a local guy, so we are proud to use him up."

The Show will be spread across two ovals and the hall across the site.

The new Show Pavilion which was officially opened earlier this year will have the blacksmiths at work, paddock-to-plate display, miniature garden, and upcycle and

The Show Society also has the honour of hosting the Southern Country Shows Association rich fruit cake and genoa cake championship.

Open judging will be held at 2pm on the day, with entries accepted by 4pm on October 18.

Mr Wundersitz said the Show is a family and cost friendly event all can enjoy.

He hoped to get 6000 people through the gate.

"It is known to be one of the best country Shows," Mr Wundersitz said.

"It's usually regarded as a great family day.

"There's something for all the family, and there's so many free things to do and see, so you're not delving into your pocket all the time."

Gold for the Geues at Australian Transplant Games

By Deirdre Graham

Strathalbyn couple Penny and Greg Geue have returned triumphant from this year's Australian Transplant Games – with a gold medal apiece.

Mrs Geue, taking part as a kidney transplant recipient, competed in golf, pétanque, and table tennis, while Mr Geue, taking part as a supporter competitor, competed in 10 pin bowling, pétanque, and table tennis.

Mrs Geue's gold medal was in the ladies stableford golf, while Mr Geue's was in 10 pin bowling at the Canberra event that was from October 1 to October 6.

Speaking to The Southern Argus last week Mrs Geue said competing at the Games was a way to give back as she approaches five years of having had a kidney transplant, needed after being diagnosed with polycystic kidney disease, a genetic disorder.

"My kidney is from a living donor who is actually my husband's cousin, which is a little bit unusual," she said.

"I hadn't been very well... probably for a year.

"I had a pre-emptive transplant, so I didn't have to go on dialysis at that stage, and my specialist suggested I look for a living donor, and I had five people tested – friends and family.

"My living donor, the one I have got now, when she said she wanted to be tested, I knew it was going to be her, I just had that gut feeling.

"Then when she was a match, I just cried because I knew... It was like a dream come true, and I was just so fortunate and so blessed, because I could be on dialysis now, and have no quality of life."

Langhorne Creek Bowls

Lacklustre start for Hawks bowlers

It hardly seems like a few weeks ago we put our bowls away for the winter, and here we are out doing it all again.

Our club opened its season in the middle of September with a social game of two bowls triples, with the winners being awarded the McAnaney Shield.

We all enjoyed a free barbecue lunch before the game, then socialised after with a couple of drinks, and cheese and nibbles.

The beginning of October saw us travel to the Jervois Club, where we had four rinks contest a trial match to smarten up our game.

Overall, we lost the challenge by one shot, so a good hit out for our members.

Jervois then supplied us with a chicken schnitz tea.

We then enjoyed some good fellowship over a drink or two before heading home – a good social night.

Saturday was the start of our pennant season.

Sadly, due to a lack of numbers, we have had to withdraw our Div 6 team.

Our Div 2 team travelled to Willunga and had a competitive match all day, but no points scored for the Hawks.

Div 4 fared a little better at Yankalilla, where, with quite a few different team members, they managed a draw, a loss by one shot, and other rinks a bit more.

We are hoping for better results next Saturday.

Milang Bowls

Low numbers disadvantage Milang

Milang Bowling Club began this season with eight new members playing, who are settling in very well.

A few older members are recovering from operations and other health issues, while some are still on holidays and others with family commitments, therefore, we struggled to fill positions this week.

Thank you to Robert who substituted in a winning rink.

He bowled very well and scored a few shots.

Bill Weston played his first pennant game and in a team that had a draw.

Div. 3 played against Goolwa Black, who were too good on our green.

Lee's rink won by three shots to be rink of the week.

Kevin's were 13-24 and Glen's 10-24.

It will take a few weeks for players to settle in and teams to be consolidated.

Div. 5 played against Aldinga Bay who are used to grass and adapted better than we did.

Pam's rink didn't fare well against experienced opposition, ending in 8-27.

Peter's managed a draw of 13-all, with scores close all afternoon.

Heather's managed to hold on to win by one after a good lead earlier.

Friday night teas have resumed, being held first and third weeks each month.

Bookings with the secretary are essential.

Presidents Open Fours is on Friday, October 25, so that will be a busy day for the ladies catering again.

Good luck to all team members for next Saturday.

Colin Goodrich.

Shannon Jones leads Tigers to round one win

Tigers young gun Shannon Jones played a brilliant hand with 88 runs (99) to lead a new look Tigers A Grade outfit to victory over Bremer/Callington in round one of the 2024/25 AEHCA season.

With Adam Clements back from Kensington, he assumed the captaincy at Tiger land, with Nathan Fitzgerald and Grayden Brand the dual captains at the Cobras.

Clements won the toss and batted in beautiful conditions at Murray Road.

The Cobras were hoping to repeat last year's upset victory over the more fancied Tigers outfit – their first in 23 years – with both teams fielding some inexperienced A Grade cricketers in the opening clash of the season.

Shannon Jones opened with Dan Kropp, with the left-handed Jones striking the shot of the day with a glorious cover drive for four from Nathan Fitzgerald first ball of the innings to set the tone for the Tigers.

Fitzgerald and Brand both bowled steady with some good line and length, but Jones pounced on anything with width outside off stump, with some fabulous cut shots and cover drives to the short boundary on the clubroom side.

Kropp took the backseat and poked around, supporting Jones, with the openers taking the score to 77 before Kropp was caught in close to a sharp catch by Milloy at short mid-on from the bowling of off spin from Johnny Fitzgerald.

Jones was running along at a-run-a-ball, as he played shots all around the ground and looked comfortable on a slow pitch.

He brought up his 50 in the 17th over. Jagga Kotz played the supporting role, as the Cobras rolled out the slow bowlers during the middle period, with the bowling hard to get away – the Tigers 1/95 (23) at drinks.

Jones continued on his merry way and was keen to loft the ball over the infield when required to keep the scoreboard ticking along at four runs per over.

Kotz found his rhythm and started to up the tempo before Jones fell 12 short of a well-deserved century with a LBW to J Fitzgerald, playing a reverse sweep with 10 boundaries.

Kotz fell not long after for 40, trying to push on with an easy catch to mid-off.

Veteran Ben Warren, in his 28th season of A Grade cricket, kept the runs ticking along at a-run-a-ball before skipper Clements departed for 10 and Warren was run out for 21.

Off-pace bowling on the slow pitch made batting harder as the innings went on, as the Tigers were forced into singles and twos, with Blackwell and Michelmore pushing the score along 7/230 from the 45 overs.

Johnny Fitzgerald was the pick of the Cobras with 3/45, while Nathan Fitzgerald took 2/55 from his nine.

Troy Blackwell started off with some venom, with the new ball for the Tigers hitting the pitch hard, with Adam Clements pushing into the slight breeze from the Len Potts end.

Blackwell struck in the seventh over, removing Heath for 13, with Warren introduced two overs late and quickly removing the dangerous Brand and Johnny Fitzgerald in two balls to leave the Cobras in strife at 3/26 from 11 overs.

Port Adelaide district player Michael Kudra held away and looked solid from his end, as he punished anything with some width and threw the bat over the infield when required.

Warren removed the former Tiger McMurtrie with a sharp chance to Kotz at short cover, and the Cobras were just about done at 4/31.

Brad Clements started to run through the Cobras, knocking over Kudra, Milloy and Buwalda, but Nathan Fitzgerald was punishing anything short, as he kept the score ticking over.

Cade Tonkin on debut stepped up with the ball, bowling a great line and removing Jayden Smith, as the Tigers celebrated with gusto on Tonkin's first A Grade wicket.

Fitzgerald struck a lovely half-century, but he was left stranded, as the Tigers celebrated their first victory in 2024/25 by 107 runs.

Brad Clements took four wickets and Ben Warren three, with the Tigers hoping to regain some players for the trip to Lobethal next week in the Grand Final rematch.

Eye of the Tiger

The Eye of the Tiger was a keen observer on Sunday as former Australian cricketer, albeit one game, and the last Redbacks title winning captain in 1995-96, Jamie Siddons, took a Siddons coaching masterclass for our junior Tiger cricketers at Tiger park.

Jamie introduced some modern techniques which surprised our super coach Chris Nutt and colleagues, with all coaches looking to teach a dour style of cricket before Jamie's inspirational attacking coaching techniques were poured onto the local Tigers.

It was great to have one of Australia's finest coaches come down and show our young Tigers the way.

Plenty of key take-aways were had before Jamie snuck down to our sponsor Bremerton Wines for a delicious pizza lunch topped off with a Coulthard Cabernet and some gin.

The A Grade, despite being a few players down, made light work of the Bremer/Callington Cobras, with Shannon Jones pouncing a fantastic 88 runs before playing a reverse sweep which he has never attempted before in any form of cricket.

Captain Clements was pumped with his first victory as skipper, and will be hoping to regain some players for the clash at Lobethal next week in the Grand Final rematch.

It was good to see Ben Warren back for his 28th year of A Grade cricket at the Tigers, with the veteran keen to add more silverware to the cabinet.

Cade Tonkin became player number 444, which was great to see, with grandfather Bill Tonkin presenting Cade with his first A Grade cap.

Bill spoke fondly of his time at the Tigers.

He is a 200-game Tiger, Life Member and club patron, and enjoyed seeing another Tonkin added to the Tigers' history.

The B, C and D Grades all start up this week, with the 10s and 12s kicking off Friday night and the 14s and 16s back for season 2024/25 too.

Congratulations to Jayden Michelmore, Shane Nurse and Craig Filsell who will all lead the B, C and D Grade this year.

On Thursday night we have our juniors season launch, so come along, and enjoy a barbecue and a beer before the season kicks off.

See you at the cricket!

Eastern Falcons 2024-25: Round 1

Falcons defeat undermanned Marion

On Sunday at Strathalbyn Oval, the Eastern Falcons played against Marion in round one of the ATCA Women's Second Grade competition.

The Falcons lost the toss and batted first.

The Falcons were in capable hands with Rebecca Hull and Emily Roberts opening the batting, and they saw out the innings in a dominant display.

Hull top scored with 80 not out off of 75 balls, while Roberts was close behind on 72 not out off of 69 balls.

Both batters hit their highest ever scores for the Falcons.

At the end of the 20 overs, the Falcons were 0/188.

Pace led the Falcons' bowling charge and it proved a big task for the young, undermanned Marion team.

While they played out 14.1 overs, Marion found it tough to score and were all out 6/20.

Player of the day for the Falcons was Hull.

The Falcons will play their next game against Woodville South at Ledger Reserve this Sunday, October 20 at 1pm.

For more information about the Eastern Falcons, follow them on Facebook and Instagram.

Strathalbyn cricketer bestowed third All-Australian honour

A Strathalbyn cricketer is now a three-time AFL Masters All-Australian after being named in his team's best for this year's week-long competition.

AFL Masters (AFLM) provides the opportunity for male and female players aged 35 and over to enjoy the game of Aussie Rules Football in a safe, supportive, family-orientated and fun environment.

Each year a National Carnival is held, which provides the opportunity to players to represent their state in what is the largest AFL carnival event in Australia.

Held in Fremantle from September 29 to October 5, this year's competition saw a few South Australians represent the state across the different age categories, including some locals.

While SA won no premierships this carnival, two representatives were named in one of the All-Australian teams.

Mount Barker's Andrew Bailey was an All-Australian in the Mens 40s while Strathalbyn Cricket Club Secretary Chris Hanley was named in the Mens 40s – his third consecutively.

The club took to Facebook to congratulate the Stallions member.

"Anyone who has played with or against Chris won't be surprised by this honour given his silky skills and competitive edge," it wrote.

"Chris has now represented SA at three national carnivals and been recognised with All-Australian selection at all three – an outstanding achievement.

"Great work, Chop."

Under 14s Mixed

Hahndorf (14) def Team Redsox (7)
BEST: Sophie Flynn and Thomas Johns (Hahndorf), and Nathan Golder and Ollie Gray (Redsox)

A fun game to kick off the start of the season.

Hahndorf scored 7 runs in the first inning, highlighted by strong baserunning, which put pressure on the field, which was backed up by some strong fielding to hold Redsox to 2 runs.

Highlights from the field included a fly catch back to pitcher Sophie Flynn and a sharp throw to second base from catcher Will Faber-Paul which saw a tag play to prevent the runner advancing.

Hahndorf again scored 7 runs in the second innings.

A line drive by Thomas Johns through centre field scored two runners, while a safe hit by Hayden Bunn through second safely scoring those runners on base.

Redsox were well-led by pitcher Nathan Golder who also had a hit out to centre field to score the runner.

Hahndorf held Redsox to 5 runs in the second and finished the innings with another great tag play between Faber-Paul and Thomas Johns at third base.

Under 16 Mixed

Mount Barker Redsox (5) def Hahndorf (2)
BEST: Luca Bholanat and Lucas Whinnett (Mount Barker Redsox), and Thomas Johns and Lucy Weatherstone (Hahndorf)

Hahndorf Magpies faced off against Mount Barker Redsox in the opening round of the 2024/25 season, with Redsox taking the win 5-2.

The Magpies scored 2 runs in first innings with hits by Lucy Weatherstone and Georgia Fairley.

Pitcher Sam Hancock stopped any further damage with two K2s.

Weatherstone, on pitching debut for Hahndorf, kept Redsox scoreless with two K2s and an out at first.

Redsox needed only three batters for the required outs.

Leadoff batter Will Faber-Paul picked a walk but was out at second on the steal after a great throw by catcher Luca Bholanat.

Hancock continued to dominate with two K2s.

Weatherstone pitched two K2s before hits by Lucas Whinnett and Oliver Gray helped Redsox score 3 runs.

Weatherstone stopped any further runs with an out at first.

It was a repeat of the second innings, with the leadoff batter picking a walk but being thrown out at second by Bholanat.

Hancock threw his fifth K2 and a catch by second-baser Nathan Golder saw the Magpies return to the field.

Redsox scored an additional 2 runs, with Whinnett getting his second hit of the game.

Weatherstone continued her great game with three K2s, bringing her tally for the game to seven.

A Grade Women

Hahndorf (10) def Pirates (9)
BEST: Georgia King and Brea Luxon (Hahndorf), and Mackenzie Hunt-Bredl and Tracy Roberts (Pirates)

Up-and-coming young pitcher Lucy Weatherstone started well in her first A Grade game for Hahndorf, striking out two of the first three batters.

However, a pair of walks, a hit by pitch, and an uncharacteristic error from shortstop Abbie Bastian allowed Pirates to score the first 2 runs of the game.

Hahndorf returned fire in the bottom of the first after Bastian reached on a walk.

She advanced to third via a wild pitch and a steal, before scoring when Georgia King skied a ball that eluded Pirates' shortstop Jarrah Taylor.

A single to Brea Luxon drove in Megan Williams, and Hahndorf scored twice more to take a 4-2 lead into the second.

Hahndorf scored 2 more runs in the second, courtesy of a home run from Williams, a double from King, and consecutive singles from Luxon and Eliza Lovelock.

Pirates made a late charge in the top of the third innings, scoring 7 runs off the back of four safe hits, three walks, and an error to take the lead 9-6 going into the bottom of the third.

Bastian once again secured a leadoff walk, scoring off singles to Sophie Walton and Keira Trevorror.

King then sealed the deal with a 3-run walk off home run.

Weatherstone finished the game with five strike outs.

Redsox (10) def Strathalbyn (7)
BEST: Zoe Thomson and Lauren Christensen (Redsox), and Gab Martin and Brittany Jackson (Strathalbyn)

Redsox triumphed over Strathalbyn in a competitive softball match on October 11, securing a 10-7 victory.

Both teams demonstrated strong efforts at the plate, but it was Redsox who ultimately controlled the game with consistent scoring and sharp defensive plays.

Zoe Thomson led the way for the Redsox with a commanding presence, contributing both offensively and defensively.

Steph Hull, added key hits, and their teamwork was pivotal in building an early lead.

Strathalbyn's defence struggled to contain the Redsox's momentum, allowing them to score in five of the innings.

Lauren Christensen and Suvali Sharma also had notable performances, driving in runs and keeping the offense moving smoothly.

On the Strathalbyn side, Kim Cutting and Kathryn Pash were key players, with Pash managing to break through the Redsox defence a few times.

Despite solid contributions from Brittany Jackson and Gab Martin, Strathalbyn couldn't string together enough hits to match the Redsox's consistency.

They had a brief rally, scoring 3 runs, but it wasn't enough to close the gap.

Pitching played a crucial role in the outcome, with the Redsox's pitcher effectively shutting down Strathalbyn in key moments, leaving runners on base and minimising any serious threats.

Strathalbyn's pitcher fought hard but faced pressure from the Redsox line-up throughout the game.

In the end, the Redsox's offensive persistence and defensive sharpness led them to a well-earned 10-7 victory over Strathalbyn, showcasing their strength as a team.

B Grade Women

Hahndorf Black (7) def Pirates (3)
BEST: Vicki Perkins and Emma Faber-Paul (Hahndorf), and Margie Cammell and Tamika Wilks (Pirates)

Perkins had a solid game pitching, with a total of six K2s for the game.

Margie pitched well for the Pirates, and also hit a home run, which scored all of Pirates' 3 runs.

All ladies enjoyed a game played in good spirits, with smiles, laughs and banter shared between the teams.

Hahndorf White (5) def Redsox (4)
BEST: Danielle Vujic and Jess

Lovegrove (Hahndorf White), and Kylie Gray and Sandra Lions (Redsox)

A new looking Hahndorf White faced off against Redsox in the first round of the minor season.

In her debut for Hahndorf, Lisa Elliot took the mound, leading a tight defence that retired Redsox without a score in the first inning.

Kylie Gray in usual form responded for Redsox, starting the game with two K2s, also keeping Hahndorf scoreless.

The second inning saw Redsox break the deadlock, with Amy Goulder crossing the plate.

Danielle Vuijic for Hahndorf in the unfamiliar position of right field made a stand-out catch, showcasing her versatility.

For Redsox, Gray continued her strong performance with another strike-out, and Tayla Hardy made a catch at second base, retiring Hahndorf again.

In the third inning, Sandra Lions and Talia Moyle added 2 more runs for Redsox, while Elliot secured her first strike-out of the season in the Black and White.

Redsox's defence shone again in the fourth, with Lions making a catch at third base.

The fifth inning brought a highlight for Redsox – a home run from Kylie Gray.

Hahndorf finally got on the scoreboard, bringing in Nancy Johns, Jackie Pocock, and Jess Lovegrove to narrow the gap to 3-4.

In a tense sixth inning, Jess Lovegrove executed a double play to finish their fielding innings, giving Hahndorf a chance for a comeback.

Danielle Vujic hit a three-bagger, putting the tying run in scoring position. Elliot then safely hit, allowing Vujic to score and tie the game.

Pocock came up to bat, and with a big hit, brought in Elliot to put Hahndorf in front for the first time in the game.

She attempted a home run, but was tagged out by catcher Amy Goulder at home plate, resulting in a thrilling finish and a 5-4 win for Hahndorf.

C Grade Women

Macclesfield (11) def Hahndorf (8)
BEST: Tracey Wallace and Zarlee Winitana (Macclesfield), and Jemma Langford and Danielle Guilfoyle (Hahndorf)

A stunning day for round one saw Maccy take on Hahndorf in the C Grade Women's comp.

Maccy started with the bat against the formidable Hahndorf battery combo of Anna Bell and Kerry Lawson.

Leadoff batter Chloe Watkins drove to left to start Maccy off, and their batters continued to pepper the Hahndorf outfield, scoring 5 runs.

Hahndorf couldn't find an answer in their first bat, scoring just 1 run to Jemma Langford before the tight Maccy field went to bat again.

Maccy lost momentum in the second innings, despite strong hits from Valerie Pedersen and Anna Gotch – and no runs were scored.

Hahndorf took the lead over the next two innings, putting on 6 runs, started by a huge left field hit to the ever-dangerous Celeste Paul.

Maccy found their mojo and retook a commanding lead with only five minutes left to play.

Needing three outs to win the game, Maccy made it happen.

Pitcher Jerrilee Nash took the first out with a play to first and the next two batters went down in a matter of minutes, giving Maccy the win without a minute to spare.

Pirates (14) def Echunga (1)
BEST: Stephanie Zuzolo and Charlene

Klenke (Pirates), and Lilly Byfield and Molly Playford (Echunga)

The Pirates started the season with a great first turn at bat, getting 4 runs in with good hits to Stephanie Zuzolo and Brenae Wieringa.

Pirates' Charlene Klenke started on the strip pitching to Stephanie, walking the first batter Lilly Byfield who scored Echunga's only run with some clever baserunning.

Charlene tightened up her pitching, striking out the next batter and making a nice easy play to first for the second out.

Leonie Beattie made a smooth play at shortstop for the third out.

The tough day continued for Echunga, with the Pirates scoring 10 runs – the highlight a huge grand slam to Stephanie Zuzolo.

Charlene continued to pitch well, backed up by some great fielding by the Pirates' infield.

Pirates kept the pressure on in the third innings, scoring 6 more runs, and some good fielding by Echunga closed the innings.

Pirates made a pitching change, bringing in Brenae to finish the game, who was pitching well. But unfortunately, time ran out and the score reverted back.

A great start to the season for Pirates.

Div 1 Men

Pirates (3) def Redsox (2)
BEST: Jake Pendleton and Graham Klenke (Pirates), and Bodie Williams and Todd Wieringa (Redsox)

It was a tight contest early between Pirates' pitcher/catcher combination of Graham Klenke and Darryl Elliott, and their counterparts for Redsox in Harry May and Luke Moyle.

Walks to May and Bodie Williams in the top of the third innings set the scene for a Riley Karayiannis double to the outfield that would score May and Williams.

Pirates responded immediately with a safe hit to the recently subbed in Mitchell Butler, and he was scored on an inside-the-park home run to Jake Pendleton.

It continued to be a tight defensive contest for the rest of the game, despite a safe hit apiece to Redsox's Williams and Pirate's Pendleton that added to a run-saving catch he had taken at centre field earlier.

But Pirates made their move in the bottom of the sixth inning, with safe hits to Ben White and Andy Haren that scored the decisive third run, allowing Pirates to hold on for the win.

Div 2 Men

Hahndorf (8) def Macclesfield Red (2)
BEST: Dan Waters and Michael Luckett (Hahndorf), and Dale Martin and Brad Pearce (Macclesfield Red)

In an electrifying match, Hahndorf defeated Macclesfield Red 8-2, showcasing their dominance early in the game.

The highlight of the first inning was a hot start in which Hahndorf scored 6 runs, setting the tone for the rest of the game.

Mark Peressin made an impact early, hitting a home run in the very first turn at bat of the season for the Magpies.

Hahndorf's pitcher Dan Waters was a force on the mound, racking up seven strike outs and keeping Macclesfield Red's hitters off balance throughout the game.

Macclesfield's pitcher Coen McLeod made a solid effort to keep the Magpies at bay, only allowing a further 2 runs, occurring in the final inning for the Magpies.

Despite being the reigning Div 2 champions, Hahndorf integrated some young talent into their line-up, proving their depth and skill.

Pirates (11) def Macclesfield (6)

Macclesfield took hold of the bat first, with Pirates taking the field for the first inning.

The young Maccy side struck early and used their speed around the diamond, scoring 3 runs through fast baserunning and Pirates' errors.

With a Maccy side up and about, the Pirates dug deep to stop any more damage and got the three outs needed to bring the Pirates in to bat.

The Pirates, taking a little bit to get warmed up and into the game, went down with two early outs, but stayed disciplined enough to get a few men on base and capitalise on Maccy errors to get 3 runs on the board to tie up the game.

Maccy came back out with the speed again, being patient in the box and getting a walk and a hit to get men on base.

Some good softball plays were made by Maccy to swing in another 2 runs.

Some good infield work by Pirates grabbed the three outs to shut Maccy down.

Pirates had warmed up now, seeing Dave Klenke play it smart to pick up a walk and Dominic Sexton hit safely to get on base.

Jake Short also picked up a walk, which brought in Andy Haren.

The stage was set for Andy and he delivered, bombing one out to centre field for a grand slam.

The young Maccy side took a bit to get back into the game.

Pirates took advantage of this, holding Maccy to two scoreless innings, while Pirates slapped on another 4 runs to their score through safe hits, a couple of Maccy errors and 2 home runs from Keith Goodman and Dominic Sexton.

Maccy had a small chance of a comeback, but time was not on their side.

The Pirates showed they still have plenty of power left in the tank.

Mt Barker Redsox Blue (16) def Echunga Red (7)
BEST: Jack Hancock and Arran Yuill (Mt Barker Redsox Blue), and Mark Chilton and Patrick Butler (Echunga Red)

In a game where both pitchers went the distance, the difference was made in two innings where Redsox Blue brought all batters to the plate.

Both pitchers started well, with both teams scoreless in the first inning.

In the bottom of the second, Redsox Blue scored 5 runs, with a leadoff single by Arran Yuill starting the inning well.

Echunga Red struck back in the top of the third, scoring 2 runs to bring the game close.

However, Redsox Blue stretched their lead by scoring 8 runs in the bottom of the inning.

All of the Redsox batters had contributory turns at bats during the inning, with singles and walks keeping the line-up turning over.

Echunga Red scored in the next inning, with Gavin Richardson, Mark Chilton, and Caleb Richardson all scoring, and a double by Justin Baker driving in a run.

In the last two innings both teams traded runs, with Redsox Blue's pitcher Jack Hancock having the energy to hit inside-the-park home runs in the fourth and fifth innings, while closing out the game from the pitching rubber.

In an entertaining game which could have gone in favour of either team, Redsox Blue came out on top.

Light breeze and longer course for Goolwa Sailing Club's opening race

Twelve sailors hit the water on Sunday for the first round of the 2024-25 Goolwa Sailing Club dinghy series. The race started in very light southerly winds, which filled in a fraction as the race went on.

In a different format to last season, instead of three short course races, there was just one longer race for the day, which saw the fleet head north beyond the bridge before gybing and heading back to the club.

The longer legs gave sailors an opportunity to tweak sail trim and settings, and experiment with points of sail in the light breeze.

In the end, Lucas Byrnes won

Division 1 on yardstick in Barely Awake (Laser 4.7) ahead of Andy Harris in Purple Haze (Europe Dinghy) and Keegan Eatts in Aquaholic (Laser Radial).

In Division 2, the Optimist Dinghies saw yardstick results land with Sam Watters in Here Comes Trouble in first, Oliver Morris in Wild O in second, and Lucy Norris in Raider in third.

In personal handicap results for Division 1, Lucas Byrnes was first ahead of Marlin French in Freakshow (Laser 4.7), and Naomi Wall in Grey (Sabre).

In Division 2, personal handicap results were the same as yardstick.

Season sets sail at Goolwa

Goolwa Regatta Yacht Club officially opened for summer with a proceeding, picnic and live music on the weekend. Club patron Chris Short used his boat Dominant Star for salutes to mark the beginning of the season. The crowd was up and dancing to live music by indie/rock band Innate. Commodore, Brian Partridge, thanked everyone else involved, including special guest Julian Bethwaite for a "truly inspirational" speech. "A massive thanks and congratulations to the general committee and all the helpers who had a hand in organising or setting up," he said. "The weather turned it on for us."

The boat Champagne and its crew of pirates took out the best dressed prize.

Gold for the Geues at Australian Transplant Games

By Deirdre Graham

Strathalbyn couple Penny and Greg Geue have returned triumphant from this year's Australian Transplant Games, with a gold medal apiece.

Penny, taking part as a kidney transplant recipient, competed in golf, pétanque, and table tennis, while Greg, taking part as a supporter competitor, competed in 10 pin bowling, pétanque, and table tennis.

Penny's gold medal was in the ladies stableford golf, while Greg's was in 10-pin bowling at the Canberra event, held from October 1 to 6.

Speaking to The Southern Argus last week, Penny said competing at the Games was a way to give back as she approaches five years of having had a kidney transplant, needed after being diagnosed with polycystic kidney disease – a genetic disorder.

"My kidney is from a living donor who is actually my husband's cousin, which is a little bit unusual," she said.

"I hadn't been very well... probably for a year.

"I had a pre-emptive transplant, so I didn't have to go on dialysis at that stage, and my specialist (had) suggested I look for a living donor.

"I had five people tested – friends and family.

"My living donor – the one I have got now – when she said she wanted to be tested, I knew it was going to be her; I just had that gut feeling.

"Then when she was a match, I just cried because I knew... it was like a dream come true, and I was just so fortunate and blessed because I could be on dialysis now, and have no quality of life."

Leading up to her diagnosis, Penny was constantly tired, with waves of nausea that wouldn't go away.

Fortunately, her transplant surgery went smoothly.

"I don't think I was too scared (by the transplant process)," she said.

"I think it was more traumatic for my family actually and I think there could be more support for them.

"But the transplant nurses and the team at the RAH in renal were just amazing, and I didn't have any doubts with them – it was a really good process."

The Canberra games were the first nationals the Geues have competed at.

"I did get that gold in golf, which was really exciting," Penny said.

"I just wanted to play in it and do well, but I never thought I would get gold in a million years.

"I dedicated the win to my living donor, who is my super hero.

"And I won a bronze in the pétanque in the doubles, and Greg won gold in the 10-pin bowling, a bronze in table tennis, and a silver in pétanque."

The game pétanque sees competitors throw metal balls as close as possible to a jack while standing inside a circle with both feet on the ground.

The decision to take part started in April for Penny.

"I went to a session at the Royal Adelaide Hospital back in April," she said.

"Transplant Australia did a talk there about a few different things to do with diet, immunisations and things like that, and I managed to sign up to the SA committee of the Transplant Games.

"I went to a couple of meetings and met a few people, and they were all going, so Greg and I decided that we would go too."

Once in Canberra, the Geues met many people with similar stories.

"Everybody was there to have fun, but you always get a few people that are quite serious that have won gold at the World Games and wanted to continue that in Canberra," Penny said.

"The highlight was meeting the people because everyone is in a similar situation... listening to people's stories and supporting each other.

"There was laughter and it was emotional, and it was just a real feeling of togetherness, with everybody supporting each other.

"It was really special, and I can't wait to do it again.

"It was good for Greg too, as a support person, to meet other people."

Penny emphasised it was important for people who want to be an organ and tissue donor to discuss it with their loved ones.

"I want to encourage everyone to become an organ and tissue donor, and to register," she said.

"You can register online on Transplant Australia, (as) there is a link there to donate life.

"But have the conversation with your family and let them know your wishes because you could save lives.

"That was what was talked about a lot at the Games – getting people to talk to their families."

The Australian Transplant Games are held every two years, with the next one's location yet to be announced.

Penny is now on the committee of Transplant SA and is helping others.

"I want to help people, as it is really important now to get the message across, and just to support people in similar situations," she said.

"I am also a kidney buddy for a lady that is going through a similar situation that I went through, who is going to have a living donor who is a family member.

"She has an appointment to see her surgeon very soon, so I am talking with and helping her through it because I know what it is like.

"It's good to be able to help."

Greg and Penny Geue have each won gold medals at the Australian Transplant Games.

Strathalbyn Ladies Golf

Penny Geue wins gold and bronze at Games

Penny Geue arrived home from the Australian Transplant Games in Canberra with a gold and bronze medal around her neck.

On Wednesday, October 9, with the winter season ending, the 13 ladies who came out on a perfect golfing day, played a 12-hole Ambrose competition in teams of three or four.

The winners on the day were Mel Johnson, Cara Eastwood and Sue Pryor, 38.17, followed by Charmaine Aplin, Pauline Walkom, Sue Phillips and Jenny Drury with 39.88.

Next came Ann Semple, Christine Ciavatta and Jo Pickhaver with 40.17, with Jo Cullen, Penny Geue and Maureen Need finishing with 43.67.

The sighting of a koala very high in a gum tree on the second hole was the highlight of the day for one group.

There was no one in the dam or creek, as the ladies didn't play those holes – phew!

Nearest the pin on the ninth hole was won by Penny with a very nice drive on the Par 3.

The ladies held a sub-committee meeting, followed by a scrumptious shared lunch with a birthday cake for Marie Kingsbury.

Penny Geue with her Gold and Bronze medals.

Happy Birthday was wished to Marie Kingsbury.

Sue Pryor, Cara Eastwood and Mel Johnson won the Ambrose competition.

Paul Coombe heads the list

By Perry Jones

Paul Coombe headed the list of 37 players in the Stroke round at the Strathalbyn golf course last Saturday, coming in with a net 70 to win the day, ahead of three players with a net 72.

Paul, one of the morning starters and playing in B grade, had 47 off the stick on the front nine and went even better on the back nine with 43 off the stick to be two clear of fellow B graders Alan Haberfield and Henry Kelly along with C grader winner Damien Nettle all with a net 72.

Paul did have one let down for the round when he was only nine feet away from the hole on the par five 12th as his second shot landed on the green but he missed the eagle chance, then the birdie chance to finish with just a par.

There was an eagle scored on this hole by the A grade winner on the day in Phil Perrin when he putted in off the green, a feat he also did on another even numbered hole, but he was disappointed that the putting competition for the day was for the number of putts had on the odd numbered holes.

In his round Phil showed his ability with his putter needing to use it when pinned against a tree as he had three double bogies in his round and lost a ball on the 16th, finishing with a net 73.

Talking about losing things David Wright was not going that bad in his round until he had 22 shots on the last three holes to finish with a net 80.

Mike Semple was another going for an eagle in landing on the third in two, about eight feet from the hole but then with three putts having to settle for par, as he managed to par all the par five holes on the course.

But he made up for this missed eagle opportunity by losing a ball on the next hole to have a seven, ending on net 74.

Ben Clark with a net 76 and losing two balls during his round, mentioned that he missed a lot of birdie chances particularly on the par four fifth, when on the green in two but then had two putts.

Henry Kelly with a net 72 for the round helped his score along with a birdie on the par three sixth by putting in off the green.

Terry Merritt showed a bit of flexibility on the seventh when his third shot hit a skinny tree and bounced left to finish up against the boundary fence, so he implemented a back hand shot to somehow finish only 60 metres from the green.

Damon Mayes had one of his better days for a while with a net 70, picking up pars on the first and 10th and with no holes reaching double figures, although he had trouble hanging on to his putter on the last hole.

Double figures on holes were recorded by a few on the day, including Kim Wittwer on the 14th when his tee shot got stuck in a bottle brush bush to start with on his way to have 13 for the hole.

Dave Bell, with a net 85 for the round, had a day to forget when on the 16th went into the dam twice to have 10 on the hole, and on the 11th hit trees all the way to the green and with two putts had eight on that hole, and to add salt to the wound had a birdie chance on the tenth but his putt lipped out of the hole.

Troy Williams made some good recoveries during his round to finish with a net 74 in A grade, his first escape coming on the first hole when his second shot finished in the drain on the right near the cement culvert, but he then got the ball next shot to stay on the green and with one putt gained his par.

Then, after missing a short downhill putt on the fourth, had to hit a provisional tee shot on the fifth as the ball looked like it went into the creek, luckily finding his first hit just staying outside the hazard and with his second shot left the ball on the edge of the green to still pick up a par four.

To top things off Troy, on the last, took out the prize for the longest drive (0-18) hitting it further than Sean Walsh who had hit the ball further than Phil Perrin.

Brenton Welk scrambled well to recover on some holes particularly on the third when his tee shot finished in the trees on the left of the fairway, then his next shot went back across the fairway to just miss going into the drain behind the ninth tee block.

From there Brenton managed to go through the forest in front of him to land the ball on the back of the green and two putts later had his par five.

Brenton had a stroke of luck on the seventh when his very low tee shot disappeared down the hill as he waited to see if it had crossed the creek and emerge on the other side and run up the fairway which it did.

From there he was on the green in three and a chance for a birdie, but unfortunately he had three putts to get the ball in the hole.

On the eighth Welk got nearest the pin with his tee shot, being just a bit closer than partner Troy Williams, and as had been the case most of the day his long putt fell just short of dropping in for a birdie.

President Randall Pitt picked up two birdies on the back nine when, like partner John Owen, was on the 12th green in three and able to sink the putt, John missing by only a couple of inches.

Randall had a chance of a birdie on the 13th in landing on in two but a only had a par, while John made a meal of the hole with several short shots before getting on the green and luckily his putt fell backwards into the hole to make it seven for the hole.

The 14th caused Randall's group a few problems when off the tee Des Kelly finished up in the hazard behind the dam wall needing a drop, John also going right to be just out of the hazard, Randall having a long drive but still finishing just outside of the hazard and Red Sorrell not hitting the ball quite as far was also nearly in the hazard to the right.

While John was lucky in hitting a tree to get back onto the fairway Red's second shot only travelled about three metres and he then took his frustration out on the blue mental health tree smacking the ball into it as it flew back and nearly landed in the small dam to the right.

Red did get onto the green in five to have seven for the hole, the same as Des Kelly, while Randall, still having trouble with his putts just not dropping in, like John had six for the hole.

Tee shots on the 15th saw Randall land on the green to pick up a birdie two but Red was in trouble again with his tee shot landing in the trees to the left just over the creek.

A search found plenty of balls but not Red's so he went back to have another hit off the tee to finish with a double bogie five.

While Red's problems continued on the 16th by going into the dam, Randall had a few lucky escapes when off the tee his ball slammed into a tree on the left and somehow flew back up hill to be on the path near the ladies tee.

Then Randall had to play a shot close to the edge of the water in the dam, and then almost got his par five for the hole in as the ball was just off the green, however settling for a bogie six.

Red with his tee shot on the par three 17th found himself going into the trees on the right and with his next shot lost a bit of ground in hitting a tree in front of him to ruin that hole.

On this hole Randall's tee shot lobbed close to the green and when the players got to the green Randall's ball was nowhere to be seen, so Des said "you beauty it must be in the hole", but to Randall's surprise the ball had travelled further than expected and was just off the back of the green.

To add to Randall's disappointment his shot back to the hole hit Des's ball on the green and stopped what looked like a birdie chance.

Des, with his tee shot, had landed his ball on right edge of the green, but his first putt was wide which then got in Randall's way, and his second putt was short seeing him have four for the hole.

On the last Red's day was just about done when his tee shot finished near the 17th green and his next shot hit a tree in front of him to land on the 17th fairway to have seven on the last hole.

While Gordon Robson had a seven on the par three eighth, he was having a go at partner Alan Haberfield's effort off the tee here when the ball didn't go past the ladies' tee just ahead.

Alan was unaware that Gordon was having a lend of him until when in the club house it was pointed out by other players it was the ladies' 17th tee block that he didn't reach, as their eighth tee block was back on the fence behind the men's.

Players are reminded of the Longest Day of Golf to be held on the course on Sunday, December 8, in aid of the Cancer Council when 72 holes will be played.

For further information and entry the QR Code can be scanned on posters being put up around local shops and other venues.

BIDDING ANALYSIS

South 1S: Normal 5-c Major Opening
North 1NT: Balanced hand, doubleton in Spades.

This was an un-inspiring hand with some un-inspiring bidding, 1S – 1NT sounds like a classic bread-and-butter contract. One thing that my partner and I have as a policy is that a NT response is this sort of situation shows that the responder has exactly two in Openers suit: if there were 3 in the suit, there would be immediate support, if there were 1 or none, then responder would length in another suit, and if strong enough will show it, and if not a Pass is appropriate.

Another policy is to lead 4th highest against a NT contract so that we can use the Rule of 11 to work out what Declarer might have. In this case, the ♣7 was led. Subtract the number of the lead card from 11: 11 – 7 = 4 which means between the other 3 hands, there are 4 Clubs which will beat the 7. I look in my hand and see 2 of them, Dummy has the ♠Ace, so Declarer can have only one card which will beat the 7. That is what the Rule of 11 tells me. The two in my hand are Queen and 10, so my partner, who just made the opening lead has a long Club suit, so I had better not block the suit with my Queen. Nevertheless, I play the ♣2 from my hand just in case Declarer has the King or Jack, and I will sacrifice the Queen if I need to drive out the King.

Declarer must take the trick in Dummy with the singleton ♠Ace, and as soon as East gets in (and it won't be long!), the ♠K is led. If I don't throw the Queen under the King, the suit will be blocked, so that is what I did, and when it was followed by the ♠J, I threw the 10 under it, and East continued on to make 5 Clubs, ♠Ace, ♥K and ♦K, leaving only 5 tricks for Declarer, two down vulnerable. If I had not discarded my Clubs that way, N/S would probably have made their contract.

Was that being devious? No, it was simply reading the play and unblocking the clubs. Those un-inspiring deals have their redeeming features.

Murray Bridge Rifle Club

It was a pleasantly warm, but deceptively challenging day's shooting, last Saturday at the Deed Range in Monarto, as the Murray Bridge Rifle Club shot the 11th round of their club championship from 400 metres.

The first round saw lower than average scores from most, with 46.03, from Robert Paech, the best in TR ahead of 46s from Andrew Heard and Jasmine Irvine.

Mark Nesti did well in F-Class with a 58.03, ahead of Adrian Conlon with a 57.04 and Gordon Harrison with a 56.02.

The second round saw improvements from most, though unfortunately not from Mark, who, despite amazing sighters (24.02), could only manage a 53.03 for 111.06, which fell short of Adrian Conlon's 114.07, after shooting a pair of 57s, and showing consistency was the key.

Gordon Harrison was also consistent, with a 55.02 in his second round for a 111.04 to top F-Standard.

However, it was Adrian Conlon who managed to claim the day's handicap award in F-Class, narrowly beating Gordon 122.3 to 121.1.

It remained very close in TR in the second round, with Robert and Andrew both scoring 49s.

Rob won the day by the barest of margins, finishing 95.07 to Andrew's 95.04, with Jasmine only a point behind on 94.05.

Emerging victorious in the handicap for the first time, was Stephen Howard, whose 88.03, including a 45.01 in the second round, also gave him a narrow win, scoring 111.0 to second-placed Jazz on 109.6.

Not going away empty handed on the day, were Andrew Heard and Ryan Yeates.

Shooting continues next week from 600 metres.

Stephen Howard takes aim on his way to his first ever handicap win.
